Dear Dr Stirling

I am taking the liberty of writing you about the Principalship of Queen's University because I feel so strongly that the successor to Grant, Wallace, Mackintosh and Deutsch should be a man of national and international standing as a scholar and man of wide experience and vision. We need a man of some presence, a man who can command the respect of all faculties because of his breadth of understanding and involvement in both academic and public affairs in no narrow sense. If no such man is immediately in sight perhaps your Committee would consider ~~wise~~ ^{wise} to appoint an interim Acting-Principal while the search continues for the right man.

I hold no Queen's degree, but my 24 years as a teaching member of faculty and 20 years with administrative duties have given me a deep love for this University.

Sincerely yours

Albert D. Jones

Dear Dr. Douglas,

Indeed it's true - your "spacious mind embraces the earth and reaches to infinity." But the Review Alumni Review should have added,
"with an abiding interest and consideration towards all she met."

This is just a note from the past, hoping that you keep well and able to enjoy life in your customary form.

Yours always affectionately
Lois M. Burgess
