Dear Dr. Bader:

Thank you for your kind correspondence. By this time you should have received a second check from the Pittsburgh Conference for $377.30 reimbursing your wife Isabel's airfare expenses to New Orleans. Dr. Kurt Rothenberger has been very diligent in following up on this matter on your behalf and I appreciate his help in bringing this to a mutually agreeable conclusion.

Please extend our gratitude to Mrs. Bader for the assistance she provided for the talk at the Technology Forum and during your stay in New Orleans. I hope we have the opportunity to work together again at some future event.

Sincerely,

Mildred B. Perry, Ph.D.

Dear Colleague,

The 46th Pittsburgh Conference was, as always, outstanding. And thanks to presentations like yours, the Technical Program was superb. Conferees praised the quality and depth of the program and the positive contributions of each presentation in "stimulating the minds of today's and tomorrow's scientists."

Being scientists ourselves, the Program Committee knows and appreciates the time required to prepare and deliver a first-rate presentation. We hope that our organization of the program made your participation as positive an experience for you as it was educational and enjoyable for us.

Thank you, again, for being such a special part of PITTCON®'95.

Sincerely,

Mildred B. Perry

Dr. Kurt S. Rothenberger
U.S. Dept. of Energy-PETC
P.O. Box 10940
Pittsburgh, PA 15236

Dear Kurt,

We are very pleased to inform you that your symposium proposal entitled "Technology Forum; Just for Fun!", has been accepted as a one-half day symposium for PITTCON '95. The Program Committee is excited about the content of your symposium and feels that it should be of great interest to Pittsburgh Conference conferees. We are looking forward to working with you as you organize it.

Expense guidelines and other general information that you need to organize a symposium for PITTCON '95 are included in this letter.

SPEAKER EXPENSES

International speakers are permitted. The Pittsburgh Conference will offer support (see underlined statement below) for a budget of four speakers from the U.S. and one from Western Europe. Before considering speakers from outside of that region, please contact me.

Pittsburgh Conference policy on invited speakers requires that you transmit to them by phone and by written correspondence this statement: "In the event that your employer will not reimburse you for all of your travel expenses to attend the Pittsburgh Conference & Exposition to present your invited paper, the Conference will reimburse you for those reasonable Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer." Please transmit this statement verbatim.

An expense guideline for invited speakers is included with this letter. We ask that you copy this information and distribute it to each speaker as soon as possible, preferably with the letter of invitation.

ORGANIZER EXPENSES

Please remember that as an organizer you must present a paper in an invited symposium (your own or another) in order to be eligible for reimbursement of those Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer. Presenting an "overview" of your symposium, presenting a contributed paper, or simply coauthoring any paper is not sufficient. This is Pittsburgh Conference policy, and no exceptions will be made.

PRELIMINARY REQUIREMENTS

Please provide the following information by June 30, 1994.

- Titles of papers in your symposium. We suggest five presentations in a half-day symposium.
- Names of the invited speakers and coauthors as they are to appear in Conference programs.
- Complete mailing addresses, telephone numbers and if available, fax numbers for each speaker and for yourself.
- Using the attached form as a format guide, please provide a typed schedule for your symposium, indicating the total time allotted for each paper. Once you have submitted this schedule, please contact Program Secretary, Alma Johnson, (412) 825-3220 x202, concerning any changes (i.e., titles, speakers...).

PUBLICITY

By mid June, Dan Wilson, Publicity Chairman, will provide an editorial format to guide you in preparing publicity information for your symposium. You may write the publicity articles or you can be interviewed by our newsletter editor, who will then write the article. Either way, it would be helpful to have a preliminary abstract of the symposium and a biography of each speaker by June 30, 1994. You may want to request this material in your invitation letter.

CORRESPONDENCE

Please send a copy of all correspondence to Mildred Perry.

SCHEDULING

The day and time of your symposium will be assigned at a later date. Symposia will be assigned time slots that result in a strong, well-rounded program each day, including Friday morning.

1996 CONSIDERATIONS

While the 1995 program is the immediate concern, we encourage you to consider topics for the 1996 program. Kevin McKaveney, the 1996 Program Chairman, will begin to accept proposals after October 15, 1994. Submission of proposals prior to the 1995 Pittsburgh Conference is encouraged.

Again, we thank you for your support of the PITTCON,'95 technical program. Your continued support in '95 and subsequent years will help to ensure that the Pittsburgh Conference program is one of the premier annual events in Analytical Chemistry,

Sincerely,

Dr. Alfred Bader

Milwaukee, WI 53202

Dear Dr. Bader:

This letter is to confirm our recent telephone conversations concerning the Pittsburgh Conference on Analytical Chemistry and Applied Spectroscopy (Pittcon®'95). It is my pleasure to extend an official invitation to you to present a talk at the "Technology Forum: Just for Fun!" Symposium. Pittcon®'95 will be held the week of March 5-10, 1995, in New Orleans, LA. Although the Symposium date has not yet been determined, it will probably be on Wednesday, March 8, or Thursday, March 9.

For your information, I am enclosing copies of four documents. The "Invited Speaker Expense Guidelines for Pittcon®'95," describes the reimbursement policies and recordkeeping requirements pertaining to all the Invited Symposia. The expense account policy is as follows: "In the event that your employer will not reimburse you for all of your travel expenses to attend the Pittsburgh Conference and Exposition to present your invited paper, the Conference will reimburse you for those reasonable Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer." Normally, this includes the cost of transportation, housing, meals, and gratuities.

The "Guidelines for Symposium," describes the format of the Symposium. There will be five speakers, allotted 35 minutes apiece. I have also included a list of the other invited speakers for the Symposium including their mailing addresses, phone numbers, and probable topics.

The last document copy is a letter to me from the Pittcon®'95 Program Chairman informing me that my Symposium Proposal was accepted for inclusion in the 1995 Program. As you can see from this letter, I will soon need to supply publicity information and press release material to our Publicity Chairman. Therefore, I must ask you to provide the following material to me by the end of June:

- a title for your presentation ✓
- a preliminary abstract describing your presentation
- biographical information (1/4 p)

The Symposium being planned will be based on the programs run by the Technology Forum, a subcommittee of the Spectroscopy Society of Pittsburgh (SSP), one of the two cosponsors of the Pittsburgh Conference. The goal of the Technology Forum is to make science more accessible to people by highlighting the connections between technical issues and daily life. We make science and technology more accessible to the non-specialist. Here in Pittsburgh, we do this through a series of six monthly programs, a full-day continuing education symposium, and a lab tour. Program topics may be related to spectroscopy, chemistry, or simply general interest. Examples of past topics include "The Science of Speleology," a talk about caving, "Supertrains - The Promise of Maglev Technology," on magnetic levitation trains, "Bubbles," (a demonstration talk with bubbles), and "Laser Surgery."

Dr. Mildred Perry, a co-founder of the Technology Forum, will be Chairman of the Pittsburgh Conference Program Committee in 1995, and wanted to bring a "Tech Forum" like program to the Pittsburgh Conference in the form of a half-day symposium. She asked me, a former chairman of the Forum, to organize the Symposium. As you can see from the examples, our topics cover quite a range of subject areas. This is fine if you only have one program a month, but for putting five presentations back-to-back, I felt we needed something a little more cohesive. Therefore, I have tried to limit subject coverage to topics found as part of everyday life, culture, and hobbies. Such examples include art, music, religion, sport, and food. I believe that you will find the list of speakers and probable topics reflect that mix. The other difference between this Symposium and the Tech Forum programs back in Pittsburgh will likely be the audience. In Pittsburgh, the audience is quite diverse, often ranging from children, spouses, students, technicians to Ph.D. scientists. As part of the Pittsburgh Conference, the Symposium will be attended by conferees, who will likely have a background in either a technical or business area (or both).

The Pittsburgh Conference is one of the 50 largest trade shows in the United States, with an attendance typically around 30,000. The Technical Program will feature over 1600 technical presentations including Invited Symposia (such as this one), contributed papers, poster sessions, and short courses. Therefore, it is common to find over a hundred people attending a given technical program session. If the program is well publicized, and of particular interest, the attendance can be much larger. One comment that is appropriate is that we are a volunteer, nonprofit corporation dedicated to the enhancement of science and all the profits obtained are used for scholarships, grants, and programs that are administered by the sponsoring societies. We donate over $600,000 a year to such educational programs.

I look forward to meeting you, and will be in contact with you as the year progresses. If you have any questions or require additional information, I can be reached by phone at 412-892-6082 (work), or 412-221-5034 (home), fax at 412-892-6204, or EMAIL at "rothenbe@petc.doe.gov". Mrs. Alma Johnson, a member of the Pittsburgh Conference Office Staff, (412-825-3220 x202) is also a very helpful contact.

Sincerely yours,

Kurt Rothenberger, Ph.D.

INVITED SPEAKERS EXPENSE GUIDELINES FOR PITTCON '95

The Pittsburgh Conference strives to maintain the highest quality technical program possible. In doing so, we feel that financial considerations should not prevent an invited speaker from attending the Pittsburgh Conference. Therefore, the Conference makes the following offer to each invited speaker to ease their financial burden. "In the event that your employer will not reimburse you for all of your travel expenses to attend the Pittsburgh Conference & Exposition to present your invited paper, the Conference will reimburse you for those reasonable Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer." However, it should be noted that invited speaker expenses are one of the major conference expenses. By controlling expenses, you can ensure that the Conference has adequate funding to continue to sponsor numerous high quality invited symposia. Consequently, we ask that all invited speakers observe the following guidelines to help control costs and to ensure full reimbursement by the Conference. Specific instructions that explain how to make your travel and hotel arrangements will be provided in mid November.

To ensure full reimbursement, all domestic airline reservations must be made through the Conference designated travel agency. Domestic speakers may be reimbursed for an amount equal to the coach rate equal to the economy airfare not to exceed $900.

International speakers are not required to use the Conference designated travel agency. International speakers should note that their airfare will be reimbursed for an amount equal to the economy airfare not to exceed $900.

Speakers are encouraged to consider discounted ticketing in cases where alternate flight dates and/or times are not an inconvenience. The Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse speakers for March 4 expenses in instances where the Saturday arrival discount on the airfare can offset the room and meal expenses.

Reasonable travel and living expenses, including transportation and meals are reimbursable. Rental cars will not be reimbursed.

Original receipts are required. Photocopies of receipts are not acceptable. This includes all transportation tickets including airlines, meals, taxicab or other expenses. A lost receipt may be reimbursed (with documentation) for a maximum of $25.00.

Fax and telephone costs that are not related to the Pittsburgh Conference are not reimbursable. Those costs related to the Pittsburgh Conference must be justified. Other items that are not reimbursable include flight insurance, slide preparation, rental of A/V equipment, valet service, and entertainment of other speakers, conferees, spouses, etc.

Expense Guidelines
Invited Speakers

In most cases, room expenses will be charged to a master account that will be paid by the Pittsburgh Conference. In the event that an individual pays for room expenses, a receipt is required for reimbursement.

All financial transactions must be in US dollars. No funds will be transferred outside the United States.

Speakers in award symposia or contributed sessions will not receive reimbursement of expenses from the Pittsburgh Conference.

Thank you in advance for observing these guidelines. We look forward to making PITTCON₉₅ a memorable experience.

Dear Dr. Perry:

I am puzzled not to have received any response from you since writing to you on April 24th and enclose a copy of my letter.

Since writing to you, I have had a long conversation with Dr. Kurt Rothenberger, who explained that he remembered distinctly my asking that my wife's travel expenses be covered and that he agreed to that. He then just forgot to communicate this to you.

Dr. Rothenberger also assured me that I must be mistaken in remembering that an offer of an honorarium was made. Surely you know the old saying, "It is possible to be convinced and mistaken", and I accept that in this case, I just must be mistaken.

Dr. Rothenberger assured me that he would ask that my wife's travel expenses be reimbursed, and I look forward to your check for $377.30.

With best regards, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

Dear Dr. Bader:

Thank you for participating in the recent "Technology Forum: Just for Fun!" Symposium at the Pittsburgh Conference on Analytical Chemistry and Applied Spectroscopy (Pitcon '95). When we decided to organize the symposium back in early 1994, no one really knew how it would be received. I will always remember the sight of the second largest program room packed to standing-room-only capacity that morning. It was a very satisfying feeling and a tribute to you and all the other speakers. Our Technical Program Committee Chairman, Dr. Mildred Perry, was able to sit in on part of the program and was extremely pleased with the results. I wish to extend my personal thanks to you for helping to make the Technology Forum Symposium a smashing success!!!!

Dear Dr. Bader:

This letter is to confirm our recent telephone conversations concerning the Pittsburgh Conference on Analytical Chemistry and Applied Spectroscopy (Pittcon[®]'95). It is my pleasure to extend an official invitation to you to present a talk at the "Technology Forum: Just for Fun!" Symposium. Pittcon[®]'95 will be held the week of March 5-10, 1995, in New Orleans, LA. Although the Symposium date has not yet been determined, it will probably be on Wednesday, March 8, or Thursday, March 9.

For your information, I am enclosing copies of four documents. The "Invited Speaker Expense Guidelines for Pittcon[®]'95," describes the reimbursement policies and recordkeeping requirements pertaining to all the Invited Symposia. The expense account policy is as follows: "In the event that your employer will not reimburse you for all of your travel expenses to attend the Pittsburgh Conference and Exposition to present your invited paper, the Conference will reimburse you for those reasonable Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer." Normally, this includes the cost of transportation, housing, meals, and gratuities.

The "Guidelines for Symposium," describes the format of the Symposium. There will be five speakers, allotted 35 minutes apiece. I have also included a list of the other invited speakers for the Symposium including their mailing addresses, phone numbers, and probable topics.

The last document copy is a letter to me from the Pittcon[®]'95 Program Chairman informing me that my Symposium Proposal was accepted for inclusion in the 1995 Program. As you can see from this letter, I will soon need to supply publicity information and press release material to our Publicity Chairman. Therefore, I must ask you to provide the following material to me by the end of June:

Here in Pittsburgh, we do this through a series of six monthly programs, a full-day continuing education symposium, and a lab tour. Program topics may be related to spectroscopy, chemistry, or simply general interest. Examples of past topics include "The Science of Speleology," a talk about caving, "Supertrains - The Promise of Maglev Technology," on magnetic levitation trains, "Bubbles," (a demonstration talk with bubbles), and "Laser Surgery."

Dr. Mildred Perry, a co-founder of the Technology Forum, will be Chairman of the Pittsburgh Conference Program Committee in 1995, and wanted to bring a "Tech Forum" like program to the Pittsburgh Conference in the form of a half-day symposium. She asked me, a former chairman of the Forum, to organize the Symposium. As you can see from the examples, our topics cover quite a range of subject areas. This is fine if you only have one program a month, but for putting five presentations back-to-back, I felt we needed something a little more cohesive. Therefore, I have tried to limit subject coverage to topics found as part of everyday life, culture, and hobbies. Such examples include art, music, religion, sport, and food. I believe that you will find the list of speakers and probable topics reflect that mix. The other difference between this Symposium and the Tech Forum programs back in Pittsburgh will likely be the audience. In Pittsburgh, the audience is quite diverse, often ranging from children, spouses, students, technicians to Ph.D. scientists. As part of the Pittsburgh Conference, the Symposium will be attended by conferees, who will likely have a background in either a technical or business area (or both).

The Pittsburgh Conference is one of the 50 largest trade shows in the United States, with an attendance typically around 30,000. The Technical Program will feature over 1600 technical presentations including Invited Symposia (such as this one), contributed papers, poster sessions, and short courses. Therefore, it is common to find over a hundred people attending a given technical program session. If the program is well publicized, and of particular interest, the attendance can be much larger. One comment that is appropriate is that we are a volunteer, nonprofit corporation dedicated to the enhancement of science and all the profits obtained are used for scholarships, grants, and programs that are administered by the sponsoring societies. We donate over $600,000 a year to such educational programs.

I look forward to meeting you, and will be in contact with you as the year progresses. If you have any questions or require additional information, I can be reached by phone at 412-892-6082 (work), or 412-221-5034 (home), fax at 412-892-6204, or EMAIL at "rothenbe@petc.doe.gov". Mrs. Alma Johnson, a member of the Pittsburgh Conference Office Staff, (412-825-3220 x202) is also a very helpful contact.

Sincerely yours,

Kurt Rothenberger, Ph.D.

Dr. Mildred B. Perry
1995 Program Chairman
The Pittsburgh Conference
Suite 332

Pittsburgh, PA 15235-5503

Dear Dr. Perry:

I am surprised by your letter of April 11th, which was mailed April 19th and received only today; surprised because of the lack of communication between us.

I did not request an honorarium for $1,000, but that was offered to me very clearly in a telephone conversation in the spring of 1994. I explained that as I am over 70, I do not care to travel alone and would accept only if both my and my wife's travel expenses were covered.

Hence, please reconsider and send me your check for the honorarium and my wife's travel.

May I add that we tried very hard to keep our travel expenses to a minimum as you will see from my expense report.

What can we learn from this: Communication between people is so very important, and I should have insisted ~~for~~ written confirmation about the honorarium and travel expenses. Frankly, I didn't think for a moment that this would be necessary.

With best personal regards, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

AB/cw

INVITED SPEAKERS EXPENSE GUIDELINES FOR PITTCON '95

The Pittsburgh Conference strives to maintain the highest quality technical program possible. In doing so, we feel that financial considerations should not prevent an invited speaker from attending the Pittsburgh Conference. Therefore, the Conference makes the following offer to each invited speaker to ease their financial burden. "In the event that your employer will not reimburse you for all of your travel expenses to attend the Pittsburgh Conference & Exposition to present your invited paper, the Conference will reimburse you for those reasonable Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer." However, it should be noted that invited speaker expenses are one of the major conference expenses. By controlling expenses, you can ensure that the Conference has adequate funding to continue to sponsor numerous high quality invited symposia. Consequently, we ask that all invited speakers observe the following guidelines to help control costs and to ensure full reimbursement by the Conference. Specific instructions that explain how to make your travel and hotel arrangements will be provided in mid November.

To ensure full reimbursement, all domestic airline reservations must be made through the Conference designated travel agency. Domestic speakers may be reimbursed for an amount equal to the coach rate equal to the economy airfare not to exceed $900.

International speakers are not required to use the Conference designated travel agency. International speakers should note that their airfare will be reimbursed for an amount equal to the economy airfare not to exceed $900.

Speakers are encouraged to consider discounted ticketing in cases where alternate flight dates and/or times are not an inconvenience. The Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse speakers for March 4 expenses in instances where the Saturday arrival discount on the airfare can offset the room and meal expenses.

Reasonable travel and living expenses, including transportation and meals are reimbursable. Rental cars will not be reimbursed.

Original receipts are required. Photocopies of receipts are not acceptable. This includes all transportation tickets including airlines, meals, taxicab or other expenses. A lost receipt may be reimbursed (with documentation) for a maximum of $25.00.

Fax and telephone costs that are not related to the Pittsburgh Conference are not reimbursable. Those costs related to the Pittsburgh Conference must be justified. Other items that are not reimbursable include flight insurance, slide preparation, rental of A/V equipment, valet service, and entertainment of other speakers, conferees, spouses, etc.

Invited Speaker Expenses

If you are an Invited Speaker that does not reside in the U.S. or Canada, you may prepare your own airline arrangements. The Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse you for economy class airline tickets at a rate that is not to exceed $900.

I encourage you to take advantage of the Saturday air fares and arrive in New Orleans Saturday, March 4. The Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse you for reasonable expenses incurred by your early arrival. Early arrival will give you an opportunity to enjoy New Orleans and the Sunday evening program activities.

HOUSING

If the Pittsburgh Conference is paying for your room, in whole or in part, your reservations MUST be made through the Greater New Orleans Tourist and Convention Commission (GNOTCC). Before contacting GNOTCC, please review the enclosed Housing Form and map of New Orleans hotels. Choose four hotels that would best accommodate your needs. Your hotel preference will be honored where possible. When you have made your selections, call 1-800-PITT-N-95, or 1 (504) 566-5005, mail, or FAX your hotel form to GNOTCC. If you call, identify yourself as a 1995 Pittsburgh Conference Invited Speaker to ensure that you will be assigned to the correct room block. Any subsequent changes that you wish to make in your hotel arrangements must be made through the GNOTCC.

The Conference uses many complimentary rooms that it receives from the New Orleans Hotels to house Invited Speakers. If you are assigned to one of these rooms, you will not be asked to pay for your room and associated room tax when you check out. However, you will be asked to pay all other hotel-related expenses (i.e., phone calls...). These expenses should be included on your Expense Report.

If you are not placed in a complimentary room, you will be expected to pay your room bill, taxes, and other hotel-related expenses when you check out. You should include all allowable room charges on your Expense Report for reimbursement by the Pittsburgh Conference.

Failure to follow these guidelines could jeopardize full reimbursement of your room expenses.

MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSES

The Pittsburgh Conference will pay for reasonable expenses related to your participation in the Conference including lodging, meals and transportation. As a general rule, the Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse you for the same travel expenses that most industrial firms will reimburse you for. You will not be reimbursed for rental cars, flight insurance, slide preparation, rental of A/V equipment, entertainment of other speakers, conferees, spouse, etc., the costs of purely personal items such as clothing, jewelry, entertainment (including in-room pay TV), souvenirs, personal telephone calls, presents and valet service.

INVITED SPEAKERS EXPENSE GUIDELINES FOR PITTCON®'95

The Pittsburgh Conference strives to maintain the highest quality technical program possible. In doing so, we feel that financial considerations should not prevent an invited speaker from attending the Pittsburgh Conference. Therefore, the Conference makes the following offer to each invited speaker to ease their financial burden. "In the event that your employer will not reimburse you for all of your travel expenses to attend the Pittsburgh Conference & Exposition to present your invited paper, the Conference will reimburse you for those reasonable Conference-related expenses not reimbursed by your employer." However, it should be noted that invited speaker expenses are one of the major conference expenses. By controlling expenses, you can ensure that the Conference has adequate funding to continue to sponsor numerous high quality invited symposia. Consequently, we ask that all invited speakers observe the following guidelines to help control costs and to ensure full reimbursement by the Conference. Specific instructions that explain how to make your travel and hotel arrangements will be provided in mid November.

To ensure full reimbursement, all domestic airline reservations must be made through the Conference designated travel agency. Domestic speakers may be reimbursed for an amount equal to the coach rate/economy airfare--neither fare to exceed $900.

International speakers are not required to use the Conference designated travel agency. International speakers should note that their airfare will be reimbursed for an amount equal to the economy airfare--not to exceed $900.

Speakers are encouraged to consider discounted ticketing in cases where alternate flight dates and/or times is not an inconvenience. The Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse speakers for March 4 expenses in instances where the Saturday arrival discount on the airfare can offset the room and meal expenses.

Reasonable travel and living expenses, including transportation and meals are reimbursable. Rental cars will not be reimbursed.

Original receipts are required. Photocopies of receipts are not acceptable. This includes all transportation tickets including:

Airline (Airline Ticket Passenger Receipt must be included).

Taxicab (Always ask for a receipt).

Other expenses such as train, etc. (Passenger Ticket Receipt must be included).

Expense Guidelines

Meals (Only your meals will be reimbursed. If you choose to entertain a group of people, you must prorate the bill and the Pittsburgh Conference will reimburse you for your meal ONLY).

Please separate all of your expenses by day:

Meals: Breakfast (B), Lunch (L), and Dinner (D).

Telephone, Taxi's, etc.

A receipt is needed for all expenses over $25 and, where possible, we would appreciate receipts for expenses under $25.

Fax and telephone costs that are not related to the Pittsburgh Conference are not reimbursable. Those costs related to the Pittsburgh Conference must be justified. Other items that are not reimbursable include flight insurance, slide preparation, rental of A/V equipment, valet service, and entertainment of other speakers, conferees, spouses, etc.

In most cases, room expenses will be charged to a master account that will be paid by the Pittsburgh Conference. In the event that an individual pays for room expenses, a receipt is required for reimbursement. The Pittsburgh Conference does not reimburse for hotel in-room movies.

All financial transactions must be in US dollars. No funds will be transferred outside the United States.

Thank you in advance for observing these guidelines. We look forward to making PITTCON®'95 a memorable experience.
