MAY

A representative statewide organization, affiliated with the National Wildlife Federation, primarily devoted to wise use, conservation, aesthetic appearance, and restoration of wildlife and other natural resources through education.

Florida Wildlife Federation

There are few stronger bonds in the wildlife world than that of a gander, their young. They are extremely protective, warning off strangers with a loud hissing and honking. Because many of their former breeding grounds have been destroyed by development, these large birds have adapted to raising their young in more urban streams and lakes. Although large numbers of geese continue to migrate to traditional wintering grounds from their summer range in northern U.S., many remain year-long near grain and grass food supplies. Canada geese are probably best known as an indicator of the change of seasons, signalling spring and fall by their familiar V-shaped passage overhead.

Dear Alfred -

Enclosed please find the four photos of the paintings - I don't care for any of the subjects -

Snow is depressing - old ladies not my choice (could hang my relatives pictures) - Roses very dark -

Have over two dozen paintings (not hung) that I like better -

If you can have the books appraised by a credited person - I would consider selling them, or just return - You must know some thing about the value, because you know the value of your paintings -

Our best to both -

Be in touch

Dear Alfred -

Please return the two books - I have found a lady to appraise all my oriental things - After this I would let you know the value.

Sincerely - Catherine

Dear Catherine,

Thank you for your note and for returning the snapshots.

The mistake we made during our visit with you was not to discuss in more detail just what paintings you like.

Many people love winter landscapes, and I personally like studies of heads of old men and women very much indeed.

An additional problem is that the snapshots that I sent you are not very good; that Munich school flowerpiece, signed and dated by a listed Hungarian artist, is not dark, but does look so on the snapshot.

I am just off on a very long trip from which I will return on July 21st. After that, I will send you quite a few more photographs in the hope that you will like one or the other. If not, I will have those two Japanese books appraised, as you suggested.

Best regards, also to George.

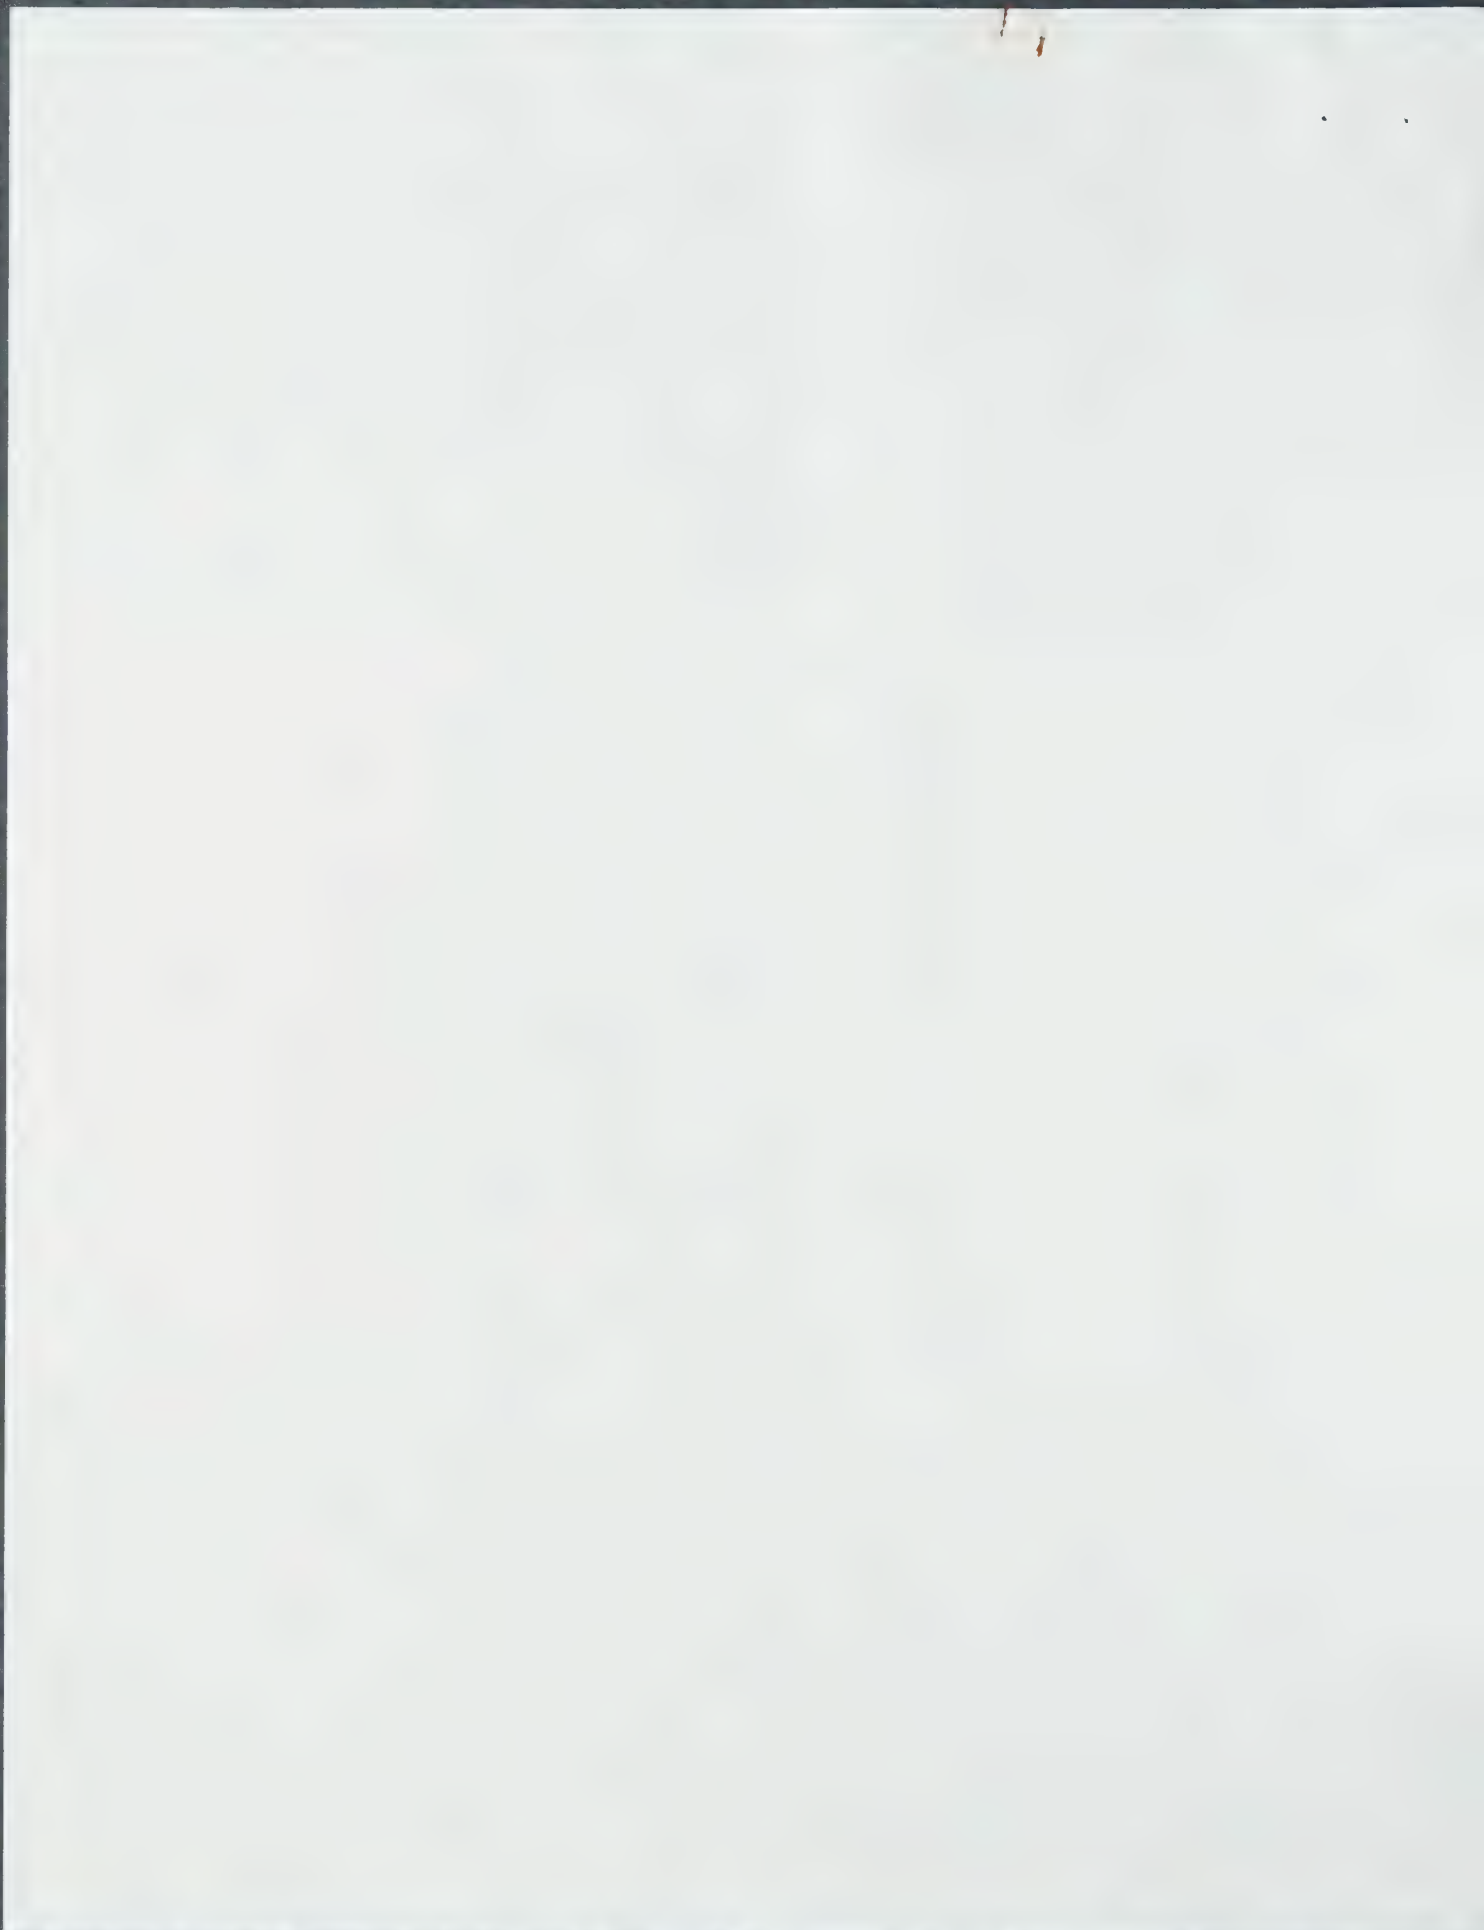

Sincerely,

Alfred Bader

Dear Kathryn and George,

Please accept our sincere thanks for your kind hospitality to all of us last week. We certainly enjoyed looking at your collection. I was happy to know that you understand the value of the Raffaelli, and if I can ever help you with its sale just let me know and I will discuss it with you.

As promised, please find enclosed snapshots of four paintings, any one of which I would be happy to trade for your two Japanese albums. The snapshot of the flower still life is not good, nor that of the English young girl, in each case because of reflections. Still, I think that you will be able to get an idea of what they look like.

If you know that you like one of these well enough, please return the other three snapshots and I will send the painting you have chosen via UPS.

I also very much like the work of a Florida artist, John Whalley, and I enclose a little description. He used to work in New York state, Pennsylvania and Maine, but is now working near Miami Beach. Whichever painting you select, I would also like to include a limited edition, signed print by Whalley of his wife and first child, which I am certain you will like.

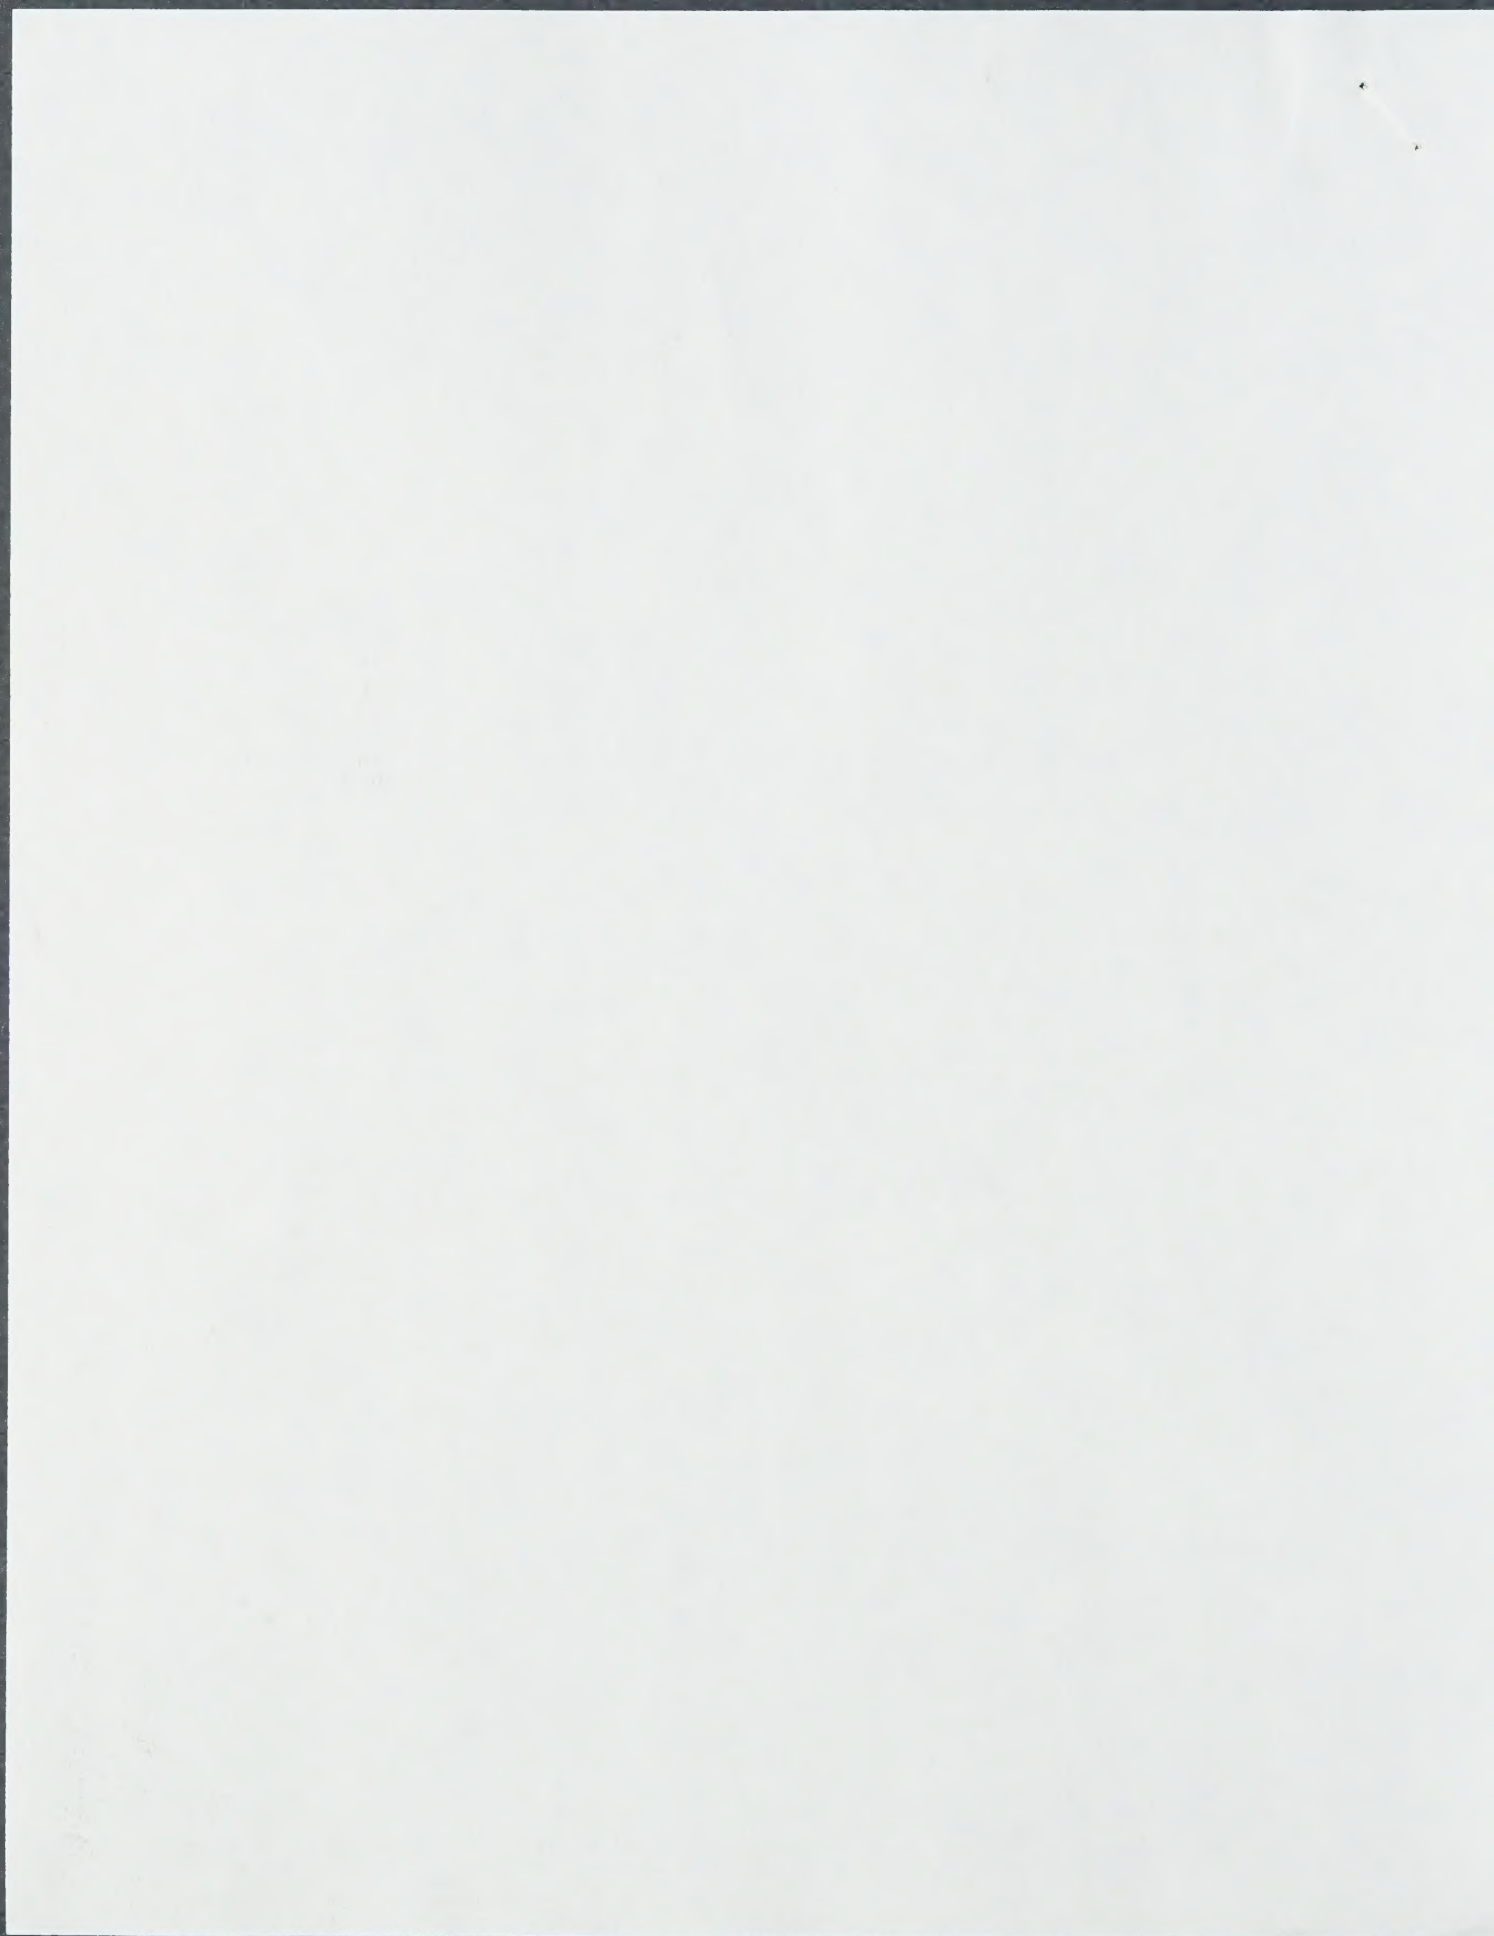

What a bit of luck that the Howard's live so close to you and that we were able to get together. I hope we may do this again when next we visit the Howard's.

Best personal regards,

Alfred Bader
