 of the English Department following their adaption of "Julius Caesar" which was produced last year over its network and was given first

"Macbeth" will be given in five installments of one half-hour each, with a five-minute commentary by Dr. Harrison preceding each act.
 Actual adaption of Shakespeare's text was done by Dr. Angus. As was the case with last year's play,
 "Macbeth" will be produced by Kay Stevenson, who is also associsessions of Queen's Radio Institute.

Dr. Angus has also adapted for radio the short story, "Pigs is Pigs" by Ellis Parker Butler, which will be presented on "Curtain Time", a regular CBC production.

Sponsor Contest For Cover Design

A cover-designing contest for the program of Gluck's opera "Orpheus" is open for entries from students of all faculties.

The Queen's Glee Club announces that the best entry, if satisfactory, will adorn the front of the program, and the originator of the drawing will be awarded a prize of five dollars.

"Orpheus", the Glee Club's major production of this term, will be presented in KCVI auditorium on February 25 and 26. A break is being made this year from the club's custom of preparing a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta; but the executive feels that Gluck's opera is no less tuneful and quite as entertaining.

Starring in the production are Hope Ross as Eurydice, Colin Charron as Orpheus, and Janet Hay as Amor, god of love.

The opera is the story of the mythological Orpheus, who by means of his beautiful music re-

Defeat Phin, Sweezy In Intramural Series

The final intramural debate was held last Monday night at Grant Hall, when the two final teams argued out the resolution that "Athletic Scholarships should be permitted in intercollegiate sport." Alfred Bader and Frank Brodie, supporting the negative, won the Debating Union Cup and the two Andrina McCullough scholarships, given for public speaking. The affirmative was upheld by Ken Phin and David Sweezy.

The affirmative argued that organizations . . . and (since) sports are of advertising value . . . (therefore) the better the sports the larger

Open House Sat. Night After Game

Following the Queen's - McGill basketball bout, which begins at 8 pm Saturday in the Queen's gymnasium, an AMS Open House dance will be held in Grant Hall, it was announced late Wednesday evening by the AMS social convenor.

Cancel Arts '50 Year Party

Due to the great amount of interest which has been shown in their Year Party by the members of Arts '50, the convenors are attempting to secure a larger hall to accomodate the larger number they anticipate will attend the party.
 This has necessitated the cancelling of previous arrangements for February 8, but it is hoped to hold the party within the next two weeks.

Art Revue Offers Choice Of Music Laughter And Movie

The Arts Revue, "Ham on Rye", was given clear sailing orders this week when it was learned that the Aquacade, which had been scheduled for the same date as the Arts show, would be postponed three days. The Aquacade will now play Saturday, March 1, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the following week. The Arts Revue will hit the footlight at 8.15 pm. Thursday, February 27, at the to follow up the Review. The entire program will be offered for the ordinary evening price of the theatre.

Dance Director Jerry Barclay has been hard at work with the girls of the chorus for over two weeks. A tall and shapely group of chorines consists of Jean Bell, Jean Henderson, Chloe McLeod, Nonie Kendall,

EXPLANATION OF PROFILE

The punched holes appearing on the vertical lines represent a profile of the student's standing when compared with a large group of first-year graduate men attending eastern universities. For example, a hole punched at the 84th percentile on the Mathematics (Profile Test) means that the student's score exceeded the score of at least 84 per cent of all first-year male graduate students tested at eastern universities and that his score was exceeded by 16 per cent of all first-year graduate students.

Detailed information for interpreting the scores listed on the front of this card is given on an accompanying sheet.

The punches in this space of the card are not to be used in interpreting the profile.

Bequest Received by Queen's From Estate of Late Graduate

Dr. I. McConville, One of First Women to Graduate in Medicine, Donates for Research

The executive of the Board of Trustees has announced that a bequest that may amount to an annual revenue of $1,000 or $1,200 has been left to Queen's by the late Dr. Isabel McConville.

Dr. McConville, who died on January 3rd of this year, held an active practice for 57 years as one of Kingston's few women doctors. Born in Kingston, she was educated at the Notre Dame Convent and Kingston Collegiate. She entered Queen's Medical School, graduated in 1889, and was awarded a degree in surgery in 1890.

In addition to her private practice on Brock Street, the late Dr. McConville taught nursing classes at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, and was physician to the Sisters at the hospital and at Notre Dame Convent.

The bequest is in the form of scholarships for medical students and to promote medical research here at Queen's. The scholarships are divided into sections. The first, which is worth $100, will go to the Fifth Year Medical student who stands highest in gynecology and the second, which are worth $30.00 and $25.00 each, will go to the fourth-year student who writes the best essays on any approved surgical subject.

QUEEN'S PADRE TO BE AT INTER-FAITH MEET

The Rev. A. M. Lavery, Queen's Padre, will be the guest speaker at an inter-faith meeting to be held at the Hill House, 26 Barrie St. (corner O'Kell), on Sunday, February 9th, at 8:00 p.m.

Review

Cowardy, Cowardy Custard

Queen's Drama Guild made one of the boldest bids of its history when they opened "Hay Fever" to a packed house last night. With what Noel Coward has termed "my most difficult play for amateurs," the student cast struggled courageously to bring to the audience, only sparsely sprinkled with understanding, the delicate, subtle touch of Mayfair comedy.

As Judith Bliss, a middle aged actress, whose pent up histrionics is scarcely ever disguised, Mary McBride plays the central role. About her completely unrepentable character exerts a long suffering family and a highly startled group of house guests. As was Mr. Coward's intention, "the audience was never quite sure when she was acting and when she was not."

The remainder of the cast played equally well. As Simon, a west country version of a young student of the Sorbonne, Mark Stern punctuated a confident performance with flashes of brilliance. Leslie McNaughton and Wyatt McLean complete the madcap family. They succeeded in creating a mood of melancholy and understated confusion.

Semi-Formal Annex Dance Is Cancelled

The Science Formal Committee declares its regret in announcing that it will be unable to offer the semi-formal annex to the Science Formal, which it had considered holding in Grant Hall concurrent with the main dance. This dance had been planned for the benefit of those unable to obtain tickets for the Formal, but due to lack of time, decorations, and catering facilities, the Formal Committee had found it impossible to carry out.

The All-Science year dance, however, will be held as planned in Grant Hall on the Saturday night following the Formal. There will be no advanced ticket sale for this dance, but tickets will be $1.25 at the door and everyone is welcome. Music will be supplied by Doug Creighton's orchestra, and refreshments will be served during intermission.

Angus, Harrison Score a Success

To Broadcast Their Own Adaptation of "Macbeth"

Beginning Friday, February 14, the CBC will broadcast a special radio adaptation of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" in a school series of five installments. This is another success for Drs. Harrison and Angus of the English Department following their adaption of "Julius Caesar" which was produced last year over its network and was given first award by an Ohio educational institution.

"Macbeth" will be given in five installments of one-half-hour each, with a five-minute commentary by Dr. Harrison preceding each act. Actual adaption of Shakespeare's text was done by Dr. Angus. As was the case with last year's play, "Macbeth" will be produced by Kay Stevenson, who is also assisted with Queen's. Miss Stevenson conducted a course in program production at the last two summer sessions of Queen's Radio Institute.

Dr. Angus has also adapted for radio the short story, "Figs is Figs" by Ellis Parker Butler, which will be presented on "Curran Time," a regular CBC production.

Sponsor Contest For Cover Design

A cover-designing contest for the program of Gluck's opera "Orpheus" is open for entries from students of all faculties.

The Queen's Glee Club announces that the best entry, if satisfactory, will adorn the front of the program, and the originator of the drawing will be awarded a prize of five dollars.

"Orpheus," the Glee Club's major production of this term, will be presented in KCVI auditorium on February 25 and 26. A break is being made this year from the club's custom of preparing a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, but the executive feels that Gluck's opera is no less tuneful and quite as entertaining.

Starring in the production are Hope Ross as Eurydice, Colin Charon as Orpheus, and Janet Hay as Amor, god of love.

The opera is the story of the mythological Orpheus, who by means of his beautiful music, reclaimed his lost love, Eurydice, from the underworld, only to lose her again when he disobeyed the gods and looked upon her face. In the opera, however, the story is given a happy ending by the intervention of Amor, god of love, who restores Eurydice to Orpheus as a reward for his faithfulness.

The work, whose music was composed by Christoph von Gluck, with libretto by Gluck and his Italian friend Schikaneder, is being presented by the Glee Club Opera, p. 4

Society Elections To Be Held Separately

A revised procedure for election of AMS executive will go into effect this year. It was decided at a meeting of the present executive on Tuesday evening. The new system calls for the election of representatives from all of the faculty societies at the same time, and separately from the elections of the rest of the society officers. Date for election has been set for Wednesday, Feb. 19.

Nominations of AMS junior and senior representatives will be carried out at the same time as other faculty officers are nominated, in accordance with the constitutions of the various societies.

Nominations for the Arts society are to be held Tuesday, Feb. 11, when candidates will be selected to run for the positions of: honorary president, president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, athletic director, AMS senior and junior representatives.

See AMS Elections, p. 6

Young Pianist Will Finish YA Series

This year's University Concert Series ended Tuesday night with the appearance of Miss Raya Garbousova, world famous cellist. Later this month Marion Grudelf will play concluding the Young Artists Series, which has run concurrently with the UCS.

Dr. H. L. Tracy, president of the Queen's University Concert Series Group, stated the house had been sold out for the whole series and that public reaction had been most encouraging.

Plans are well under way for next year's program. Joseph Szigetti, violinist, Mark Harrell, baritone, and Nizeya Magaloff, pianist, have already been signed. As a fourth attraction it is expected that the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Reginald Stewart, will return next season. Plans are nearly completed for securing as well three young Canadians for the Young Artists Series.

Bader and Brodie Win Both Debating Cup, Scholarships

The final intramural debate was held last Monday night at Grant Hall—when the two final teams argued out the resolution that "Athletic Scholarships should be permitted in intercollegiate sport." Alfred Bader and Frank Brodie, supporting the negative, won the Debating Union Cup and the two Andriana McCullough scholarships given for public speaking.

The affirmative was upheld by Ken Phin and David Sweeney.

Following the Queen's McGill basketball bout, which begins at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Queen's gymnasium, an AMS Open House dance will be held in Grant Hall, it was announced late Wednesday evening by the AMS social convener.

Cancel Arts '50 Year Party

Due to the great amount of interest which has been shown in their Year Party by the members of Arts '50, the conveners are attempting to secure a larger hall to accommodate the larger number they anticipate will attend the party. This has necessitated the cancelling of previous arrangements for February 8, but it is hoped to hold the party within the next two weeks. Watch The Journal for details.

Art Revue Offers Choice Of Music Laughter And Movie

The Arts Revue, "Ham on Rye," was given clear sailing orders this week when it was learned that the Aquacade, which had been scheduled for the same date as the Arts show, would be postponed three days. The Aquacade will now play Saturday, March 1, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the following week. The Arts Revue will hit the footlight at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, February 27, at the Odeon Theatre.

The Revue will feature an hour and fifteen minutes of music and laughter—a kaleidoscope coverage of the outstanding talent on the campus. The management of the Odeon Theatre has succeeded in obtaining an hilarious English comedy entitled "My Man Gilbert" (an adaptation of Terence Rattigan's brilliant farce "English Without Tears") to follow up the Revue. The entire program will be offered for the ordinary evening price of the theatre.

Dance Director Jerry Barclay has been hard at work with the girls of the chorus for over two weeks. A tall and shapely group of choiciness consists of Jean Bell, Jean Henderson, Chloe McLeod, Nonie Kendall, Joyce Kerr, Kate Macdonnell, Sandy Coon, Marg. Cummings, Marcelle Thomas, Jean Mitchell and Dorothy O'Brien.

Several comedy skits will lend touching realism to some of the more intriguing aspects of campus life. Big Bill House, Queen's own minstrel man, injects a bit of old Dixieland into the freezing climate of the North and a sultry solace will "Lay the Blame on Mame." Har-

Plugging Continue For Tonight's Formal

Six men received free coffee at the Queen's Tea Room (Lanzing's) on Wednesday, according to a special press report from the president of Arts '48. "We feel," continued Mr. Knuevasser, "that this is one of the most progressive steps taken in the right direction at Queen's this year. It serves as an indicator of the good fortune which shall surely fall to those who help themselves by helping Arts '48." Further investigation revealed that the lucky six were a group of sandwich board men, one of whom bore a placard stating "Eat at Charlie's—dance at Rhapsody in Blue."

Other advertisements, carried through Wednesday's bitter cold were:

"Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
Amelia is going,
So why don't you?"

and "Have formally warned your pocketbook too—then follow the crowd to 'Rhapsody in Blue.'"

Final plans have been laid for tonight's "Big" dance - Harris Arbutique has put the finishing touches on his jazz concerto, Boyd Vallean has cleaned all the suds out of his trombone. Dancing starts at 9:00 o'clock.

OUR POLICY

The Constitution of the Alma Mater Society defines the purpose of the QUEEN'S JOURNAL to give an accurate account of college news, to discuss questions of current interest within the University, and to encourage literary efforts on the parts of the students. In a recent meeting of the AMS it was charged by the Senior Science Representative, Mr. Morris, that we were not carrying out successfully the first of these prerequisites.

It was felt that too much space was being devoted to the CCF and LPP news at the expense of certain other campus activities. The Press Liaison Officer of the AMS was supposedly to "speak to the Editor." This little talk is yet forthcoming so we are rather in the dark as to the exact nature of our reprimand — or whether our little writ slapping is complete with the publication of the AMS minutes on the Library notice board.

This presages of some interesting controversy on the old question of a free press. A prejudiced interpreter could read into the Constitution of the AMS the clauses necessary to give the student government the right to dictate not only the editorial policy but the more important policy of news interpretation. However, we feel that such a principle would be highly antithetical to the vaunted tradition of student self government whose virtues we have extolled so many times on these pages.

We have conscientiously endeavoured to present the news as accurately as possible, and with space allotted according to the significance of the article to the student body at large. We will continue to carry out this policy despite the allegation of any single aid by necessity unrepresentative voice. We will also endeavour to offer a forum to the students where they may discuss without prejudice to colour, or creed, those topics in which they (not one man, but the student body as a whole) see fit to evidence interest.

The members of the Alma Mater Society Executive may feel equally free as members of the University to use those discussonal facilities provided in The Journal. We will not, however, write our headlines from the Board room of the Alma Mater Society.

WHOSE PROBLEM?

It appears to take a great deal of driving home to bring us to a realization of our obligations in Germany today. An appalling report of conditions in that country was brought to the British House of Commons this week by Sir Richard Law, a member of the loyal opposition. An under-secretary in the Churchill war cabinet, Law was concerned with the problem of relief for the ravaged areas of Europe, and undoubtedly speaks with a high degree of accuracy.

Mismanagement of Germany has two definite implications. In the short run it will starve to death 15 or 20 million humans. In the long run it will sow the inevitable seeds of another German war.

England's problem is not an easy one. She may jack up the bootstraps of her occupational administration, but providing food for starving millions in Europe is a less probable task for a nation whose own diet frugally follows the points of a ration card.

The nation's of the west are in a more favourable position. Let the warning uttered in the British House of Commons echo through the world and lodge itself in the hearts of the leaders of the bountiful economies.

 THE PICK OF PIPE TOBACCOS

Behind the Front Page

DEAR EDITOR...

"A Colourable Device"...

Why pay anywhere from six to eight dollars for a ticket to a formal dance?

Most students want to attend the formals; these represent the high points in the social year of the individual faculties. Many students go whether they can afford to or not. Furthermore, the tickets themselves are only the beginning of the cost; by the time the corsage, taxi fares and possibly a set of rented tails is taken into consideration, the total expenses are tremendous. There are not many of us who can afford to squander money like this.

It might be argued that formals which must be run on a sound financial basis, could not meet their expenses if the tickets were sold any cheaper. To that I would reply that means should be looked for to reduce these expenses.

The greatest expense at most formals is the cost of the orchestra, prices in the past having ranged from $1,200 to $2,000. Would the music of a more moderately priced local orchestra materially reduce the dancers' enjoyment? While I do not pretend to be an expert on dance music, I think there are many local bands who could do better, make less noise and charge less than some of the name bands Queen's has seen.

In this regard, I was happy to note that the conveners of the forthcoming "Colour Night" have decided to set the cost of the ticket to this formal at three dollars. To me, this is a more reasonable price to pay for a ticket to such a function; it represents a sensible step in the right direction. Yours for less expensive formal tickets,

JOHN R. MACKENZIE, Meds '51.

Review

GARBOUSOVA

BY T. D.

As the final opus of the regular University Convert Series on Tuesday evening, Raya Garbusova, noted cellist rendered enjoyable an otherwise unpopular program by her superb artistry. Miss Garbusova's playing displayed both lyric warmth and sensitivity. However, her performance seemed to lose a great deal of its effectiveness in those parts demanding accelerated passage work, as well as when her accompaniment was faulty.

The first part of the program, consisting of an Adagio by Bach, Haydn's "Concerto in C Major" and "Schubert's 'Arpeggione' Sonata in A, was for many the most interesting. Her playing of Bach was characterized by beautiful control, while Eric Itor Hahn provided a sympathetic accompaniment. In the Haydn Concerto, Miss Garbusova did not seem to possess a great deal of staying power. This may be explained by an accompaniment which was much too loud and robbed the work of a great deal of its spirit. The work lacked that perfect fusion of solo instrument and accompaniment so necessary to a great performance.

To most of the audience the "Arpeggione" Sonata was a familiar work. It was handled with tonal unification, lyric sweep and sensitive control which showed a complete understanding of a difficult work.

The second portion of the program, with the exception of Debussy's Sonata, and the Pantomime of Manuel de Falla, was characterized by works more or less in the same general vein. This might have accounted for the fact that the audience was generally restless. There were a few souls who amused themselves by dropping pop bottles, an innovation to be noted by all, and others who seemed thoroughly to enjoy watching a display of rapid passage work and adapting this as their main criteria of musicianship.

In the Debussy Sonata, Miss Garbusova gave her best performance of the evening, presenting an intriguing interpretation of that fully impressionistic work. She carried her phrasing with ease and sensitivity, and her pizzicato is sharply and crisply. The Pantomime was another highlight with beautiful muted effects. The encore was a Chopin Nocturne.

It is to be regretted that many subscribers missed the performance because of a change in date. It is also to be regretted that the program was not more varied. In spite of this, Miss Garbusova's program was carried off by her distinctive virtuosity.

CAROUSEL

With Parliament again in session, the news from Ottawa promises to be headline material for several weeks. With Mackenzie King's Liberal administration holding the House of Commons by a slim majority the government will have to tread warily in order to avoid losing those few majority votes in a controversial issue.

The want of confidence motion hurled at Mr. King by M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and John Bracken, Progressive-Conservative opposition chief, in these circumstances will show us just what chance the government has of carrying on this session. However, the most important item of the week appears to be Mr. King's declaration on Canada's foreign policy.

In a note to the Great Powers, Canada has asked for a voice in the peace settlement. She has been offered a chance to state her views in the form of a commentary on each treaty as it is prepared; Mr. King points out that what Canada wants is a voice in framing the treaties, not merely a chance to object after the main lines of the settlement are laid down.

Mr. King's statement to the House reads in part: "We were fighting to prevent two countries from dominating the world. Now, we do not want to see one, two, three, or four countries dominate the peace... I know that the Big Four have problems that perhaps are larger than those of any other country. I know Canada is in a position to render great service in the solving of these problems."

There seems to be a heartening unanimity about Canada's foreign policy. Both in the country and in the House of Commons all parties have supported Mr. King's stand. Canada's war effort entitles it to a voice in treaty making, and her large supplies of the raw material for an atomic war make it obvious that she should be consulted. Canada's determination is not to side with any particular faction in world affairs but to direct her effort toward securing peace by working with any country that will work with her. This determination has given Canada a new status in world affairs — the status of a leader of those middle powers who do not want to be tied to the policies of any one of the great powers. A large measure of this is due to the activities of the multi-party delegation that Canada has sent to the conferences — no one abroad can feel that a change of government will mean any significant change in Canada's policy. It is to be hoped that the great power domination carried to such ridiculous lengths in the United Nations organizations will be stemmed by such action as the Canadian government has taken.

UNCLE HALSIE, or OGGIE, as he is better known to friends in the press room, pool room, school room and elbow room, is the new boss, and with a BLUE Monday theme he began a fine weekly effort. The word BLUE caught our fancy so we decided to see what we could do with it on Friday.

BLUE is the gift of medicine to the TRICOLOUR, so, if you do not like it, eat apples and get even. Imagine a Queen's athletic sweater without BLUE, especially now that someone has seen fit to do away with the RED.

BLUE means so much to dear, sweet, cheese-eating Levantines because BLUE is the fourth partner in the favourite game of chance, OLLY, NEW, BORROWED, ETC. . . . BLUE, too, is the colour the girls wish the RED room might be instead of GREEN.

Let us see if we can give the plumbers a break. With a BLUE jacket, the boys of '47 sought to trick the RINGER BROS. into thinking that they are men of the saw and bones instead of unconscious electrical workers. And speaking of boobies, BLUE is the bill (size 5, if you have not seen one lately) we have hanging over us after an encounter with the domino dynamo of final year metallurgy.

BLUE shares with BLACK a half interest in the mice currently being sported by members of Sc. '48, who are bound to win the BEVVS. Fellows that will give and take punishment as they have all week in the preliminaries and are likely to again tonight in the finals of the intramural assault, deserve all the credit in the world. Their's is the spirit.

BLUE SKIES to a couple of Queen's people, ARN TUER, Sr. '46, and LOIS SOUTHAM, Arts '48, who take the big plunge tomorrow. . . all the best, Kids.

Did you, too, not feel BLUE when the price of those tasty little morsels of meat-on-the-bun went up 50% in price? That's just how much the cost of living index went up on the home front. What with things being the way they are and all this and that.

Say, BOMB QUEEN-EL, how come the air is BLUE in your little inner sanctum when, afters, all, you smoke but the feathers of a BROWN WHITE owl?

Glad you are still with us, folks, because it is . . . all for you tonight. . . . RHAPSODY IN BLUE . . . the bestest little old year dance in the world being promoted by MIKE KNIEWASSER, MIKE SOUTHEY, MIKE VALLEAU, MIKE WOOD, and a guy named hockey.

INTRAMURAL NOTICE

Entries for the Intramural Table Tennis Tournament close on Saturday, February 8, at 6 p.m. Entries for the Intramural Ski Meet (down hill, slalom, and cross-country), which will be held at Kingston Mills on Sunday, close at the same time, but most entries will be accepted, these to make their runs first or last, depending on the choice of those who signed the list on time. The lists for both events are posted in the gym.

This isn't a female assault . . . Just a snap of the girls' basketball team catching Dorothy O'Brien, Maryal Edwards and Betty McRae in action.

Potsdam Scene Of A Weird And Wonderful Display

The facilities that the senior hockey team endured on their recent Potsdam trip made our intramural league look like the minor league. The dressing room was so small that a Kingston landlady could probably only charge two Queen's students about $4 apiece for living in it. There were, however, two good showers, the only drawback being that there was no water. This latter situation extended to all the rink's facilities.

After dressing in four shifts, the team skated out on the ice to be met by the waiting officials. They explained that there were a few changes in the playing code. The American game is really a sort of "touch shinney". There is no red line, and passes are permitted up to the opposing blue line. The Clarkson team used a sort of permanent sleeper who stayed behind for the Queen's defense and was available for any passes (and there were many) that filtered through. Also it is illegal to body check except in your own zone. This, of course, proved rather expensive to the Queen's team who are used to somewhat rougher tactics.

The face-off is also rather unique.

The ice has red circles painted on it in numerous places. For a face-off the referee lays the puck on one of these chosen at random. The two centres face each other with their sticks behind the circle. The referee then retires to a safe distance, where he blows his whistle, at which point the two centres lung for the puck. In the last two periods the Queen's team managed to get the odd face-off over the opposing forwards.

It was somewhat of a surprise to the Queen's team when a goal was disallowed by a voice coming over the public address system. Needless to say, there was a lot of amount of misunderstanding over this procedure and even discussion (in fact the boys squawked like H---) as to the merits of it. However, after the game, when the announcer came around and explained his decision and also that it was ridiculous to doubt his integrity as Dean of the College, the matter was terminated amicably.

It must be added, however, that the Clarkson boys were excellent hosts and did their best to provide as much comfort as possible under the circumstances.

leave on the one-thirty train—six forwards, three defencemen, and the goalie.

This will be the first intercollegiate game played for a great many years—but even so, it must be practically an anti-climax to the struggle between Levana '49 and '50 Wednesday. With its indomitable forward line of Belore, Bevs, and "Pete" Peterson, '49 scored six goals to '50's one; but with more practice on passing, and the lightening skating of "Shorty", who dissolves between players, the fresher team will be able to hold their own with anybody.

SKIERS, ATTENTION! If you're interested in competition or in gaining points for the year, don't forget this Sunday's expedition to Kingston Mills. Down hill, slalom, and cross-country races will be the feature of the day. There are 100 waiting to be signed in the gym, Ban Riggs, and the New Arts building. Have a look at them, and keep all fingers crossed for the right weather.

Queen's Tackle McGill Saturday In Gym

Lou Davies' McGill Squad Hold Convincing Victory Over Varsity

Lou Davies' McGill basketball team tackles the Tricolor five tomorrow night when the Redmen invade Queen's for the first time this year. Riding high after trouncing Varsity last Saturday, 44-26, McGill is confident about Friday's contest.

In last Friday's game, Varsity outplayed the Gaels for three quarters and finished up with an 18-point margin. However, the fact that Varsity's loss and McGill beat Varsity by 18 points is not much of an indication as to the outcome of the coming tilt. After the boys got rid of their stage fright they held the Blue and White squad to three points in the last quarter and scored nine themselves. The questions to be answered between 8 and 9:30 tomorrow night are: Is McGill 36 points better than Queen's? Will the Gaels be able to recapture their fourth quarter rally of last Friday?

The McGill aggregation boasts several outstanding performers in George Davidson, who netted 14 of McGill 36 points against University of New Brunswick, Bud Fraser, who starred against Varsity, Bobby Duford and Myer Bloom. The Redmen have played seven exhibition games this year and lost five and won two. If the Red and White prove to be as hot tomorrow as they were last week they should give the Gaels a lot of trouble.

The Tricolor played Clarkson Tech last Saturday, and though they dropped the match they exhibited a brand of play that was superior to their previous effort. Stan Price was the top scorer for the team as he netted 14 points. Joe Blain, who was hurt in the early minutes of the Varsity game, will be on hand for tomorrow night's tilt. It remains to be seen whether we can sustain the fourth quarter rally for the whole game. If we can, the Tricolor should be able to give the boys from Montreal a terrific run for their money. Let's see everybody out at 8 o'clock tomorrow night to give out with the "Oil Thighs" and give our basketball team some well deserved support.

Intermediates Lose To Lions

At the Jack Hartly Arena last Monday night, the Queen's intermediate hockey team lost their third straight game to the Kingston Lions by an 8-5 count. The Lions, who were runners-up in the Kingston City League to the senior Gaels, completely outplayed the Queen's in the first period, but after that the collegians carried the play. Before game time the Queen's team decided to drag out an old intermediate hockey team nickname and call themselves "The Seagulls". One of the poor features of this season was the fact that the scores are getting closer.

First Period: During this period Queen's seemed to be suffering from stage fright—they managed to bulge the twine only once during the period. This goal was scored by Kent on a pass from Fletcher at the 5:55 mark. While the Seagulls registered their lone tally of the period, the Lions lit the light five times. Their goals were scored by Flanagan, Casterston, and Aikten, with two going to Flecker.

Second Period: Coach Patterson's team came out on the ice this period with the definite intention of turning this fracas into a real hockey game. Both teams scored twice, while Stevens and Casterston gave the crowd a short lesson in fistfights. This goal was scored by Kent on a pass from Fletcher at the 5:55 mark. While the Seagulls registered their lone tally of the period, the Lions lit the light five times. Their goals were scored by Flanagan, Casterston, and Aikten, with two going to Flecker.

Third Period: The intermediates outscored the Lions in the final stanza by a 2-1 count. Fletcher drew first blood for the Seagulls after he took Kent's pass and beat Udall, the Lions' goaltender. Six minutes later, Casterston scored the Lions' final goal of the game, assisted by Bearance.

Sr. Pucksters At Montreal

The Queen's hockey team is on the road again. They are returning to Montreal this weekend, only this time to do battle with the league-leading McGill "Redmen". As the season goes on, the Gaels are improving and in each game their scores are getting closer.

The McGill "Redmen" had their feet knocked from under them last week by the Varsity "Blues", and you may remember that Queen's made a very good showing against the Varsity crew last time they met. In losing this game, McGill had its seven-game winning streak snapped and suffered a number of injuries. Among the injured players were Ward Pitfield, Bob Broderick and George Hale. Pitfield missed the most serious injury when he had eight nice, big, white teeth knocked out. He is the flashy skating centre of the second forward line. Broderick suffered a shoulder injury, while George Hale, who is now second in the scoring roll, received a gash in his forehead. Both these men are on the starting line-up.

The injuries these players have received may mean a "Redmen" to a certain extent, depending how bad they really were. If they are weakened, Queen's should have no trouble beating them, since the game was fairly even the last time they met. Tonight may be Queen's night at the Montreal Forum.

This, however, did not finish the scoring since the hard fighting Tricolor club put one more in before the game was over. This goal was scored by Fletcher unassisted.

Casterston and Hawkins were the leading goal-scorers, each tallying three, while Fletcher of Queen's scored twice. Johnny Stevens and Rex Fawcett looked well on defense for the Tricolor, while MacDonald played a good game in the nets, despite the score.

Line-ups: Queen's—Goal, MacDonald; defence, Pawnell, Stevens; forwards, Ross, Simmons, Hedley; alternates, Mercer, McCaffery. Short, Kent, Morrisette, Fletcher, Hamilton.

and induces the Alumni to contribute to the university funds. They went on to say that "raising the standard of sports raises the student's morale . . . (and) takes the form of a better 'esprit de corps'." In conclusion they said the bestowing of athletic scholarships does "not necessarily involve prostitution of the university's morale."

The negative stated that there is no reason "for singling out sports as the only university recreation. No university can afford to give out as many scholarships as they wish and still scholarships are being diverted to athletes instead of those people who are more deserving. Amateur athletics are undergoing a change to commercialism."

Using football as an example, the negative said that "colleges are all in favour of strictly amateur football—as they usually are at the end of the season." Then ended by saying that Queen's, as a medium-sized university, with the highest academic standards, and with a school spirit that is to be found nowhere else in Canada, has no athletic scholarships.

For the purpose of deciding who was the winner of the Debating Cup, the arguments were stopped after the first speaker of the affirmative gave his rebuttal and the judge's tasks were collected. The judge then went on with the other three participants giving their rebuttal. In this way the McCullough scholarships were decided with Alfred Bader and Frank Brodie being judged the best speakers of the evening.

Art Ross introduced Dr. McNeill as chairman, who then gave a short talk on the rules of the debate and the history of the prizes to be awarded.

On February 13th, the Inter-university Debating League will commence their schedule with St. Patrick's (Ottawa) College coming down to Queen's to debate against Alfred Bader and John Young. On the same day, Ken Ronff and Andy Thomson will go to Western to debate there.

AMS Elections

In addition to those specifically named as representatives, all Faculty presidents serve on the AMS executive.

The purpose of the revised system, according to President Geoff Bruce, "is to make the two spheres of student government separate, and by having AMS elections before society executive elections to permit more consideration to the greater importance of a strong AMS executive."

The president and vice-president of the supreme student government are elected from among the four senior representatives, who must be "seniors" registered in sufficient courses to obtain their degrees in the following spring. From among the four junior representatives, who are to be "juniors" or "sophomores," are chosen a secretary and a treasurer for the executive. These officers are picked by an electoral college consisting of the non-eligible members of the executive; that is, the president and vice-president will be elected by junior representatives from the four faculties of Arts, Science, Law and Medicine, and the presidents of these four societies and the fifth, Theology.

Chief Justice Bruce Ross will act as returning officer at the forthcoming elections.

Mr. Alfred Bader,
442 Argyle Avenue,

Dear Mr. Bader:

Thank you for your nice letter about my retirement.

It was Carlyle, as you think, who said: Do the duty that lies nearest. It is curious that you should quote that passage because I have many times quoted it as an example of what may often be an unsound exhortation. I think probably my life has been somewhat spoiled by too much attention to the nearest duty. The nearest duty may be very trivial and time and energy-consuming. The largest duty is perhaps the more important. You will note that I say all this very tentatively because it is always hard to know what one's duty is but I do believe in Kant's categorical imperative.

It is very pleasant to have the good opinion of so able a man as you.

THE RITUAL OF
THE CALLING OF AN ENGINEER Obligation

I, A. R. Bader

in the presence of these my betters and my equals in my Calling, bind myself upon my Honour and Cold Iron, that, to the best of my knowledge and power, I will not henceforward suffer or pass, or be privy to the passing of, Bad Workmanship or Faulty Material in aught that concerns my works before men as an Engineer, or in my dealings with my own Soul before my Maker.

MY TIME I will not refuse; MY THOUGHT I will not grudge; MY CARE I will not deny towards the honour, use, stability and perfection of any works to which I may be called to set my hand.

MY FAIR WAGES for that work I will openly take. MY REPUTATION in my Calling I will honourably guard; but I will in no way go about to compass or wrest judgment or gratification from any one with whom I may deal. And further, I will early and warily strive my uttermost against professional jealousy or the belittling of my working-brothers, in any field of their labour.

For my assured failures and derelictions, I ask pardon beforehand of my betters and my equals in my Calling here assembled; praying that in the hour of my temptations, weakness and weariness, the memory of this my Obligation and of the company before whom it was entered into, may return to me to aid, comfort and restrain.

Camp . . . To all these things you have subscribed upon Honour and Cold Iron.

Candidate And upon Honour and Cold Iron, God helping me, by these things I purpose to abide.
