Foreword

This document has been compiled by Henk Pardoel, Queen's Athletics Sports Communication Coordinator and represents "131 Golden Gael" years. Henk an avid historian with a passion for Queen's has dedicated many hours to the completion of this project. As our alumni, faculty, staff and students past and present seek information about the uniqueness and proud tradition of Queen's Interuniversity sports, this publication will prove to be invaluable. Henk's "labour of love" will withstand the test of time and for his efforts and time commitment to this project, we are all very grateful.

Yours in Sport,

Introduction

Queen's Athletics has a rich sport history that extends well back into the early 1870's. One of the "Old Four" athletic institutions in Eastern Canada, the other three being McGill University, the University of Toronto and the University of Western Ontario, modern university sport organization is the product of our long standing association with each other. A number of sport organizations such as the Ontario Universities Association (OUA) and the Canadian Interuniversity Sport (CIS) began as a result of the early informal university sport association between the Old Four universities that included Queen's University.

Realizing the importance of accurately documenting the history of our seventy-five plus sport teams this rather ambitious project was started by the then Chair of Athletics, Rolf Lund in 1998. In order to make the claim that Queen's Athletics has traditionally supported one of the largest sport programs in Canada at the university level, the claim had to be substantiated. It was realized quickly once the project began that there were many gaps in both our team and individual athlete records. Dependent on the accuracy of those who kept athletic records in the past, it became painfully clear that much primary research would be required to recover the names of our athletes and season records of our various sport teams.

Record keeping is a huge challenge for those involved with documenting the daily business of a large organization, such as a university athletic department. Until 1998 our records were collected and stored in hardcopy, and through time and by virtue of a number of renovations to the Physical Education Centre, files were either misplaced or lost. The challenge confronting those involved in this project was how to access the required information to fill in the blanks. Unfortunately, as our athletic buildings were either moved or renovated in 1930 and later in 1970, our athletic files were moved to accommodate the work. Many historical photographs and important pieces of correspondence and memorabilia were either lost or discarded and as such, some of our most illustrious sport moments may have been lost, resulting in some gaps found within our current files. However, with this said, this three volume set is the most comprehensive record of accomplishments of Queen's athletes and sport teams to date. As our athletic records are now stored electronically it is expected that, as the years go by, our rich sport history will be retained for succeeding generations to acknowledge and to respect.

The primary research for this project was very labour intensive. Sport Award banquet programs and student yearbooks provided reasonably accurate athlete information going back until the 1960's. Prior to this time, team photographs and articles written in student newspapers provided team lineups and some individual accomplishments. Earlier team information from the 1870's until the early 1920's was found on titled team photographs, in student yearbooks, in student and university papers and local newspapers. Verification of records was aided by cross referencing against known university sport records and actual game day records.

The earliest documented intercollegiate sport team at Queen's University was association football. Known now as soccer, this team participated in formalized intercollegiate play in 1873. Prior to 1873, Queen's students participated in other sport activities that could be considered to be more recreational in scope. Students participated in snowshoe treks around Kingston, and marathon skating trips to Gananoque during the winter. Documentation for summer activities was not found during the primary research phase, and one can only assume that many students returned to their place of principal residence during the summer and formal sporting events ceased during this time period. The late 1800's, early 1900's witnessed the beginning of organized sport at the intercollegiate/varsity level for both men and women. As sport trends changed so did our involvement with sport, and over a period of 131 years Queen's Athletics has supported 75 different sport teams. Forty-one of these teams are still going strong to this day.

Queen's University has a formidable record of athletic accomplishments for a relatively small university if compared to larger universities in Canada such as McGill and the University of Toronto. Since 1873, Queen's athletic teams and individual athletes have won 358 provincial team championships, 574 silver or bronze team medals, 1,285 provincial individual championship titles, 91 individual provincial honours, 1,178 provincial All-Stars, 93 provincial coaching awards, 10 national championships titles, 10 silver or bronze national team medals, 31 national individual titles, 34 individual national honours, 156 national All-Canadians, and 12 national coaching awards. Queen's has also produced 41 Olympians in various sports.

With the completion of this project the primary aim to document our athletic history has been achieved successfully. The three volume compilation of athlete names, individual and team accomplishments, and sport results sets the foundation for recognizing the accomplishments of our student-athlete population base, and hopefully will lead to the development of an Athlete Hall of Fame in the not too distant future. The trilogy of books will also aid Queen's University in its quest to document the lives and past-times of its student body. To this end Paul Banfield, the acting Head Archivist of Queen's Archives, must be acknowledged for his encouragement and assistance on this formidable challenge.

The next step of this project is to examine each sport within the context of a broader classification, and to produce a series of in-depth books based on the chapter headings. The posting of the database on our website should hopefully inspire those having information, stories or photographs of Queen's athletes in action, to contact us and to help fill in any missing information that may be found in this document.

Senior water polo was in a ticklish position this year. The Athletic Board of Control declared the team "unorganized" and the Intramural Athletic Council ruled that the players were ineligible.

The team played McGill and Toronto in the fall term and lost to both teams through lack of experience. Against R.M.C. in the spring, the team was victorious.

Next year, the team hopes to see themselves "organized" and in a newly formed intercollegiate league (Tricolor)

Queen's Women's Intercollegiate Ice Hockey Team (1900 - until the present)

"It was stated that the members of the Love-Me-Little (girls) hockey team of Queen's College were thinking of challenging the Varsity hockey club to a friendly game. It was understood that their enthusiastic practise was held with a view to a match with Divinity Hall, but the Archbishop and two Patriarchs, thinking of the disastrous follies of their youth, sternly reprimanded the ambitious sports flock and sent them to bed with a warning never to think of it again."

Results:

A one point margin separated the Queen's BW&F Team contingent from Varsity, the ultimate winners of the Tom Gibson Trophy, in the Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms held in Toronto. When the Tricolor boys survived the night of competition, taking thirteen contestants into the finals, they looked to have the meet well in hand. The surprising victory of Powell of Varsity over Peever, the Tricolor welterweight champion, and the close decision given de Marco, the Blue and White contender over Smyth of Queen's spelled disaster for the Kingston Team. Intercollegiate titles went to O'Connor, Forsberg and Miller, of the wrestlers, and Baker, Ennis, Ewen and Peters of the boxers.

Completely routing visiting mitt and mat men Queen's won the Tom Gibson Memorial Cup, emblematic of the Senior Intercollegiate B. W. and F. Championship at the annual assault held this year at Kingston. Possessing a squad on which there were many newcomers, the Tricolor ring artists rolled up the largest point total ever recorded by a Queen's contingent, capturing no less than twelve titles during the two day meet. The boxers led the parade with seven clean cut victories to be closely followed by the wrestlers who won five finals. The Queen's victory was the highlight of the winter season at the University.

Every Tricolor win was a clean cut one, four of the boxers capturing titles by disposing of the opponents via the K.O. route, while the grunt and groan artists won their bouts in convincing fashion. Taken from the 1935 Tricolor Yearbook.

The Champion Queen's Intercollegiate Assault team went down to defeat at the hands of the McGill rivals, who won the event for the first time in six years. The Tricolor contingent, considerably weakened by graduation and retirement, captured as many events as the new champions, but were obliged to yield the title on the fencing points, which McGill won.

Two Intercollegiate title-holders were defeated, Tony Forsberg and Johnny Haight, which set the local team back in an unexpected manner. But three new champions were crowned in Chuck Carlyle, Gord Fredericks and Des Smythe. The wrestlers met exceptionally strong opposition from O. A. C. and Varsity, and were able to take only one championship in that division. The fencers were as usual handicapped by the lack of experience, but gave a good account of themselves. Two boxing champions, Sammy Smolkin and Jack Irving retained their supremacy in the bantam and lightweight classes respectively. In fact the boxers did rather well, for out of some 14 bouts engaged in during the weekend they won ten, scoring seven knockouts.

The Queen's Intercollegiate Assault team went down in defeat at the hands of the University of Toronto. It was only in boxing that the Tricolor squad won any championships. One wrestler went to the finals only to be defeated there. The fencing was dominated by the University of Toronto with Garcia of the U. of T. the individual champion.

The championships won by Queen's were boxing at 125 pounds, Smolkin; boxing at 175 pounds, McLean; and heavyweight boxing, Peck. Grant was the only wrestler to win his bout but he was defeated by Johnstone of U. of T. in the finals. Carmichael scored all of the Gaels 6 points in fencing while Peters and Sullivan scored no points (Written by Alf. Milton-Jones).

More than 2,000 people packed the Gym on Friday and Saturday nights Feb 25th and 26th to see Varsity win the honours in one of the most closely contested Intercollegiate Assaults in many years.

Despite the fact that Queen's did not win, she was well represented by a team instilled with the traditional Queen's spirit and sportsmanship.

Special mention is due Sammy Smolkin who, fighting his last fight for Queen's, won his fourth Intercollegiate title. Leo McDonald won his first Intercollegiate championship by turning in one of the pluckiest displays that Queen's has seen.

There does not appear to be any Queen's fencers on this team.

Athlete's names and team photograph found in the Tricolor Yearbook of 1938. Names and results were taken from the official Championship results record of 1938.

After this year the B. W. & F Team ceased to exist as a team. It appears as if fencing was dropped from the three sport team and developed its own league. With the departure of James Bews, the long-time Queen's Fencing Coach, fencing as a varsity sport at Queen's stopped until its revival in 1967. While the team retained its name of the Boxing Wrestling and Fencing Team after fencing was dropped from the lineup it did so for only one year during its 1938-1939 season. After 1939 the team was know as the Boxing and Wrestling team (B&W Team). This association continued until 1947 when the B&W team split and went their separate ways and continued as the Intercollegiate Boxing Team and the Intercollegiate Wrestling Team.

The Tricolor Boxing and Wrestling Team enjoyed a very successful season in 1939. Although only scoring three points in the annual Assault-at-arms in Toronto the team showed much promise. Eight Queen's men, five boxers and three wrestlers, were successful in the preliminaries, which were held on the first night of the assault. However, on the second night of the assault, Queen's ran into some tough competition from the Toronto Varsity Stable. One boxer, Leo MacDonald, and two wrestlers, Orval Wells and Peter Malachowski won championship titles. The team on the whole was well balanced and had a great deal of punch. The fine work of coaches Gord McMahon and Jack Jarvis may certainly be commented upon. These two men gave the Club a great deal of themselves and their memory will long be retained in the hearts of the young men who had the pleasure to be coached by them. Queen's are proud of the team that represented this year. Written by Pete Malachowski.

Boxing Referee: Tommy Sullivan

Wrestling Referee: Captain J. Cowley

For the fourth year in succession the University of Toronto won the Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms and the championship. This year a scrappy Queen's team came a close second, only a fraction of a point behind. One Queen's over varsity would have won the assault, but no alibis were offered.

The best team for a number of years represented Queen's at the new McGill gymnasium. Well trained and rugged and aggressive, the Tricolor gave its best and made a fine showing.

Four Queen's men, two boxers and two wrestlers, were declared Intercollegiate champions. Johnny Evans, Peter Cain, George Neuman, and Ira Brown each won in their classes and contributed largely to Queen's success. Ernie Miron, Joe Loucks and Joe Bardswick also did well in overcoming preliminary hurdles and competing in the finals.

The Queen's coaching staff, Jack Jarvis and Gord McMahon, did a great job in building a new team with a minimum number of veterans as a nucleus. Graduations may not hurt so much this year and the team is looking forward to another season's competition. Written by P.M. (Peter) Malchowski.

In spite of the cancellation of the Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms, which was scheduled to be held on the Oil Thigh battleground, the club resolved not to take a defeatist attitude and soon gathered around itself a sturdy group of fighters and grapplers, and added new gloves, medical supplies, and a light punching-bag to its store of equipment.

The wares of sock exchange were first bared on February 1st, when our boys out-punched the Vimy Signallers by a lop-sided score of eight victories to two, with the five wrestlers making a clean sweep of their billet doux.

On February 27th the boys entered the ring for the Q.W.A.C. Ambulance Campaign and staged a really snappy and vigorous exhibition of boxing and wrestling with opponents from Regiopolis, R.M.C., Norman Rogers Airdrome, and Kingston City.

NOTE

Intercollegiate competition was canceled from the fall of 1940 until the spring of 1945.

Finale

By all accounts it appears as if the Boxing and Wrestling teams ceased to exist as a combined team after the 1947-1948 season. Splitting into two separate Intercollegiate sport leagues boxing continued at Queen's as an Intercollegiate Sport until 1963. Wrestling continues until the present as a co-ed sport and participates on both the OUA and CIS level.

Queen's Mens Association Football (Soccer) Team 1884-1885

There seems to be some discrepancies as to who is the champion this year because the final game ended in a tie. There are many articles in the Journal that report the "Varsity" the Toronto paper, claimed the cup, but the Journal comes back to support that Queen's are the champions. The Journal states that "Of course the Torontos, true to their nature, claimed the cup, but the question was not, nor has it been since, definitely decided. The cup remains here and our team is prepared to defend it."

The Queen's Rifle team came second in the Intercollegiate competition, first place being taken by the University of New Brunswick. This achievement is the more noteworthy since practices were greatly handicapped by bad weather in the fall.

During the winter term the team has competed on the indoor range in the monthly D.C.R.A. Shoots.

Much credit is due to Major Swaine for his tireless coaching. If this year's enthusiasm is evident next season, it should be one of the most successful Queen's has had (taken from the Tricolor Yearbook of 1934).

Team photograph and names are found in the Tricolor Yearbook of 1934.

Several times a week a few enthusiasts collect down in a cellar under the Old Arts building, and there they sit around and yarn. But thanks to the kindly patience and expert advice of the "Old Major", many have learnt the art of the small-bore shooting. With first class Martini .22 rifles, Queen's won the intercollegiate Shooting Championship last year and the Team are getting their Q II's for the effort. High scoring has also featured this winter. Outdoor shooting with Lee Enfield .303's has been badly handicapped by the weather, and has also rather fallen out of popularity (taken from the Tricolor Yearbook of 1935).

Team photograph and names are found in the Tricolor Yearbook of 1935. The Q II's were not awarded as athletic awards, but rather at the request of the A.M.S. Information found in the A. B. of C. Meeting Minutes of April 3, 1935, p.140.

It appears as if this team existed as a Queen's varsity team from 1924 until 1935. There is no additional information to support the existence of this team after 1935.
