Dear Trude,

Thank you for your letter of August 24th.

Clearly your meeting on the Franconia in 1963 was as important to you as my meeting Isabel on the same ship in July of 1949.

I am really happy that you will now finish your book and I very much look forward to reading it.

With best wishes I remain

Yours sincerely,
Alfred Bader

Dear Dr Bader,

18/12/00

For friends and supporters of the Centre for German-Jewish Studies, I am adding to my seasonal greetings a note about recent developments, for those who are interested.

We shall be entering the New Year with the prospect of three new colleagues joining us in different capacities. The most notable is the outcome of the advertisement for the new joint appointment of Director of the Leo Baeck Institute (London) and Lecturer in German-Jewish History at Sussex, closely associated with the Centre. We expect that Dr Raphael Gross will take up this new appointment on 1 May 2001. He has made his name as Assistant Professor at the University of Bochum through a series of original publications, above all his book 'Carl Schmitt und die Juden: Eine deutsche Rechtslehre' (which is being translated into English). A central theme is the debate between the progressive jurist Hans Kelsen and the conservative Carl Schmitt about the alleged antagonism between 'Jewish Law and Christian Grace'. After 1933, when Kelsen was forced to emigrate, it turned out that Schmitt's conception of 'Grace' was quite compatible with the ideology of National Socialism.

Our advertisement for a part-time Research Assistant (Archives and Publications) has also had a successful outcome. During the interviews, held on 11 December, it became clear that the duties set out in the Further Particulars could not all be assigned to a single candidate. We decided to appoint Samira Teuteberg, a young German woman with excellent library qualifications, as Research Assistant (Archives). She impressed us all, not least with her facility in deciphering old German handwriting. Members of the committee were also very impressed by a second candidate, Jonathan Hughes, who has just submitted his doctorate on the Austrian Jewish author Joseph Roth (as subject close to my heart). So we have decided to create a second part-time post of Research Assistant (Projects and Publications). Hughes's qualifications and experience mean that he should be able to represent me in certain functions for which I do not at the moment have a suitable deputy.

We continue to pursue funding opportunities to develop the Arnold Daghani Collection. We have just heard the outcome of the most ambitious of our applications, submitted to the Arts and Humanities Research Board during the summer. The application, prepared with the help of Deborah Schultz and other colleagues, was graded A + (the highest of the five grades). However, there were unfortunately not sufficient funds for the AHRB to support all A + applications (we have been encouraged to resubmit our application in May 2001).

The visit of Professor Wolfgang Benz from the Technical University in Berlin was one of our highlights in December. Before his lecture on Jewish Life in Germany after 1945, we had the opportunity to discuss possible collaborative research projects and we agreed to hold a joint workshop at Sussex (probably at the end of June 2001) on the Acculturation of German-Jewish Refugee Children who settled in England in the 1930s, which might in the longer term provide the basis for a more ambitious joint research programme.

There is thus plenty to look forward to in 2001, including our book on 'The Work of Jakob Lind', which should be out by the end of February, in time for Jewish Book Week; the issue of the journal 'Psychoanalysis and History' with our Freud Conference papers; and 'The Trial of Richard Wagner', to be held at the London Jewish Cultural Centre on Sunday 17 June.

On a more personal note, I have been advised by a doctor in Leicester with a special interest in dietary treatments for MS that I should go on a regime which avoids all milk products (including my favourite cheeses), tea, coffee and chocolate, animal fats and all red meats, and certain vegetables (including tomatoes and potatoes). Whether this will stabilize my illness remains to be seen, but the first indications are not unpromising. At all events, it looks as though I shall be one of the few people who actually lose weight over Christmas!

CGJS, University of Sussex, BN1 9QN

Warmest good wishes for Edward

Dear Alfred,

Small world! Diana and I leave for England tonight, for a family wedding; then an "American family" reunion in Virginia over the Labor Day weekend. Like you, I enjoy the privileges and complexities of an Anglo-American life. Do hope you and Isabel will come see our cornucopia of alchemical art, and give us the benefit of your deep knowledge and wise judgment.

As ever,
Arnold

Dear Arnold,

Dr. David de Witt, the first Bader Curator at Queen's University, has spent a few days with us and is returning to Kingston tomorrow.

I was mistaken in thinking that his brother, Lloyd, is his younger brother. They are, in fact, identical twins.

With all the best I remain

Yours sincerely,
Alfred Bader

Dear Mr. Bader,

Your few lines to my letter, I agree, do not ask for a response from me, I do understand. But I will write about another subject, that I have not commented on before now, even though it is very much on and in my mind and in my heart.

I hope it will not bother nor bore you. Your book, which I am more than happy that you sent me at the time, I have never mentioned to you before or made any comment on it.

I have enjoyed it more than most all of the biographies of any of my contemporaries, and there is a reason for it. It has many similarities with my own life as well as coincidences which are amazing.

It also had an enormous influence on me, since I decided to finally have my own book edited and printed after it existed before only as a manuscript. When it is ready, I will send it to you for sure.

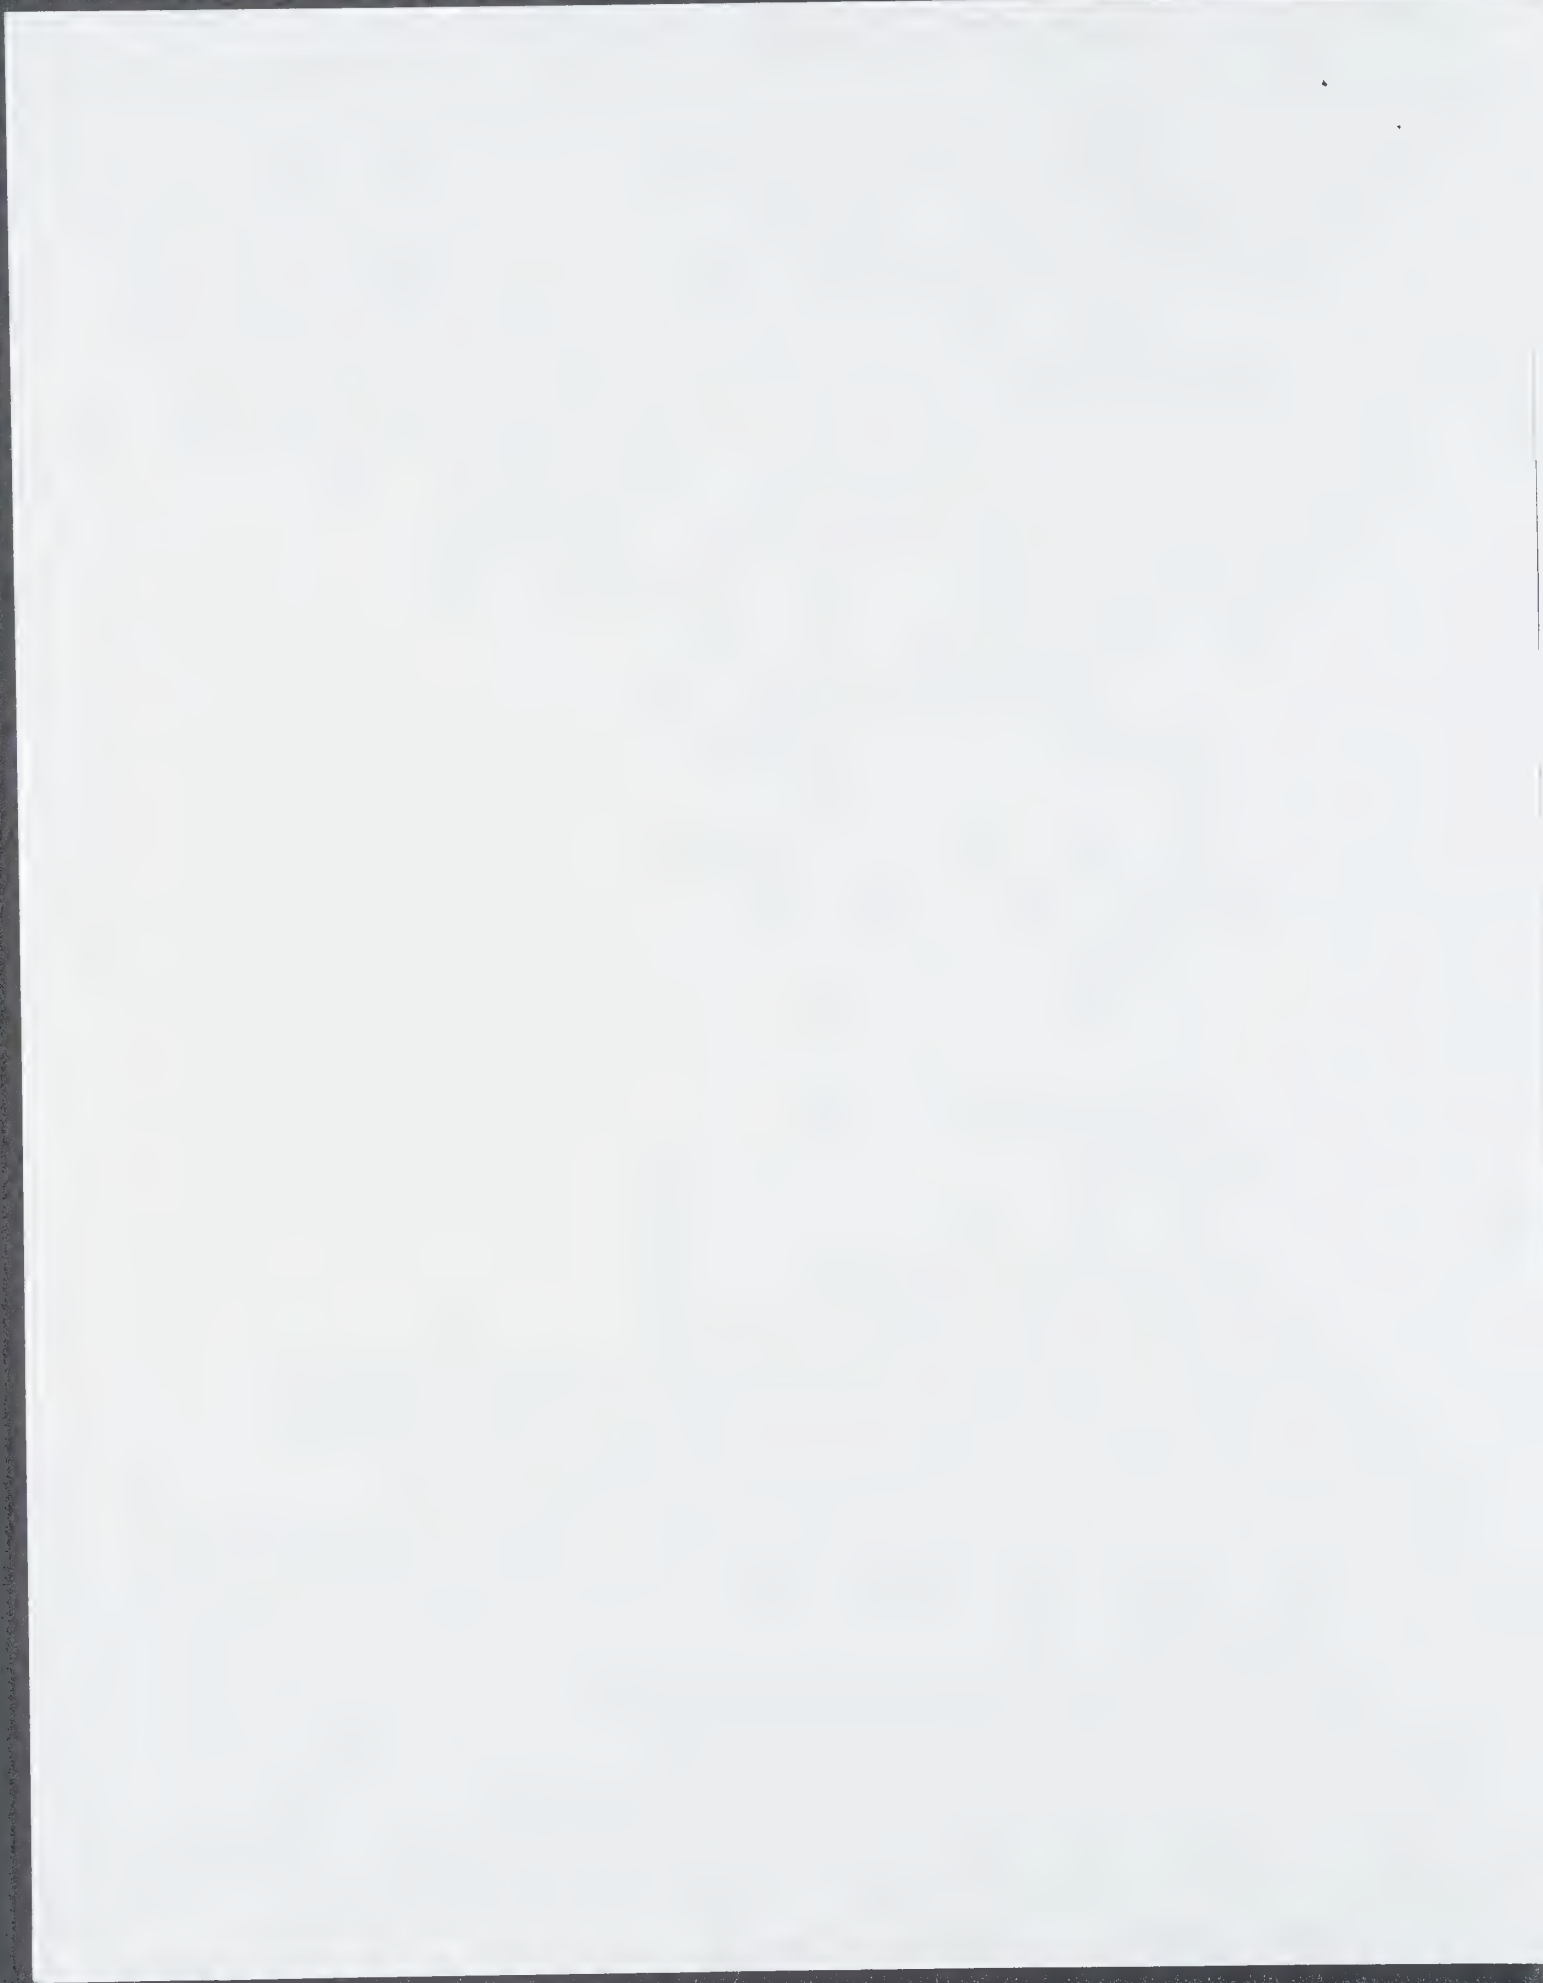

I now will only write about one single coincidence, which I think will amuse you !

I met David New Years Eve 1963 also on the "Franconia" on a cruise to the Caribbean. I was forced to take that cruise, mainly by David Susskind, you might have known him, because I went half crazy after Kennedy's assassination, having worked for him to establish the Peace Corp. The Franconia was a newly refitted beautiful ship made ready for the spoiled 1,000 American passengers for their winter vacations. It was David's first cruise after his regular crossings to Montreal as an officer of Cunard .

He was only a young man but had wisdom and knowledge of Methuselah. I, who have known interesting men, statesman and others, was so elated and impressed that when the end of the cruise-time came I was ready to leave everything behind me and follow him to England. But that of course this you will read in my book one day!

Do you now understand a little, why I feel so close to you, and want to call you a friend.

For today this is quite enough. I don't even know if you will open my letter, I do hope so.

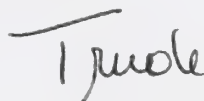

Just another comment. I feel terrible about everything that is going on in this country. The war in Iraq, the destruction of old Mesopotamia, the death of so many intelligent people, not understanding Iran and the very troublesome happenings in Israel, in which I still don't see any solution at all. I suffer with all these people and see no end to it !

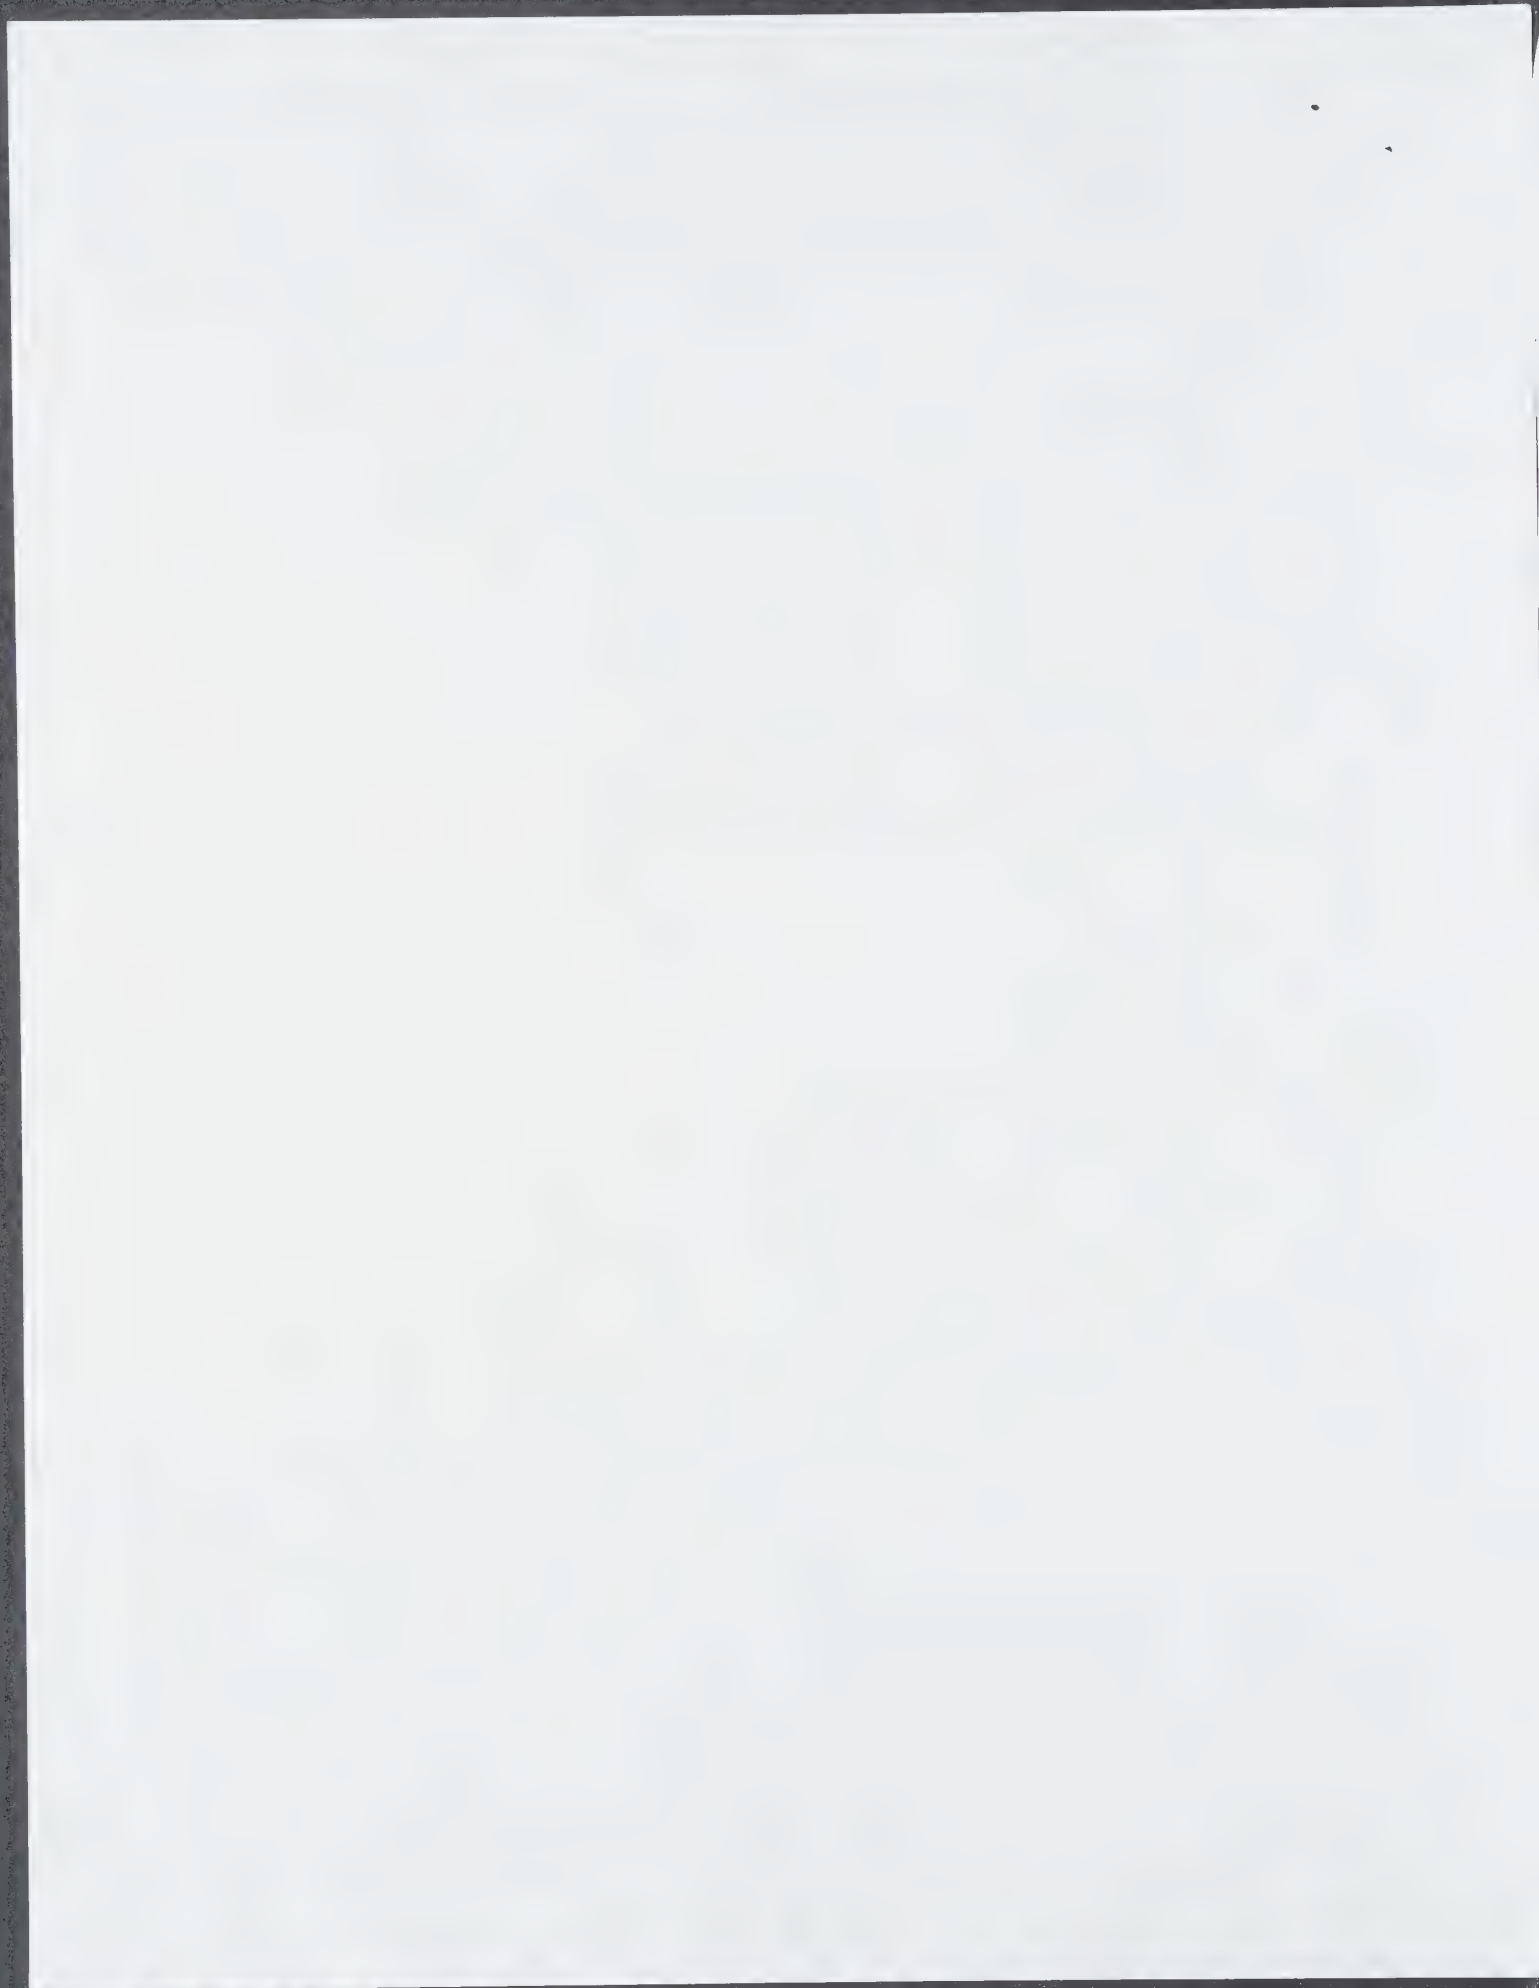

Another worry are elections in Germany, and the draconian methods that Tony Blair has found necessary to declare in England!

This is all for a morning lecture, please don't be angry, just laugh it off !

Best greetings

Dear Alfred,

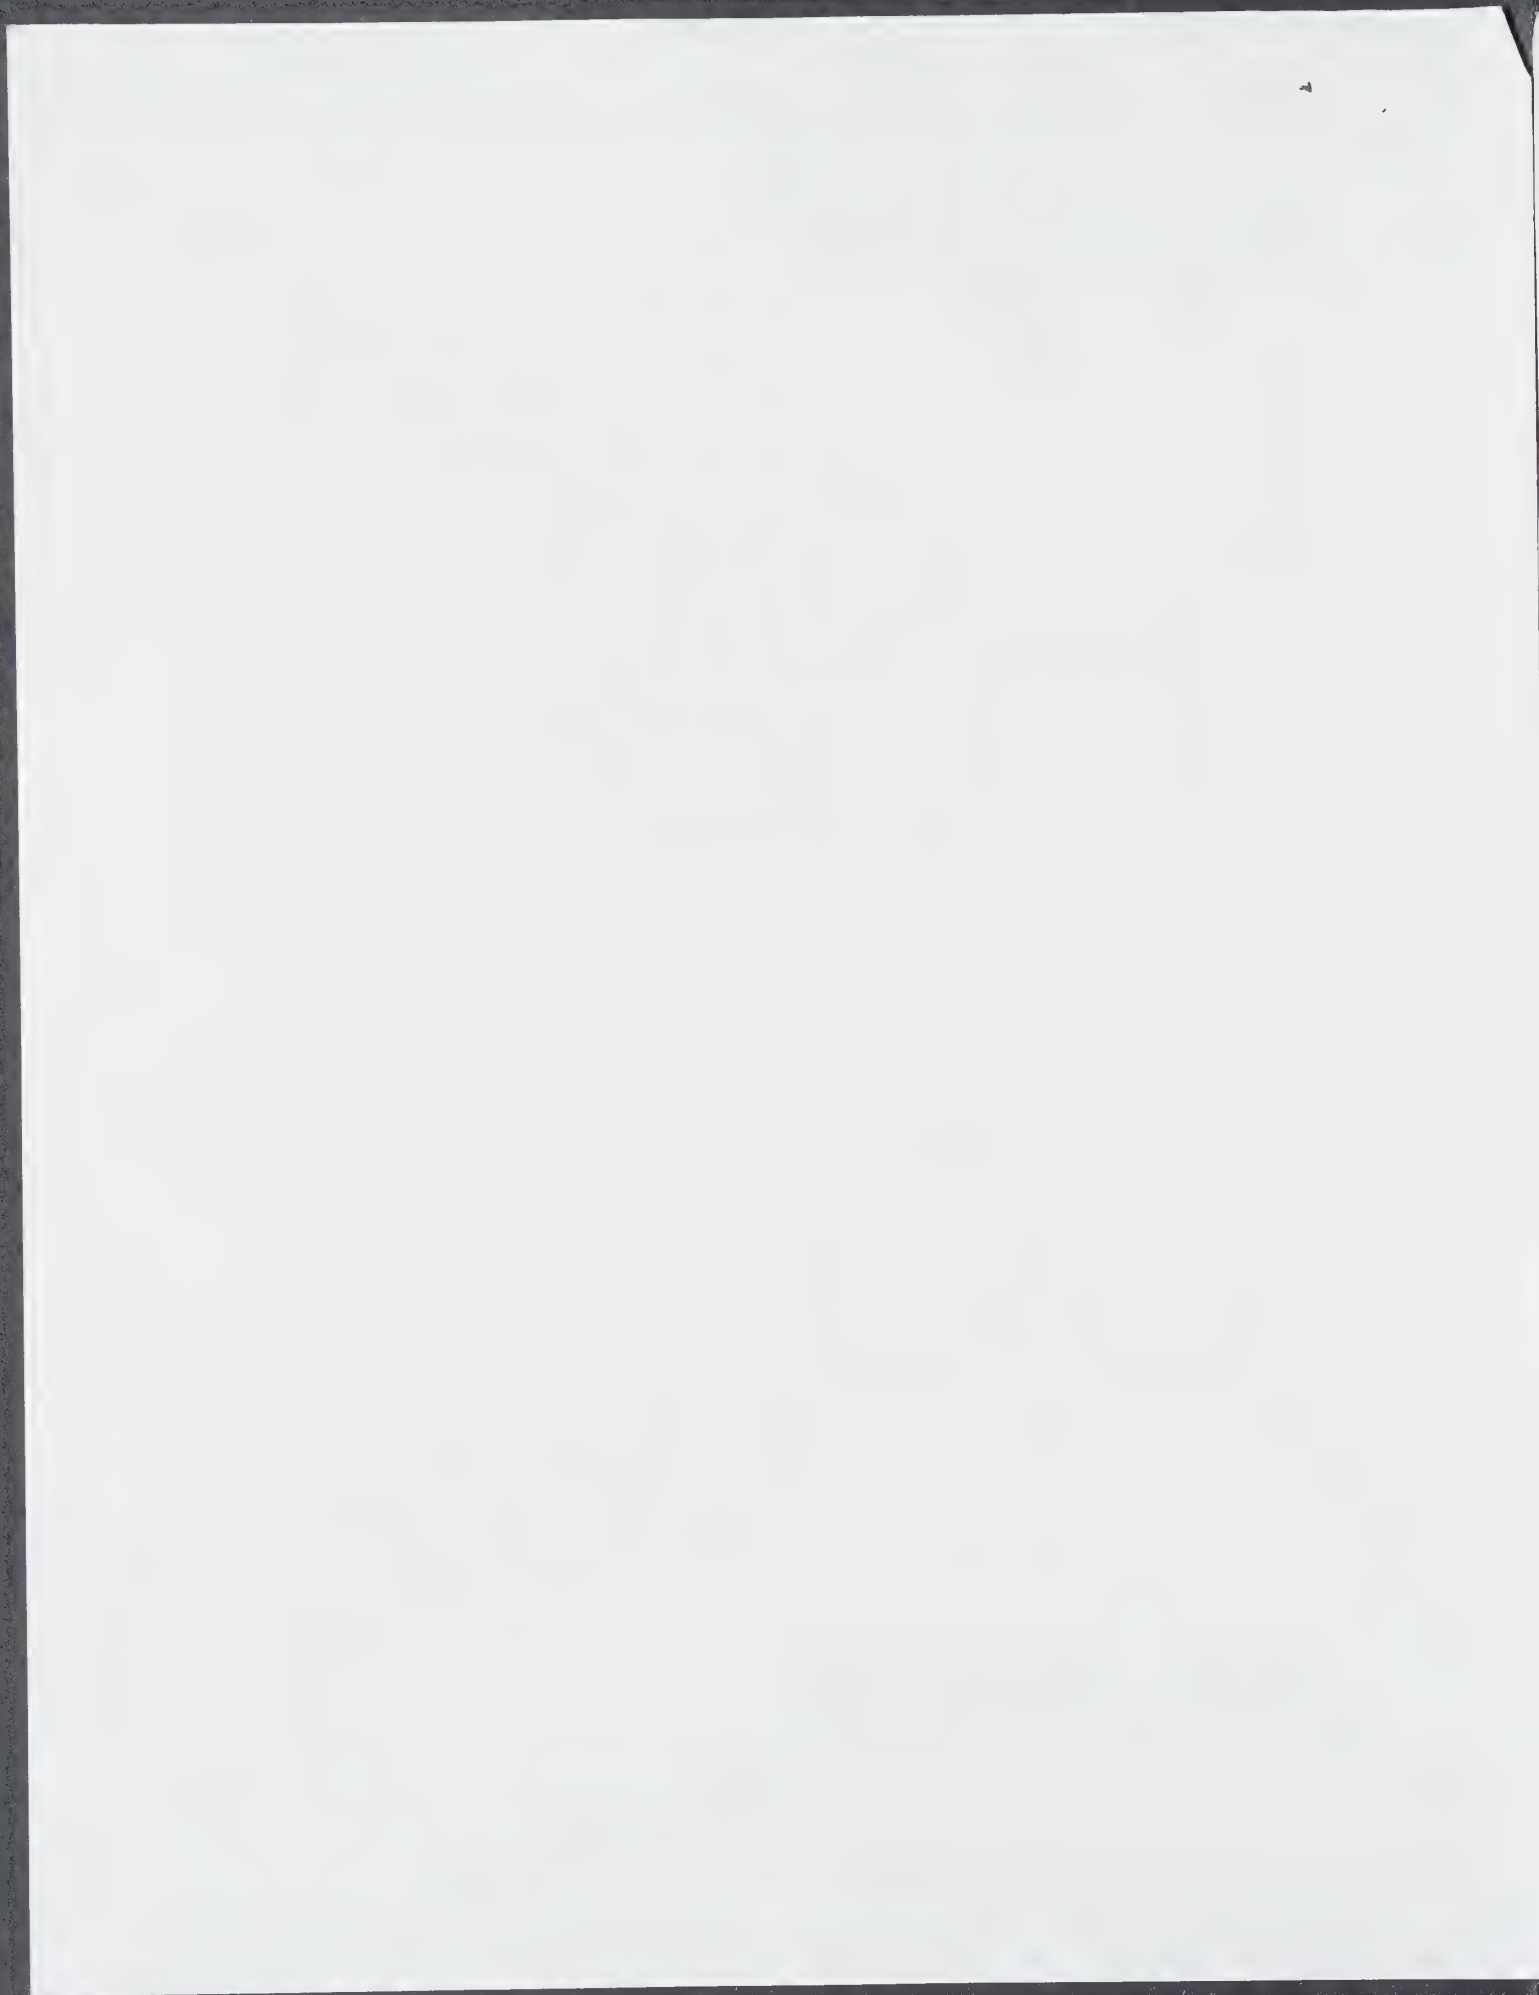

Thank you so much for your letter. It made me truly happy to read your words.

You asked after Germany. Well, after two years in Jerusalem it was difficult at the beginning. For example, I was wearing kippah only on Shabbat but I was told that it is dangerous on the streets because of some groups of young Arabs harassing Jews. Rabbi Rothschild was one of the victims some time ago and he told me in person about his broken glasses. Therefore, I bought a black hat to avoid a strange feeling of taking off kippah immediately after services.

There is a fence in front of every Jewish building and a policeman 24 hours a day. People have a fear of a possible attack. I think it is almost schizophrenic since nothing happened so far. I was very upset when a German policeman told me a couple of weeks ago that I cannot enter the synagogue so early. Behind the synagogue's door there is another surprise – Israeli security guards and a checking point. Would you believe that I was not allowed to enter the synagogue on my very first Shabbat in Berlin because I was somehow suspicious and did not have an ID with me? I do not need to mention that I went home crying.

Nevertheless, now I am very balanced and quite satisfied in Berlin. I learn every day Hebrew and even speak Hebrew with a Russian Jew who lives in my dormitory. I also prepare for Yamim noraim since I invited myself to Rabbi Tovia Ben Chorin in Zürich. For Shabbat Shuva, I will chant there all Haazinu, have a short D'var Torah and lead Torah studies.

One Shabbat I spent in the Lauder Yeshiva in Berlin. I was amazed how even rabbis were operating with simple categories without asking any questions. For example: "They are only 21 birds forbidden compared to the 30 000 birds in the nowadays encyclopedias. Therefore, we are well off." Well, the word "nowadays" is exactly the problem making the entire claim very naïve for me. Abortion is another problem of the Jewish law if we take into consideration Ex 21:22. But even if we do not take it into consideration and argue that an abortion is a murder why then Jewish law says that we do not get a soul until the birth? If it is a murder, what do we murder? I am not for abortions but I cannot leave the inconsequence of the Jewish law unnoticed. Last but not least, I claim that a soul as a non-material entity independent on the body is not a Biblical concept but a rabbinical one, perhaps under the influence of the Greek philosophy.

In July, I attended some classes at the University of Potsdam with Prof. Admiel Kosman. He is a Talmudic scholar (without kippah) from Bar Ilan University. He wrote for Haaretz and published six collections of his poems. Many consider him controversial but I have not found yet a reason. He is an amazing teacher and I would like to attend all of his lectures next semester: Avodah zarah, Women, Sages and Bible and Ethics in Talmud.

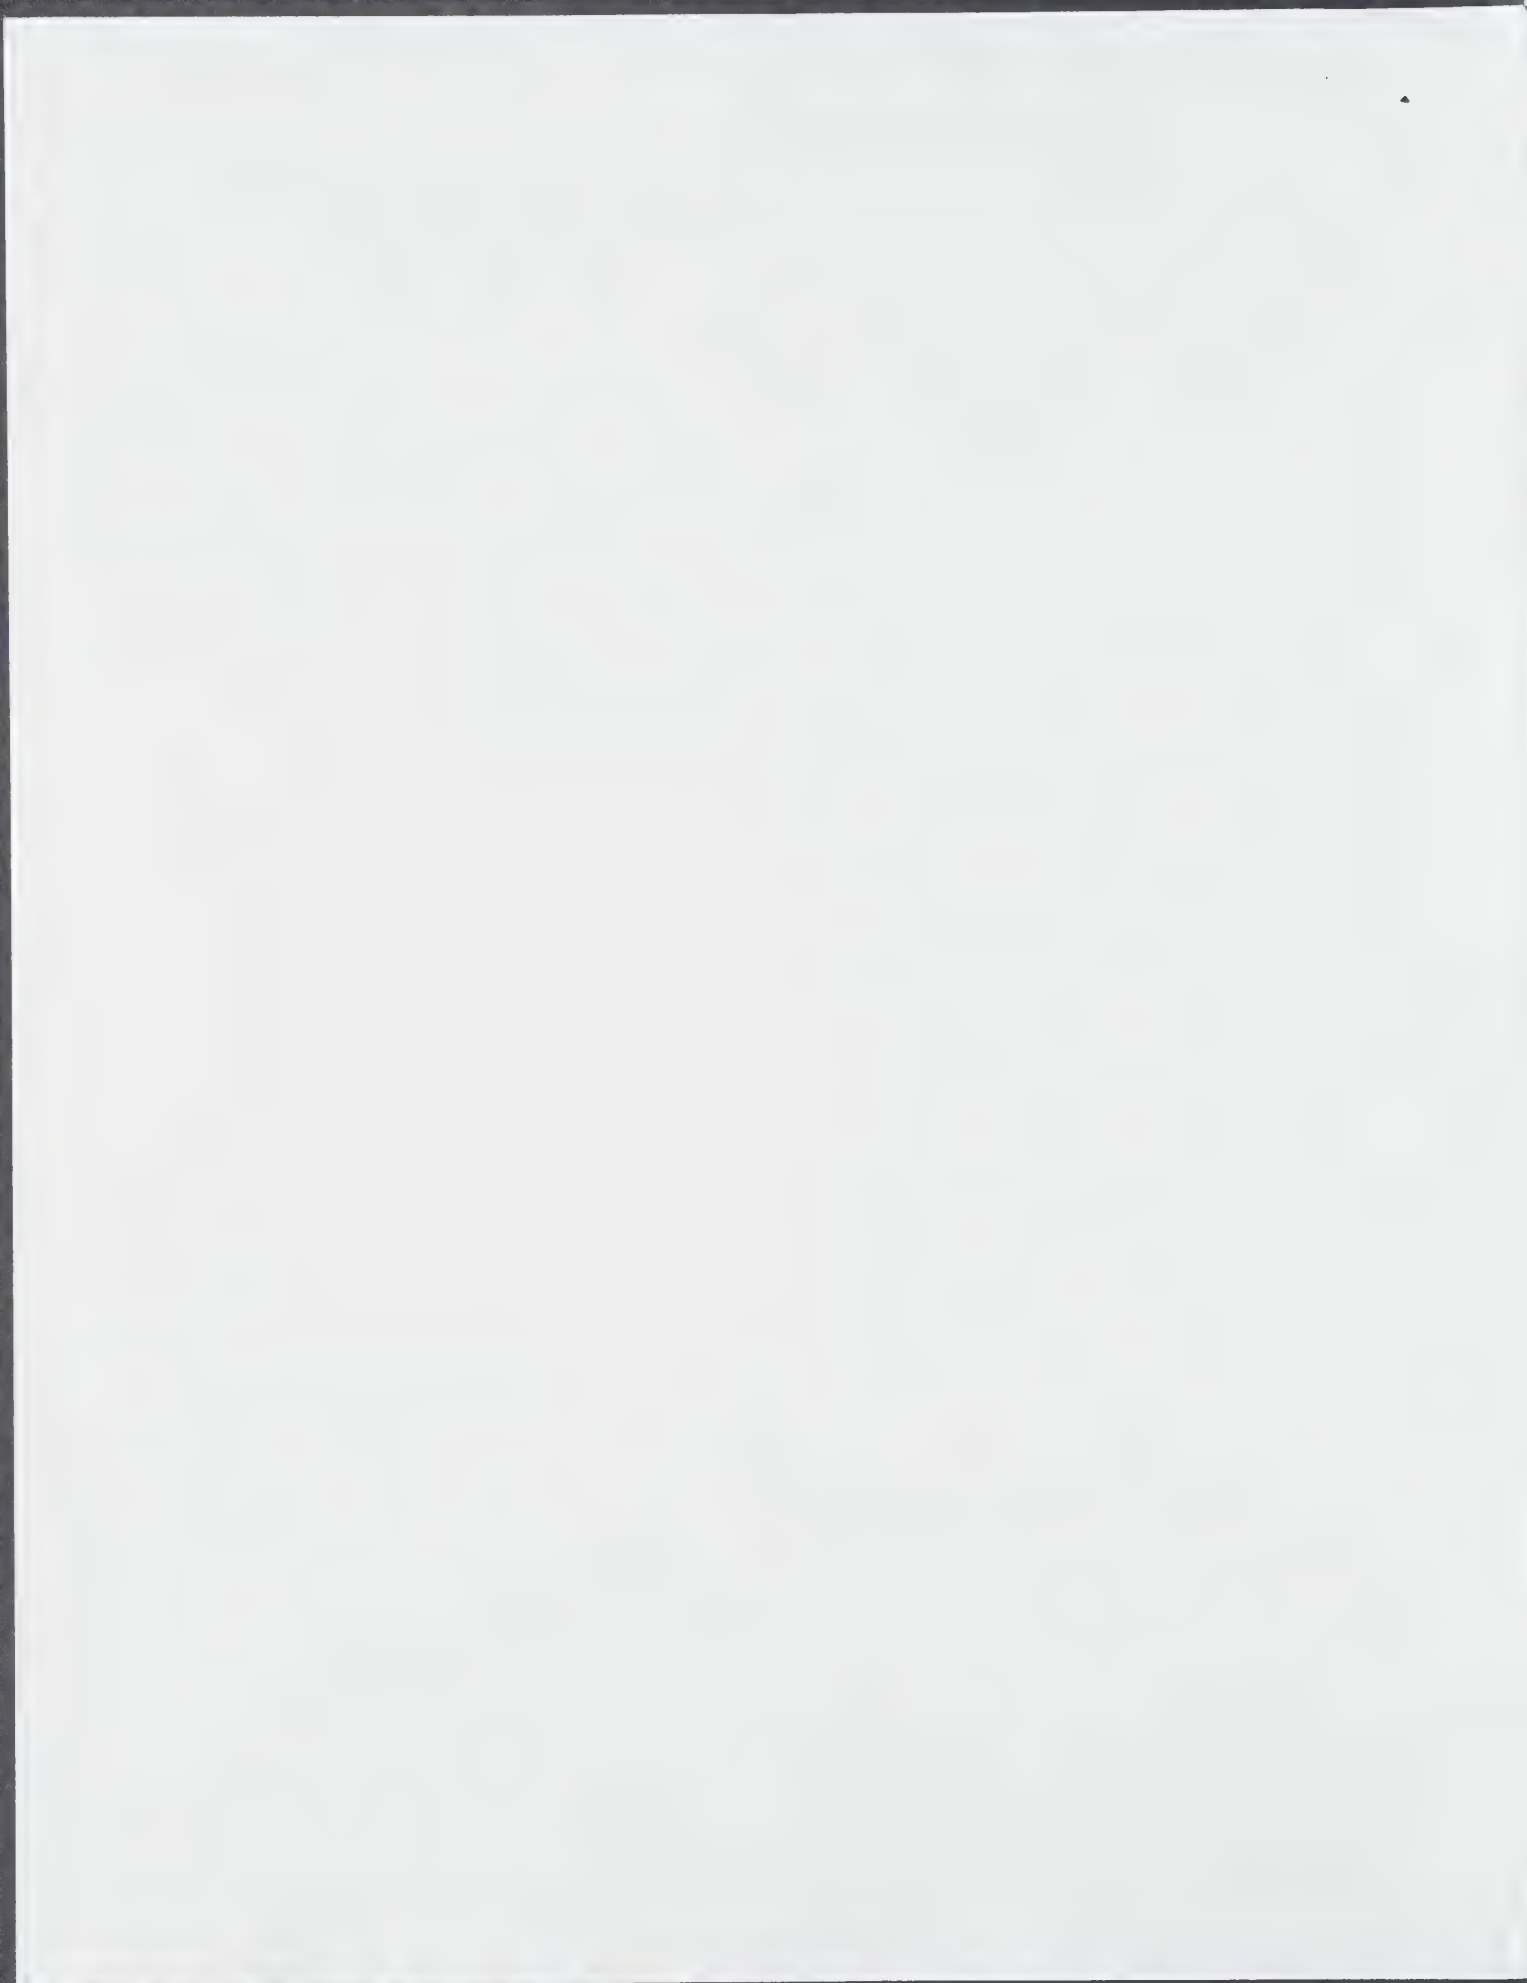

Thank you for writing me about your Jewish approaches. I always liked very much yours and Isabel's independence. Here in Berlin I feel very independent of all the Halachic fanatics and very strong with my Jewish identity. I even put tefilin every morning even though in Jerusalem I have not done it at all.

I know how much you and Isabel like each other and that always impressed me. I wish I could be one day in such a meaningful relationship too but I doubt it. One of my biggest questions is if under these circumstances I can still be happy and balanced. So far, I am. Do you believe in the previous lives? I do not but it might explain many things, as I was told in Jerusalem.

Shabbat Shalom,

Tom

P.S. I never heard about Rabbi Yosef Leibowitz but I hope you will enjoy him.

Dear Dr. Tobias:

I am sorry that a long trip to England has delayed my thanking you for your delightful letter and your most interesting book.

How odd that no one was willing to help you with the film on Vermeer. What a strange lack of reaction! My own connection with films has been very slight; one of my Sunday school students, Jim Abrahams, became a very successful producer of funny films. You can read about him on page 54 of my autobiography, where, unfortunately, his name is misspelled.

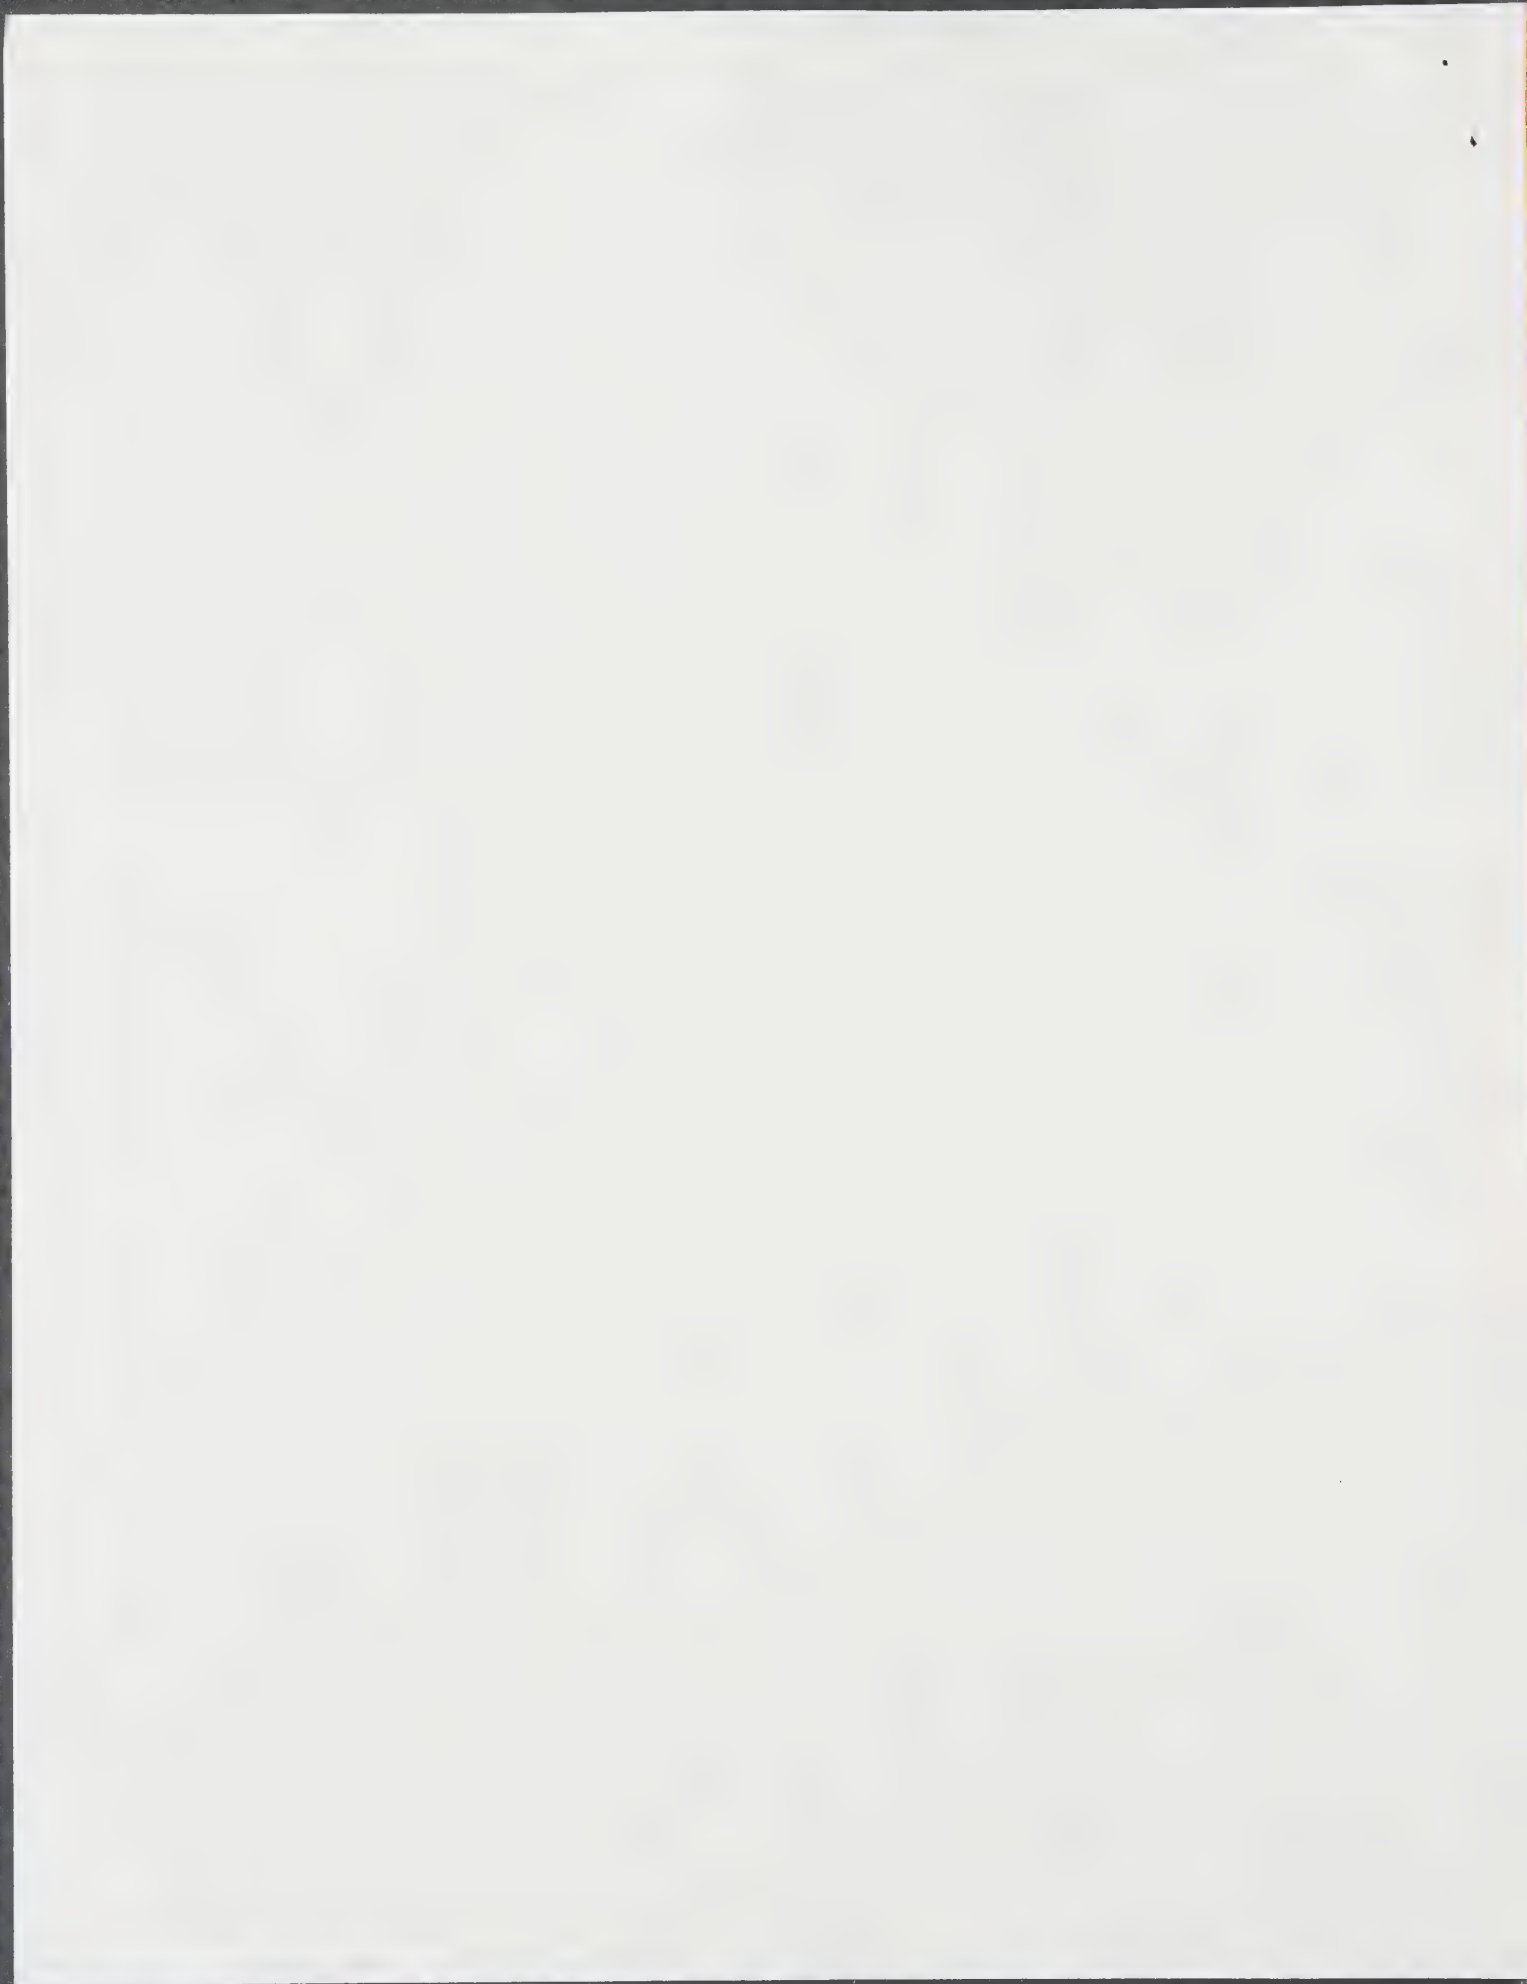

Recently my literary agent, a very able man, Jeffrey Simmons in London, has been negotiating with a producer of documentaries, Mr. Gordon Henderson in Canada, to produce a documentary on my life. Mr. Henderson's attorney and Mr. Simmons are just drafting an option to give Mr. Henderson's firm, 90th Parallel Productions, Ltd., one year to line up backers for the film. But of course, I am saying to myself that if you had difficulties with Vermeer, how much more difficult will Mr. Henderson have it with Bader?

Whenever you visit the Midwest, please do plan to visit us so that I can share my collection with you.

With all good wishes for 1996, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

AB/cw

Dr. Alfred Bader

Dear Dr. Bader,

I was thrilled to receive your autobiography -and amazed by the multiplicity of images in your possession resembling my "Old Man" painting, one in particular.

I was also not unimpressed by the backcover image on the book, and your connection to it.

In reading through the book, I note your kindred interest in Delft, as well as Dosso Dossi, subjects of equal interest to me, as you will see in the enclosed book.

On Delft, I have been trying to do a definitive documentary film on Vermeer for many years. I had hoped to have it ready for the current exhibition and had every connection in the world, including the curator of the National Gallery willing to help, the largest network in the Netherlands prepared to broadcast it, and the curator of the Delft Museum agreed to hold the premiere there, across from where Vermeer lies entombed at this moment.

Amazingly, no one -no bank, no sponsor, no wealthy denizen of Delft -no one- was willing to spend a nickle to see the first and ever film on Vermeer made. It's perplexing. His life, as you know, was astounding.

I have made over 100 films in my brief career, but for some reason, Vermeer -whom I consider the greatest of the greats- has not seen the light of day. It is a film that the world - which is hemorrhaging in so many ways- should have.

Alas!

My sincerest regards,

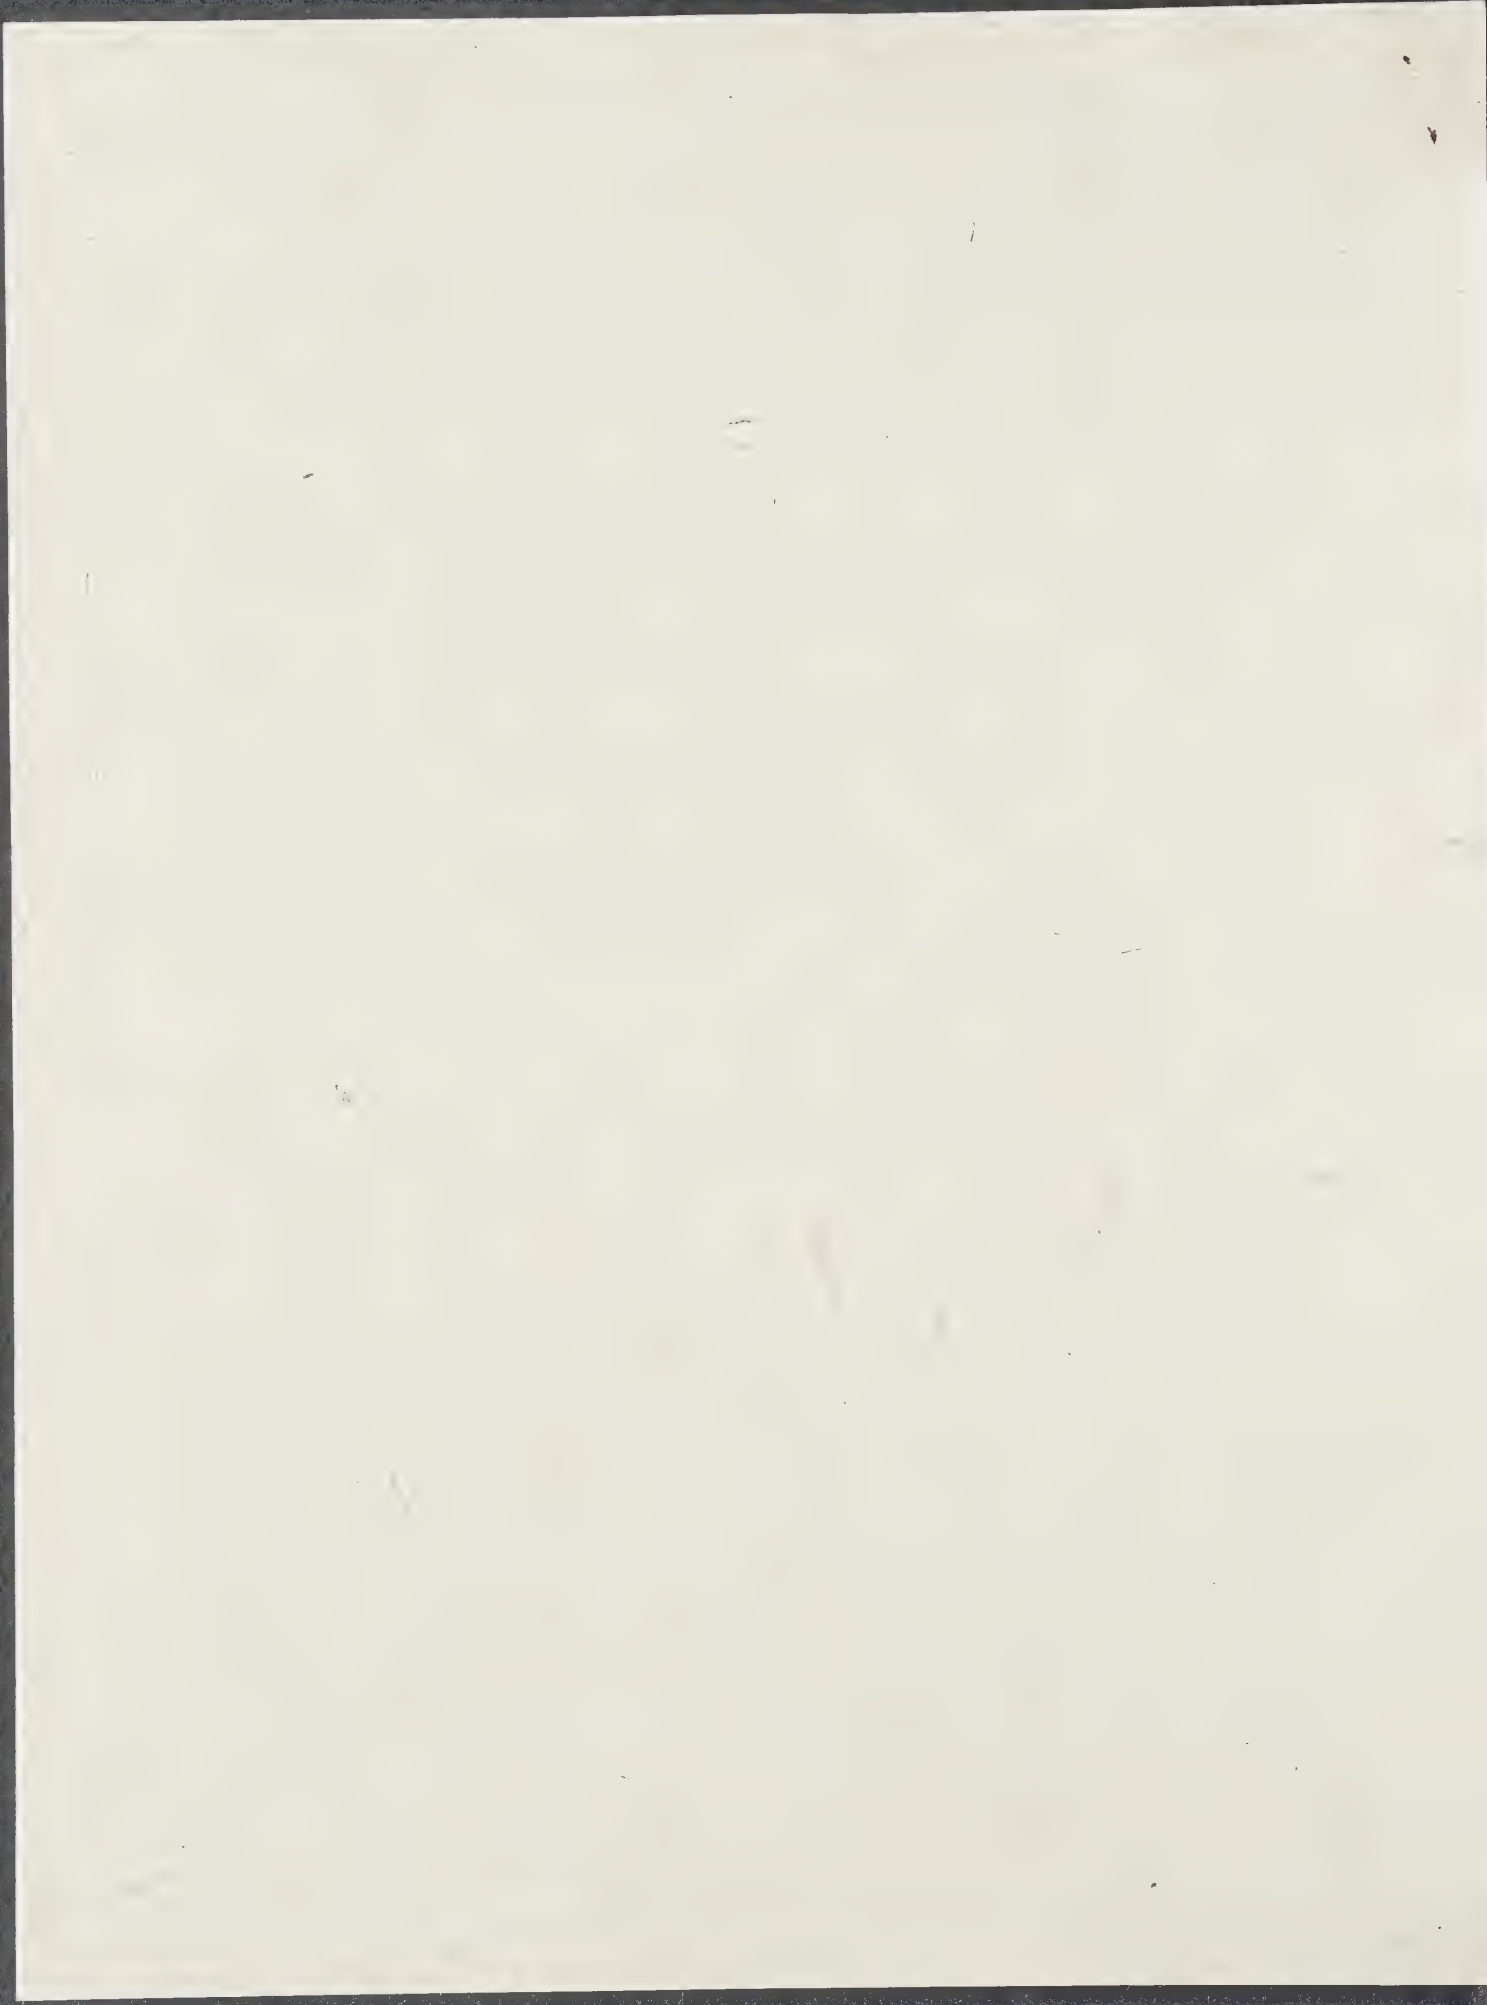

Michael

Dear Janet:

What a pleasure to hear from you, both by phone and letter, after all these years.

From time to time, I would look at that photograph of that serious girl with beautiful red hair and wonder what happened to her. Now at least I have a small part of the story and hope to learn more before long.

You wrote that you retired in 1980, but didn't tell me what you did before. When we parted in Crystal Beach in 1947, it was clear to both of us that we liked each other, but you told me that you wanted to spend the next seven years as a missionary. Did you become a missionary?

Thank you so much for that beautiful triangular work in quartz. What a thoughtful gift.

My 50th reunion at Queen's will be this coming October. Do you perchance plan to attend that reunion also? If so, you and Isabel and I should reserve some time to get to know each other better.

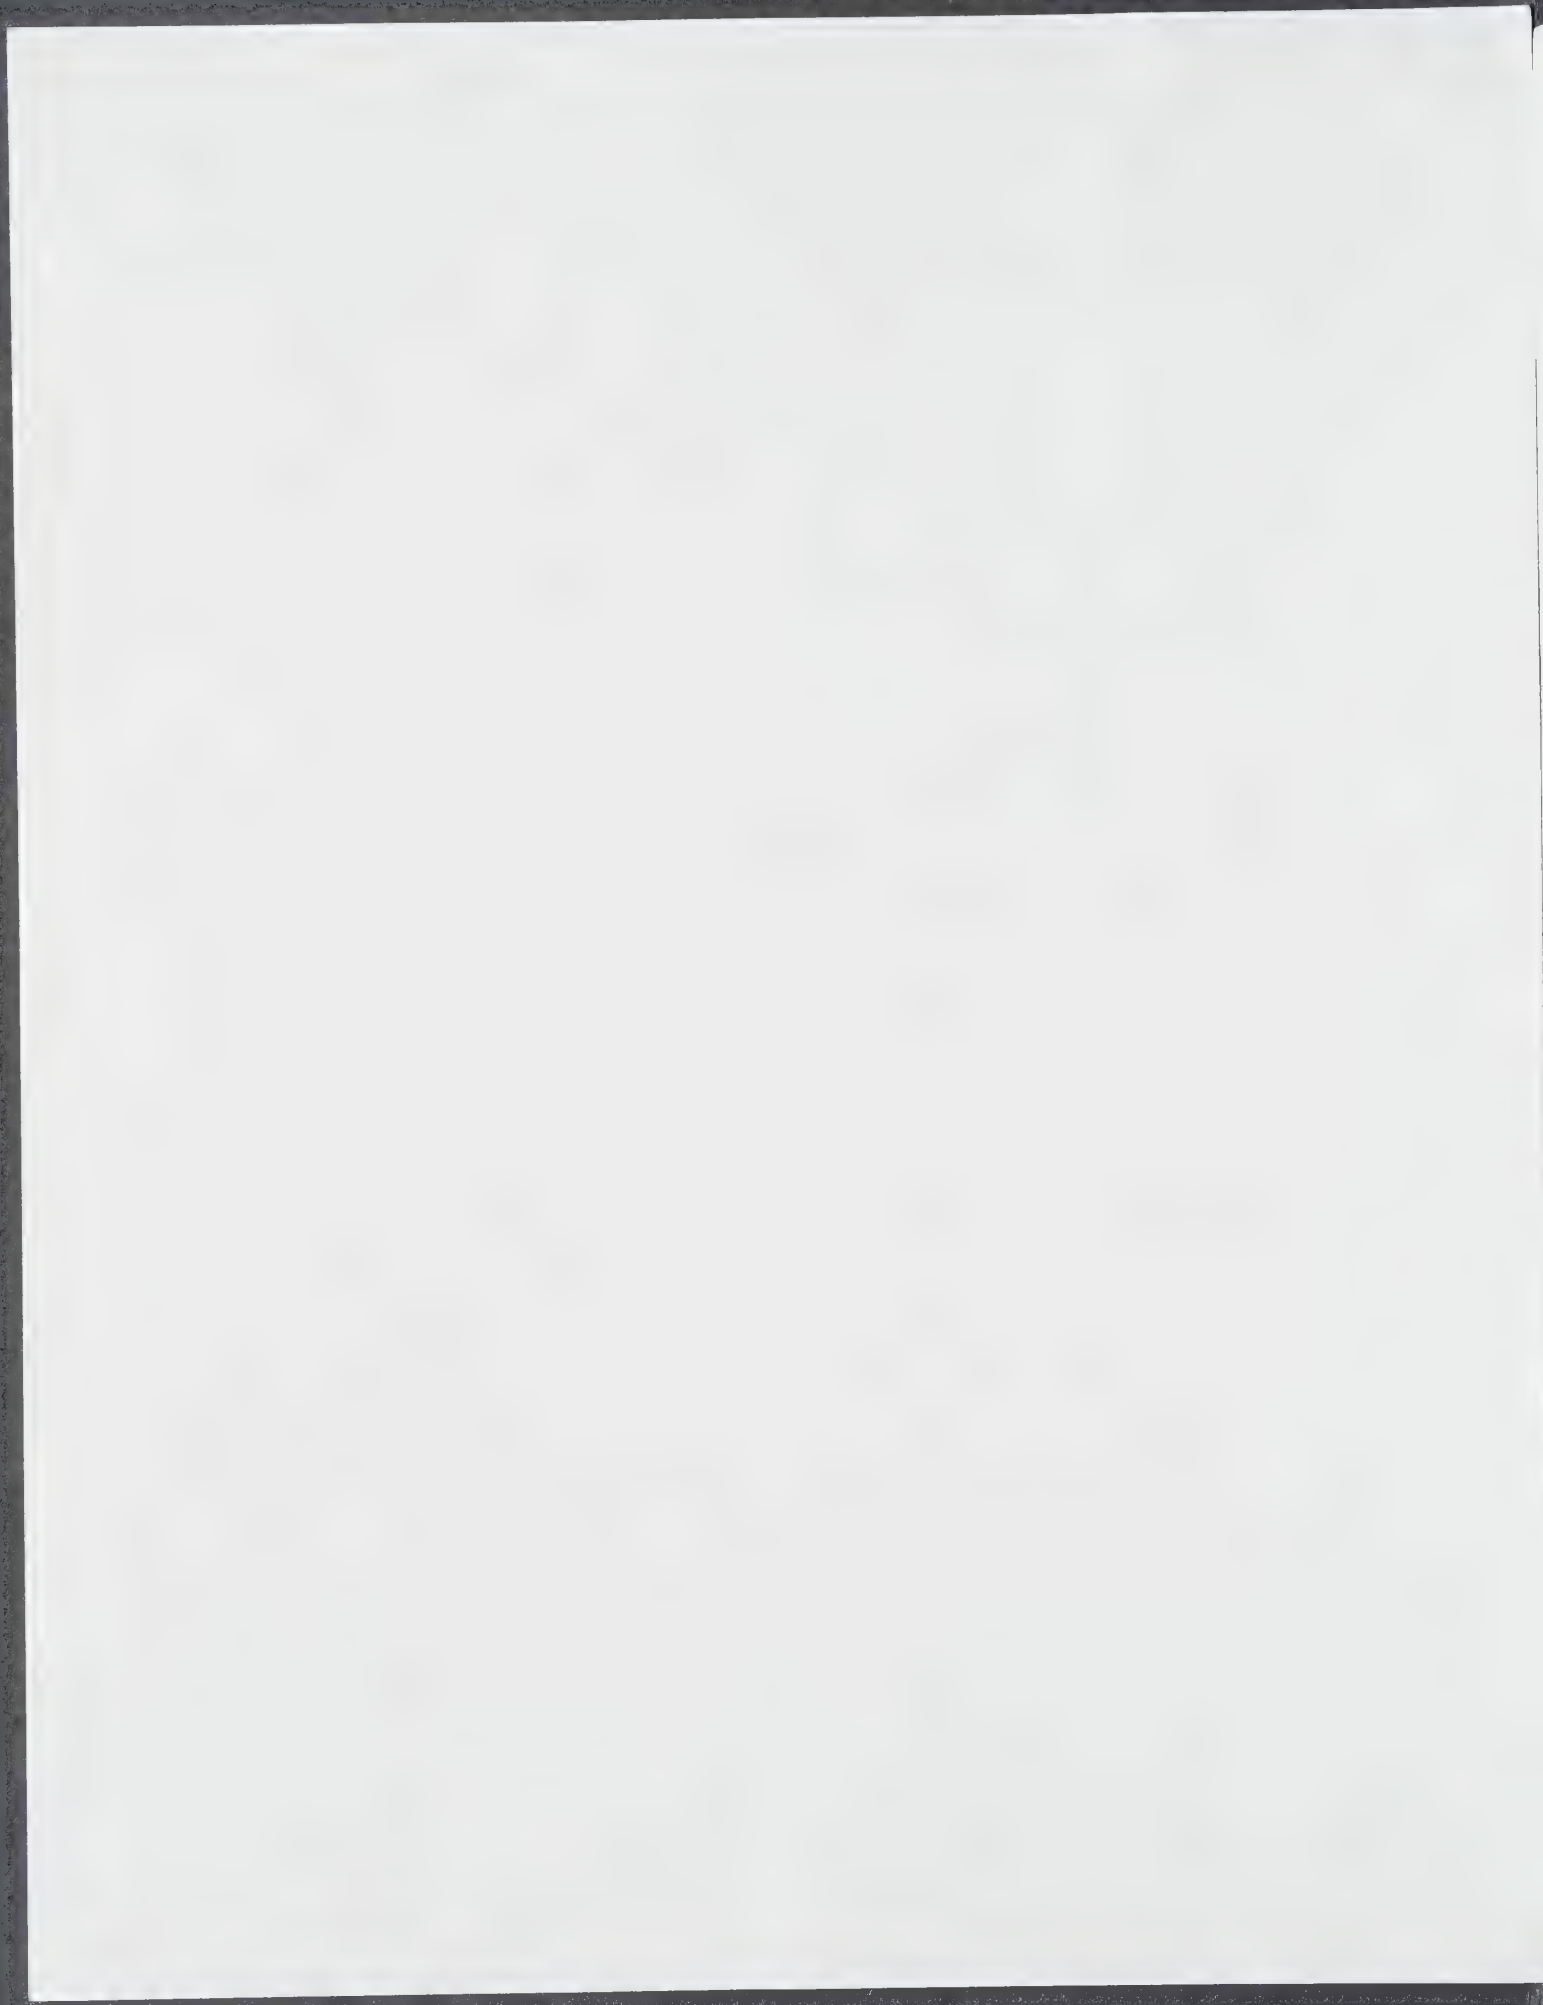

To have an elder hostel program at Herstmonceux sounds like a splendid idea. What reaction did you receive?

I enclose a description of the Castle and look forward to seeing you personally before long and then giving you a number of books that may be of interest. What a boat is to you, paintings are to me, and so much of what I have written relates to paintings.

With all good wishes, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

Dear friend

It was most enjoyable to exchange a few words on the telephone, the morning of May 1st. I apologize for causing you a delay at the book-signing session. Your accomplishments continue to accumulate and I would love to have known you as a friend and to have known our acquaintance.

I remember the shy M.Sc. chemistry graduate whom I approached to take part in our Int'l. Book Signing Hour at Stan High. Having declined the invitation, you confessed to me later, that it was only your shyness that prevented you from accepting the offer.

I remember your surprise visit to Crystal Beach and the pleasant time we spent discussing the things that meant most to us.

Life is a journey with each day bringing opportunities for knowing the Goodness and Love of God. I am so grateful for many experiences — some pleasant, some unpleasant — from which I have found peace, contentment and joy.

When I retired in 1990 I bought a home in Crystal Beach. Our beautiful village and Park have been devastated by Regional Government greed. It is a story that had to be told. The enclosed video documents the 100 year history of the rise and fall of Crystal Beach. Last summer was spent in the recording studio, preceded by several months of script writing.

Because of my efforts in making the video I was asked to join the Canadian Council for the restoration of the S.S. Canadiana. This is a joint volunteer project, with groups registered in New York state and 15 states. The enclosed brochure will give you an indication of the scope of our undertaking.

For your listening pleasure, I have included a CD featuring the soloist Claudette. She is a close friend of mine. She has had a long career both in Opera and personal concert appearances. Her 4 CD's make her an authority on the works of 19th and 20th century French composers. She is a cousin to our new Governor General, Romeo LeBlanc.

Perhaps you can lecture on this again.
I will be able to attend. It would be great to see you and to hear about all the things you are doing. Although I am not married and live alone, I have a good friend who is a marine engineer who is in charge of all the technical aspects of the S.S. Canadiana's restoration.

I have offered my volunteer services to the Society to help with any aspect of the restoration of the S.S. Canadiana. It would be great to offer an educational program in history with the aim of international understanding.

I hope that the official opening of the S.S. Canadiana and the dedication of the S.S. Canadiana went well. It must have been a wonderful event and I would love to have been there. With best regards,

S.S. Canadiana
The Restoration... How and Why.

THE S.S. CANADIANA

Built in 1910 the S.S. Canadiana is a historic turn of the century steamship. She is 216 feet long, 54 feet wide and 3 decks high.

The Canadiana was pure elegance with brass chandeliers, leaded stained glass windows and hand painted art on the ceilings.

More than a ride, with a bar, stage and enormous dance floor, The Canadiana was a floating entertainment centre in her own right.

Once restored, she will be the last remaining ship on the Great Lakes powered by a triple expansion steam engine.

Port Colborne will be her home Canadian port.

THE S.S. CANADIANA PRESERVATION SOCIETY INC.

A joint American and Canadian Board comprised of business people, marine engineers, historians, municipal leaders and professionals from a broad sector.

The Board enjoys charitable, non-profit status.

OUR EFFORTS TO DATE

It is finally able to be done!

After more than 10 years of dedication and perseverance, the S.S. Canadiana restoration project was awarded a Federal grant of $400,000 U.S. through New York State to restore the hull of this historic vessel.

However, we do need to raise $100,000 U.S. as a matching share to secure this grant. While this is certainly a sizable amount, surely it is attainable.

This initial funding will accomplish the restoration of the hull which is the first stage in floating the ship.

The hull restoration and related work will be done in Port Colborne at the Marsh Engineering Ltd. Dry Dock, where the Canadiana is presently located.

BENEFITS OF THE PROJECT

Job Creation and Economic Development

JA ver 50 direct man years of work will be created in Niagara during the refurbishment of the steamship and the construction of shore facilities.

The spin-off benefits for hotels, motels, tour buses, shops and restaurants.

Increased Tourism

Imagine the magnificence of the Canadiana dropping anchor in your town to make success of functions such as:

- The Friendship Festival in Fort Erie/Buffalo
- Canal Days and Ethnic Week in Port Colborne
- Mudcat Festival in Dunnville
- Dover Days in Port Dover
- Rose and Heritage Festivals in Welland
- Wine & Grape Festival in St. Catharines

Educational

The S.S. Canadiana will be a floating museum. A commitment will be made for school trips to explore this type of steam-powered ship.

Day cruises in the Welland Canal and the shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario will focus on the geography and history of the Niagara Peninsula.

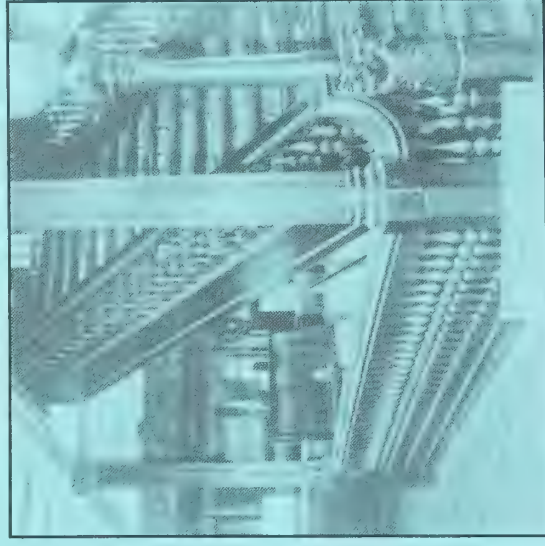

Affordable Family Excursions

OUR GOAL

To restore the S.S. Canadiana ("The Crystal Beach Boat") to sailing condition and to operate the ship as a floating museum and major educational, cultural and tourist attraction.

This restoration is similar to others, such as the H.M.C.S. Segwun and the Trillium in Toronto that have proven to be very successful. We have some of the same people on our board that were instrumental in these earlier restorations.

Restored to her 1910 Victorian beauty, the Canadiana will be perfect for family excursions and moonlight cruises, returning a forgotten piece of history to the Great Lakes.

Dear Dr. Cohen:

I am sorry that a long trip to Europe has delayed my responding to your letter of June 14th.

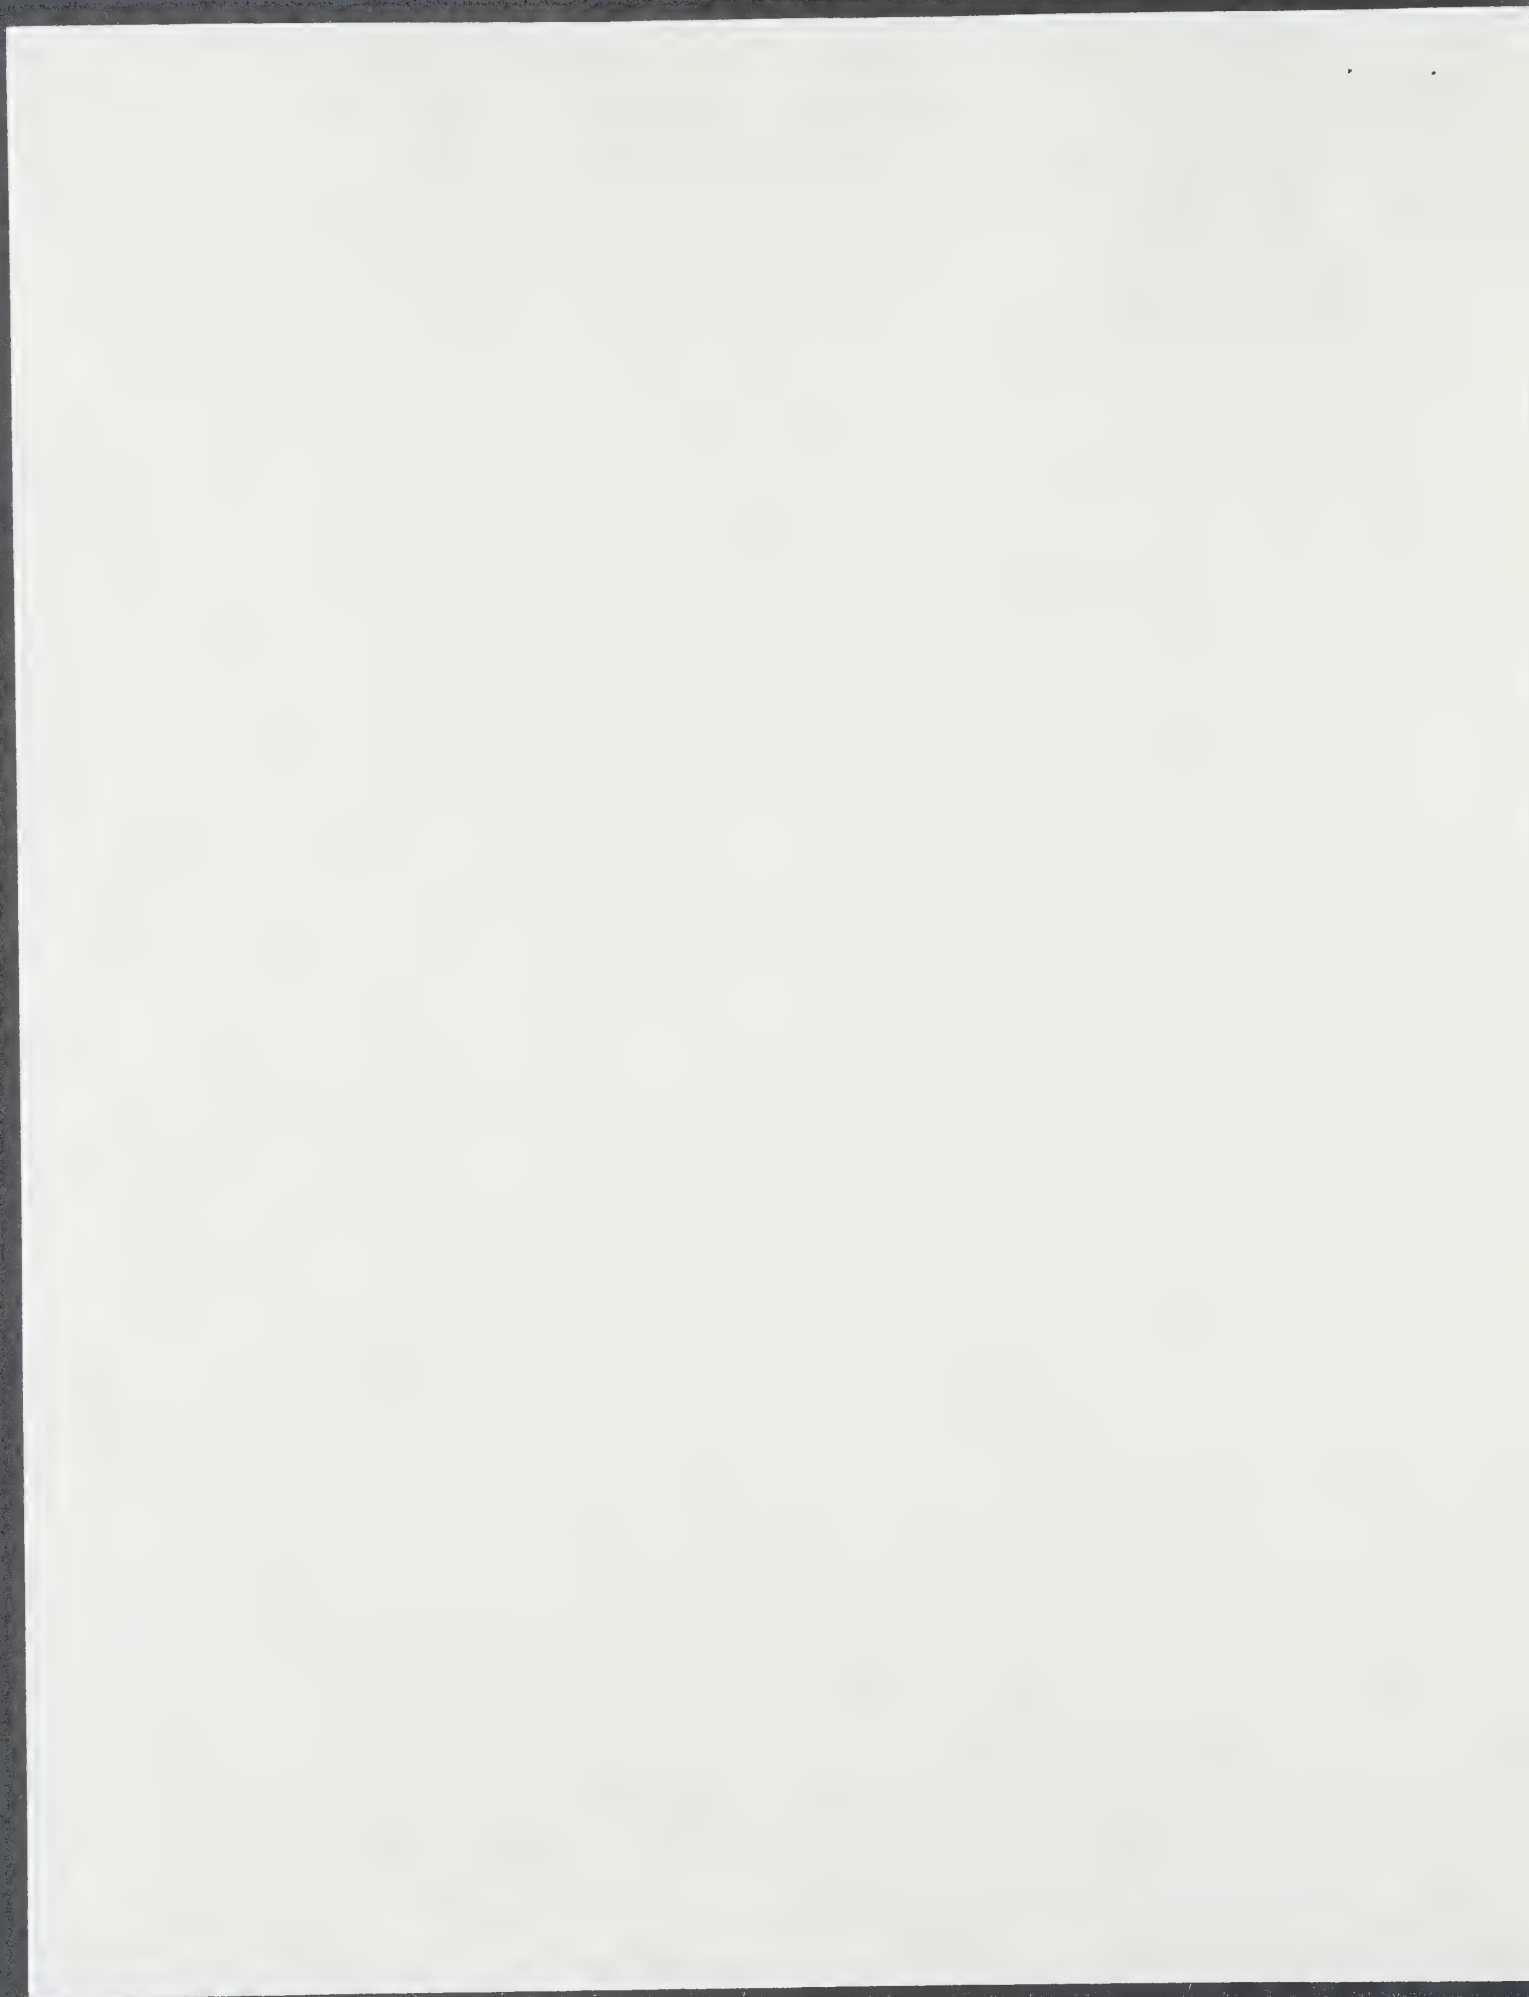

I am convinced that Milwaukee needs a Jewish high school, but I am also convinced that it should be co-educational.

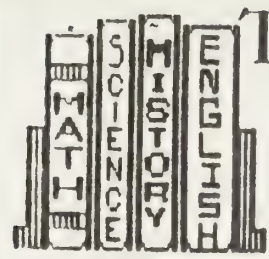

My family and I, as well as my best friend, Marvin Klitsner, tried very hard to support the co-ed high school which failed, and I believe that it failed, at least in part, because some orthodox rabbis not only didn't support it but were actively against it.

Clearly I feel very bitter about this and am not willing to help a high school for girls only.

Sincerely,

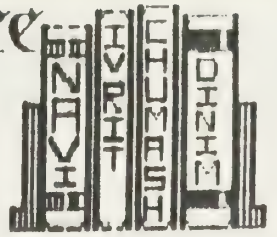

c: Mr. Daniel Bader

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Bader,

I am writing to ask for your help in supporting the Torah Academy of Milwaukee. For more than four years, I have devoted myself to the development of a girls high school here in Milwaukee. Having a girls school here in Milwaukee is extremely important and I believe it adds immeasurably to the full complement of day schools and boys high school that we already have. I hope that Torah Academy will follow in the footsteps of all the other fine Jewish schools here in Milwaukee.

Our school is small but growing. We specialize in superb quality secular and Judaic programs. All of our teachers are state certified and all classes are based on a college bound curriculum. Our graduates will be going to colleges and seminaries both locally and nationally. It will be through your help that we can realize our long term goals.

At the present time, I am the only person doing fundraising for our school. It is therefore impossible for me to meet with each of our donors face-to-face. Our budget is very tight, with very heavy expense on curriculum and faculty. Although classes have ended for the school year, I still need to raise $10,000 to cover our payroll which runs through the end of August. Won't you please help us with a donation of $100 or more. Of course, every contribution will be most welcome, but I am hopeful that you will help the school, and subsequently me personally, with a more substantial donation. Our need is urgent; may I please hear from you soon?

Thank you very much for your help in this important endeavor.

Sincerely,

Bernard Allan Cohen
President

Dear Ms. Robinson:

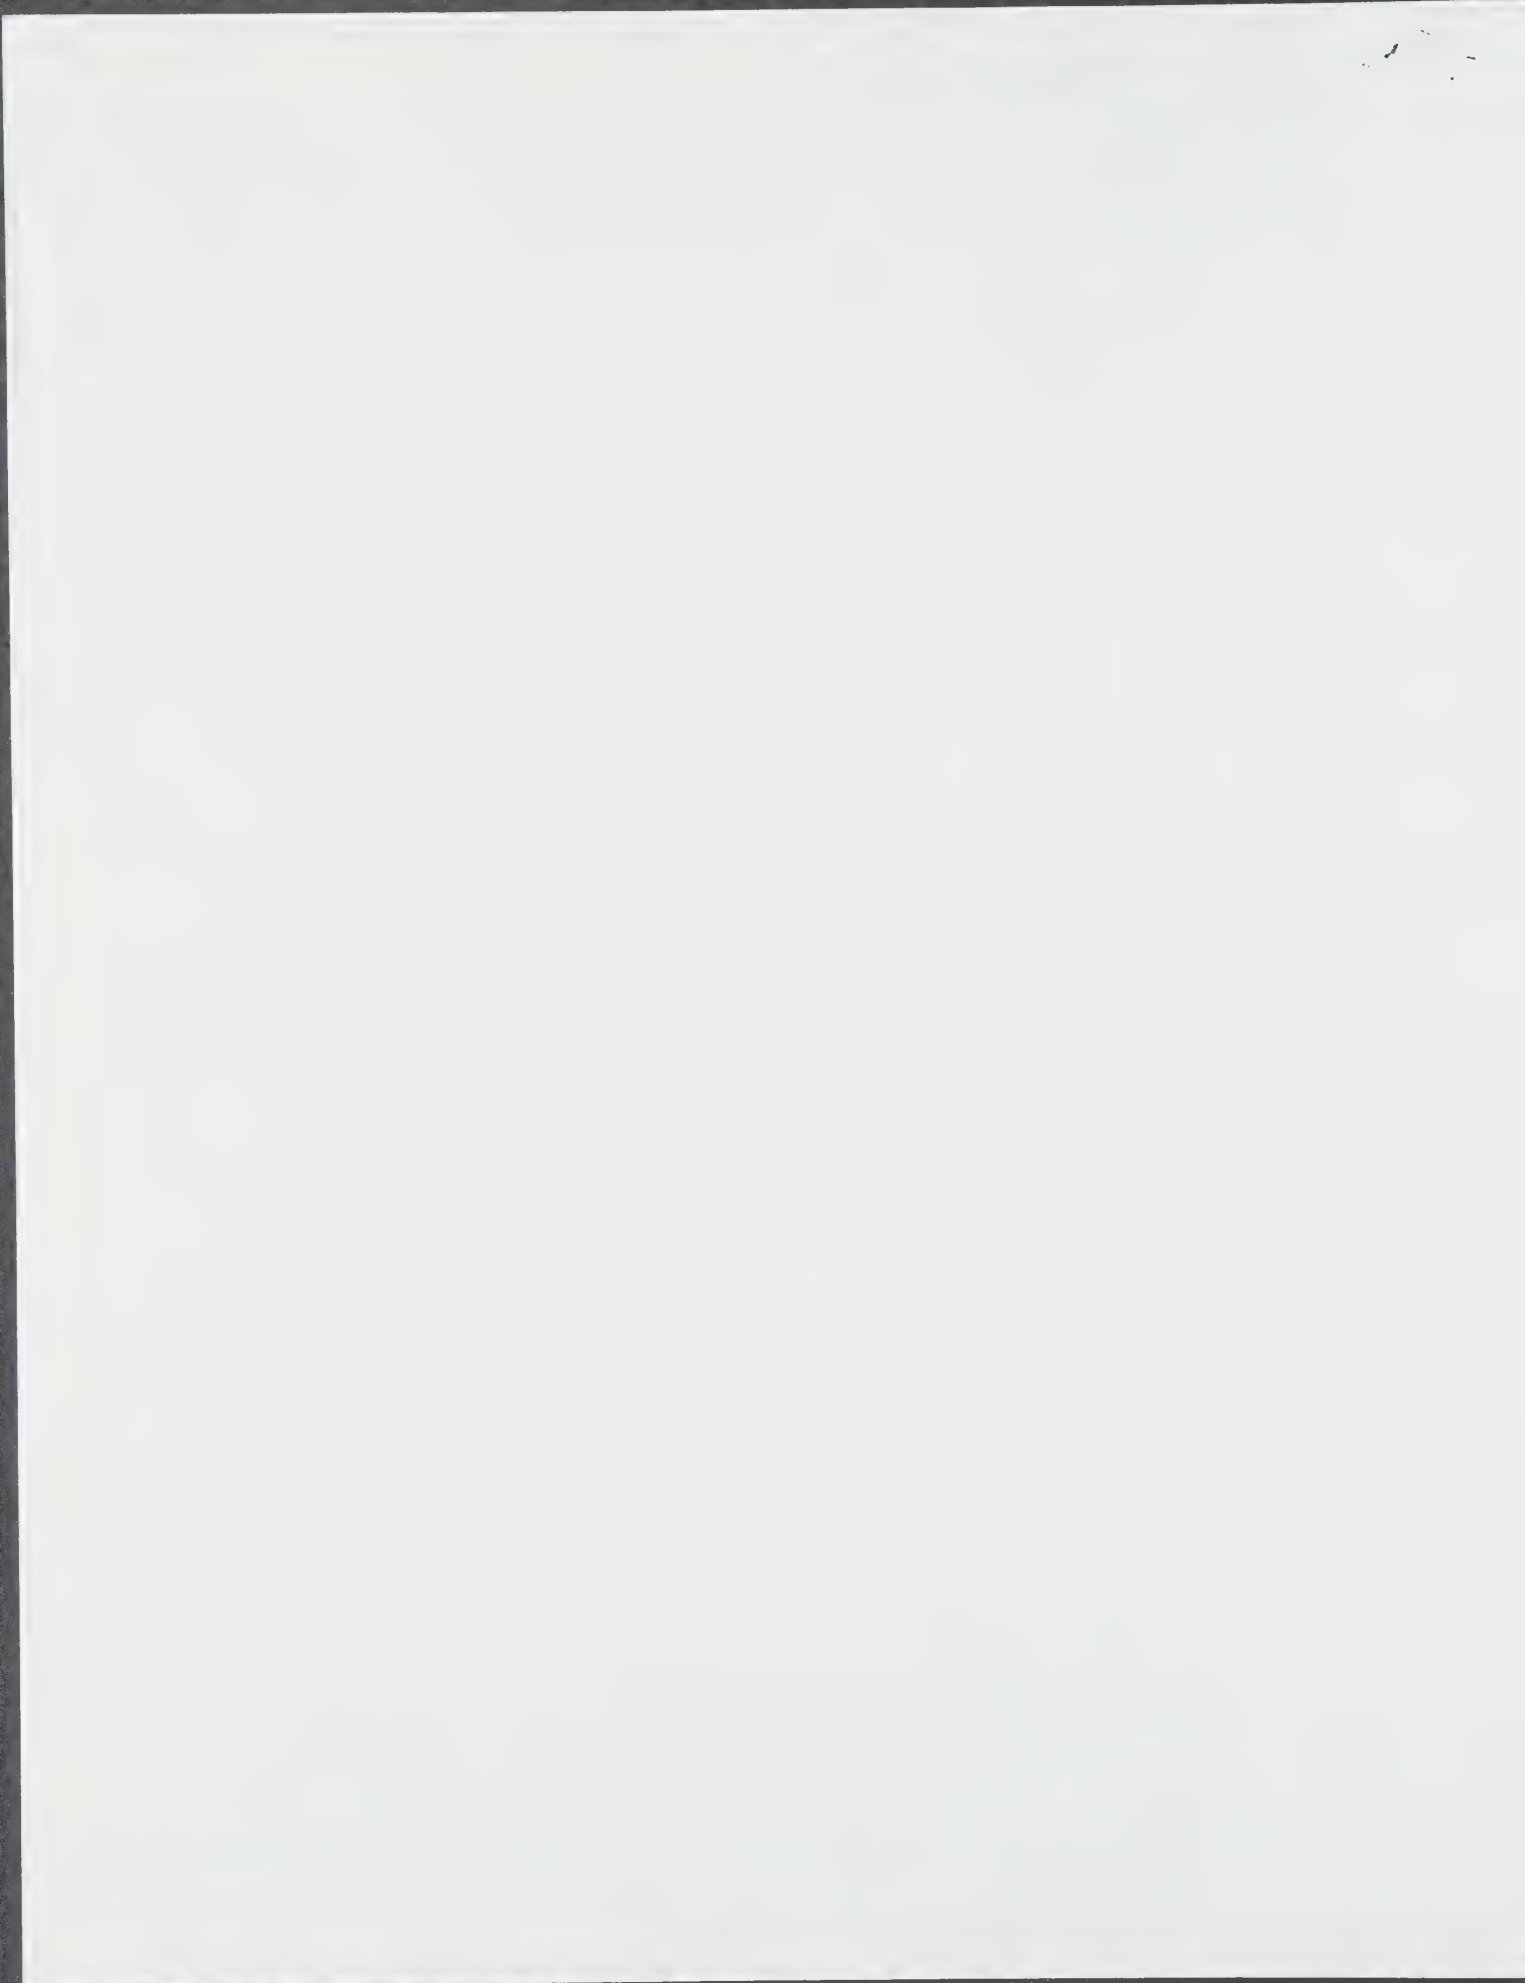

I am sorry that a long trip to England has delayed my responding to your letter.

To be a really good restorer, you will need a study in chemistry and in restoration. The best schools for conservation are at Oberlin College, the Fogg Museum and the New York Institute of Fine Arts which is part of New York University.

While studying conservation, you should be taking courses in chemistry, particularly physical chemistry.

All good wishes.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Bader,

I am writing at the suggestion of one of my chemistry professors. Currently, I am a senior chemistry major at Transylvania University and I am preparing to apply to graduate schools. Deciding what to do with my chemistry education has been very difficult. I have developed a deep interest in the use of chemistry for art restoration and authentication. Unfortunately, I am having a difficult time finding much information concerning this type of work. That is why I am writing you.

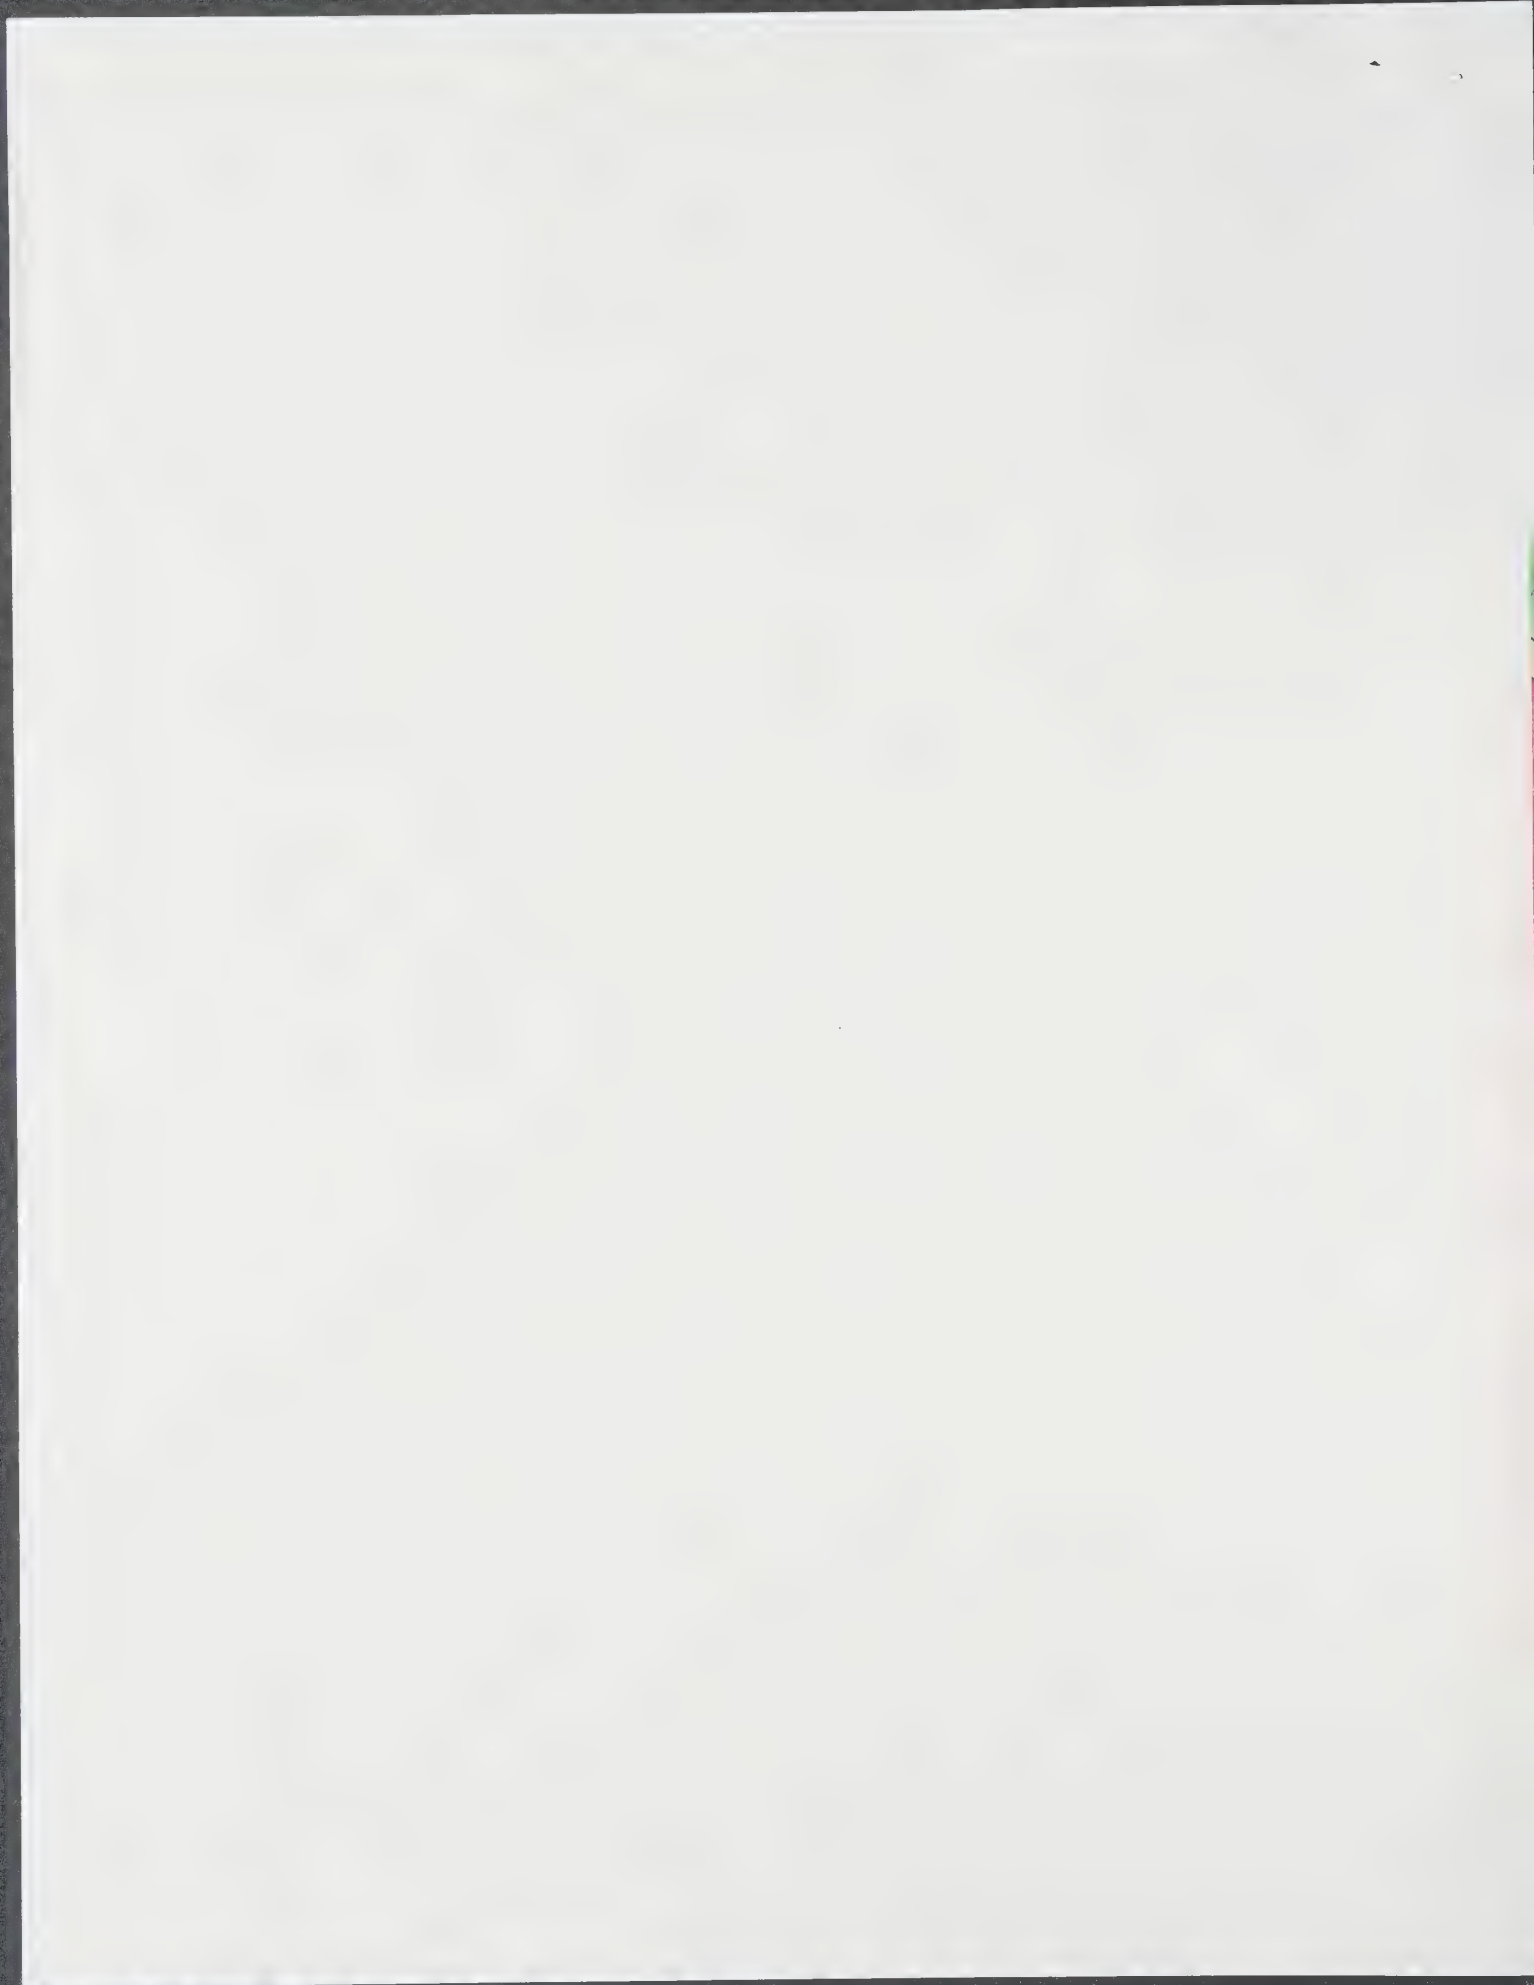

My professor, Dr. Seebach spoke of a lecture of your's he attended where you talked about that area of chemistry. He also told me about your knowledge and interest in this area. Because of this, I thought you might be able to help me. I was wondering what type of degree is recommended, and in which specific field of chemistry (maybe analytical?). Are there any graduate schools you know about which have special programs for this type of work? Can you think of anyone, or any place, I could contact for more information?

This is a very pressing issue to me, and I would greatly appreciate a prompt response. Also, if there is any other relative information which I would find useful, please let me know. Thank you very much for your time.

Sincerely,

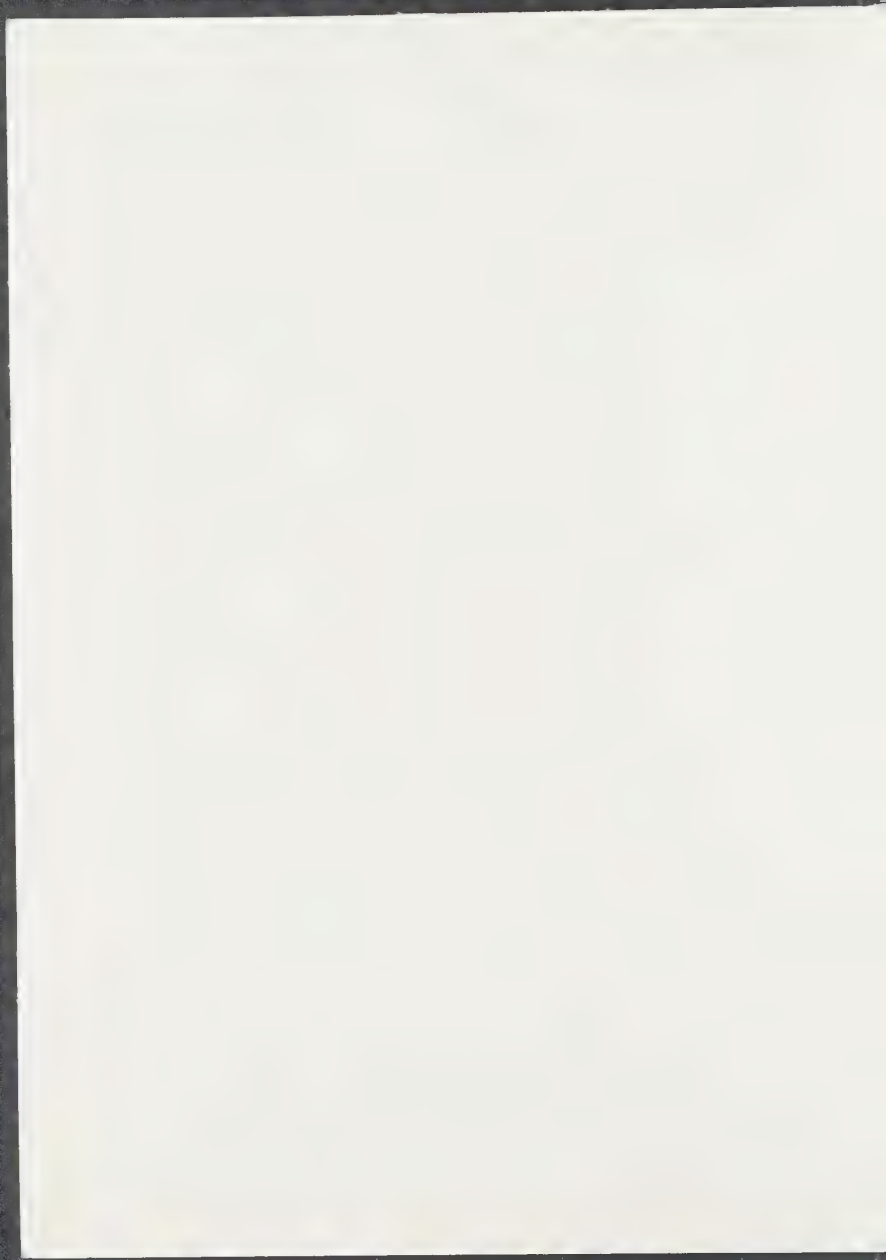

Jessica M. Robinson

Dear Mr. Bader:

We thought you'd be interested to know that Trans World Airlines has acquired Ozark Air Lines. And that's good news for Ozark Senior Savers like you. Effective immediately, your lifetime Senior Savers membership will be converted to a lifetime membership in the TWA Senior Travel Program.

You'll continue to receive all the benefits you're entitled to under Ozark's Senior Savers program. Plus, you'll enjoy the added convenience of TWA's world-wide route system -- so now you can save 10% on flights to exciting destinations in the U.S., the Caribbean and Europe. You'll also get discounts on Hertz rental cars and special rates from participating Marriott Hotels.

And if you have a $25 or $100 Ozark Senior Saver travel voucher, TWA will be happy to honor it through June 30, 1987.

As you know, we've already enrolled you in our Frequent Flight Bonus program. All your Ozark miles were converted to your TWA Frequent Flight Bonus account. So before you know it, you could be earning free travel. And for your convenience, we've enclosed a TWA Getaway Credit Card application. It can give you a line of credit just for travel! Affix your FFB sticker to the enrollment application and we'll credit your FFB account with 3,500 miles when we send out your new Getaway Credit Card. Everytime you use your Getaway Credit Card, you'll earn an extra 500 bonus miles.

Your lifetime TWA Senior Travel Card is attached above. Please detach it and begin using it immediately. We're pleased to welcome you as a lifetime member in our Senior Travel Card program, and look forward to serving you soon.

Sincerely,

Timothy G. Brier

Now you can enjoy free domestic upgrades to Ambassador Class.®

Dear FFB® Member:

Congratulations! You have qualified for the TWA silver Preferred Member Card. This card entitles you to valuable benefits not available to other frequent travelers.

Now you can travel in TWA's luxurious Ambassador Class® (provided seats are available) for the price of a qualifying Coach ticket on TWA widebody domestic flights. Plus, you'll receive bonus miles on all of your TWA domestic flights, so your mileage balance can grow a lot faster.

The perforated, wallet-sized brochure below explains how to take advantage of all of your new benefits. Tear it out to keep handy for easy reference when making reservations.

Your TWA silver Preferred Member Card is good until the expiration date shown. It invalidates any other special benefits cards issued by TWA that you may already hold, so please destroy those cards right away to avoid confusion.

Your personal FFB number is printed on your card. Remember, to make sure you receive credit for mileage earned on TWA, provide your FFB number when making reservations. Your account will be credited automatically.

For confirmed Ambassador Class® upgrades on TWA domestic flights:

1. When you make reservations, tell TWA or your travel agent that you hold a silver Preferred Member Card and request any published Y or M fare.
2. The agent will confirm a reservation in Ambassador Class on any TWA domestic widebody flight, provided seats are available.
3. Keep your card handy. The agent will enter your card number into your reservation record. You may be required to show your card at check-in to receive your upgrade.
