Welcome to the 23rd annual Purdue Varsity Glee Club "End-of-Season" Concert. Begun in 1962 to provide entertainment for the many graduates, families, and friends who come to the campus for commencement weekend, the "End-of-Season" Concert remains the only entertainment on this special weekend.

During this evening's performance ten graduating seniors will be honored with the presentation of a formal cane to commemorate their years in the Glee Club.

This evening the Glee Club will present the best of the 1983-84 season. The program will feature many old favorites, as well as a variety of new musical styles and arrangements. In addition, the graduating seniors have been given an opportunity to request their favorite Glee Club numbers. These requests reflect the selections that have meant the most to each young man over the past four years. Interestingly, these songs are referred to as "chestnuts," and are the truly "great" pieces in the Glee Club repertoire. The old and the new will combine tonight to provide you the highest quality of entertainment in the fine tradition of the Varsity Glee Club.

Our special thanks to Wright Flowers of West Lafayette, who provided our white carnation boutonnières for each and every concert this season.

We invite you to sit back and enjoy an evening of song with the Purdue Varsity Glee Club, as they present their final concert of the season.

The Purdue Hymn

*Close by the Wabash, in famed Hoosier land,
Stands old Purdue, serene and grand;
Cherished in memory, by all her sons and daughters true;
Fair Alma Mater, All Hail, Purdue,
Fairest in all the land,
Our own Purdue.*

Hail Purdue

*To your call once more we rally;
Alma Mater hear our praise;
Where the Wabash spreads its valley,
Filled with joy our voices raise.
From the skies in swelling echoes,
Come the cheers that tell the tale,
Of our vict'ries and your heroes,
Hail Purdue! We sing All Hail!*

Chorus

*Hail, Hail to old Purdue!
All hail to our old gold and black;
Hail, Hail to old Purdue!
Our friendship may she never lack.
Ever grateful, ever true,
Thus we raise our song anew,
Of the days we've spent with you,
All hail, our own Purdue.*

The lectures of many Purdue professors and the footsteps of thousands of college students echo through Entomology Hall, once the principal home of agricultural instruction at Purdue. Never added to or extensively remodeled, it was built for $60,000 in 1901 and first named Agricultural Hall. It has survived a foundation on a gravel bed, a serious crack in the southwest wall, a fire in the attic, and planned demolition. It was one of the first large public buildings built for central heating—with heating coils and a huge fan in the basement, and air ducts built into the brick walls. Meanwhile, ice rooms underneath the stairs kept dairy products cool. Originally, the main feature was a 300-seat assembly hall on the second floor which was the largest on campus, and was the site of many lecture classes and faculty convocations. Since 1965 it has served as an insect free-flight environmental laboratory. Now the home of the Department of Entomology, the building is a candidate for the National Register of Historic sites.

THE COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY

A Perspective

Purdue University owes a substantial debt to its medieval predecessors for its commencement ceremony and academic attire. The academic heritage which evolved during the Middle Ages provided us with a teaching institution, the university; a method of measuring academic progress, degrees; and a structure for an appropriate ceremony recognizing the student's achievement, commencement. In June 1875, Purdue University held its first commencement outdoors on the Oval, awarding the Bachelor of Science degree to a class of one. In 1903, commencement was moved indoors to the newly-completed Eliza Fowler Hall. The steady growth of the size of the graduating class necessitated moving the exercises to larger and larger facilities: the Memorial Gymnasium, the Armory, the Field House, and in 1940, to the Edward C. Elliott Hall of Music. The 132nd commencement at the West Lafayette campus is being held today for graduates who qualified for their degrees as of the end of the recent spring semester, as well as for those who received their degrees in August or December 1983. The colorful ceremony, enacted each year on campuses throughout the world, is the formal climax and recognition of the graduates' years of study and preparation.

Academic Attire

All participants in the commencement ceremony, except military services faculty, are attired in traditional cap and gown. The basic color for most caps and gowns is black. However, associate degree candidates wear blue caps and gowns. The bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves; the master's gown has oblong sleeves with an arc at the bottom; and the doctor's gown has bell-shaped sleeves. The bachelor's and master's gown are untrimmed. The doctor's gown is faced down the front with velvet and has three velvet chevrons across the sleeves. The facing and chevrons may be black or distinctive of the field of study. The hoods recognized for each of the degrees vary in size, shape, and length with the larger and more elaborate designating the doctoral level. The shell of the hood matches the black material of the gown. The lining, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution which conferred the degree — old gold and black for Purdue. The color of the velvet border on the hood denotes the field of study to which the degree pertains. The bachelor's and master's hoods are not worn by candidates for these degrees at Purdue.

Candidates for degrees wear a tassel on the left side of the square Oxford cap, or mortarboard. At Purdue, the color of the tassel identifies the school of the University from which they are to receive their degree. The tassel colors are as follows:

Graduate School - black	Management - drab
Agriculture - maize	Nursing - apricot
Consumer and Family Sciences - maroon	Pharmacy - olive green
Engineering - orange	Science - golden yellow
Forestry - russet	Technology - red
Health Sciences - salmon pink	Veterinary Medicine - gray
Humanities, Social Science, and Education - white

Undergraduate candidates receiving their degrees with honors wear special honor cords around the neck. Gold and black cords indicate graduation "With Highest Distinction"; solid gold cords indicate graduation "With Distinction."

Procession

The procession of candidates departs from the Armory led by the procession marshals. The group begins the traditional walk across campus while the outdoor carillon plays music associated with Purdue University and the state of Indiana. As the candidates approach the Purdue Mall, they are joined by the members of the platform party and the faculty members academic procession. The combined procession then crosses onto the mall and moves westward, around Loeb Memorial Fountain and up the steps of the Frederick L. Hovde Hall of Administration. The Symphonic Brass Choir outside the building performs music from the Renaissance as the procession moves through Hovde Hall and into the lobby of the Edward C. Elliott Hall of Music, where its arrival is announced by a special Fanfare Brass Choir.

Leading the procession into the auditorium is the grand marshal. He is followed by the president of the University attired in a black-trimmed gold gown symbolic of his office, members of the Board of Trustees in their black gowns trimmed in distinctive old gold, the deans of the schools, honorary degree recipients, and other members of the University administration. Representatives of the faculties of Purdue University enter next wearing the colorful hoods of the colleges and universities from which they graduated. The candidates in each school then enter, escorted by a marshal wearing a black gown with gold chevrons on the sleeves and gold panels in front.

Commencement exercises at Purdue reflect the University's pride in the accomplishments of each graduating student. Your assistance in observing the dignity of this occasion is appreciated.

The University requests that members of the audience refrain from taking photo flash pictures in the Hall of Music. Photo flashes are distracting and ineffective due to the special lighting and immense size of the auditorium.

In deference to other guests and to the radio audience, persons with small children are asked to take them out of the auditorium should they begin to create a disturbance.

HONORARY DEGREES

First Division

Dr. Donald C. Brodie
Doctor of Science

Donald C. Brodie is enthusiastically acknowledged by his peers as the chief architect and conscience of modern pharmaceutical education.

After receiving his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Purdue in 1944, with a major in pharmacy, Dr. Brodie proceeded with a long and distinguished career on the faculty of the University of California at San Francisco. However, it has been his incisive perceptions of educational needs and his vision of positive educational change in pharmacy education that have revolutionized pharmacy programs across the nation.

Perhaps the keystone to his prodigious contributions to the structure of education was a paper he authored in 1966, entitled: "Pharmaceutical Education for Tomorrow's Society." In it, he argued that society could best be served by providing students with intimate knowledge of the clinical applications of drugs. A concentrated emphasis on this important area of study, he maintained, should lead to a Doctor of Pharmacy degree. Dr. Brodie embarked upon a tireless campaign advocating his ideas, which resulted in the adoption of this new form of pharmacy education in every pharmacy school in the nation.

Dr. Brodie's reputation as an educational theoretician and wise counselor is widely acknowledged. The impact of his work on education's behalf is felt abroad, as well, where his expertise has been sought in many countries including Australia, New Zealand, Sweden, and Wales.

His brilliant career is studded with honors and awards for his selfless toil and many achievements. His advice has been sought by educational leaders, government officials, and state and federal agencies too numerous to enumerate here.

Purdue is delighted to pay its respectful tribute to Dr. Donald C. Brodie—a giant in his discipline.

Emil P. Martini, Jr.
Doctor of Pharmacy

Emil P. Martini is a registered pharmacist in New Jersey. He received his Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy degree from Purdue University in 1950, after which he returned to his home in New Jersey. He worked for a short time in his father's community pharmacy before taking a job as a clerk in the receiving department of a small east coast drug wholesaling company—not a particularly auspicious beginning. However, Emil Martini's rise through the ranks of the Bergen Drug Company and his brilliant guidance of that company to its present premier status has made him a legend in the pharmaceutical industry.

Elected president of the company in 1965, Mr. Martini directed a rapid expansion of the company's business on the east coast. In 1969, he effected the acquisition of the Brunswick Corporation, a major west coast drug wholesaler. A year later, Emil Martini became board chairman and chief executive officer of the Bergen Brunswick Corporation, a position he still holds. The company's spectacular success over the past 20 years may be attributed directly to his genius for innovation and his acute business acumen. Through creative restructuring, diversification, and automation, Bergen Brunswick has demonstrated a phenomenal performance and growth—employing 2,500 people and recording annual sales approaching two billion dollars. It is now the nation's second largest drug wholesaler.

Emil Martini's contributions to the public welfare receive the same aggressive leadership and dedication. He maintains a faithful involvement with a number of community and public service organizations. Throughout his remarkable career he has also kept his links with Purdue strong and true.

Purdue University is pleased to celebrate the spectacular career of this authentic self-made man.

First Division (Continued)

Samuel H. Washburn
Doctor of Agriculture

Samuel H. Washburn is a master farmer. Born in Lafayette, he attended Kentland public schools, graduated Magna Cum Laude from Hanover College, and received his Master of Science degree in agricultural economics from Purdue in 1959. In the ensuing 25 years, his career has become an authentic model of the successful practitioner of the art and science of modern farm management.

Mr. Washburn's wide-ranging activities in behalf of agriculture have earned him the profound respect of colleagues at the state, national, and international levels. He has served as president of the Indiana Beef Cattle Association, the Indiana Beef Evaluation Program Incorporated, and the Indiana Livestock Breeders Association. At the national level, he has been president of the National Cattlemen's Association, National Lamb Feeders Association, and the American Shropshire Registry Association. In 1982, President Reagan appointed Mr. Washburn to the President's Advisory Committee on Trade Negotiations. He has served on the Policy Advisory Committee of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. His advice and counsel as a trade consultant have been sought in Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Thailand, Sri Lanka, Western Europe, Australia, Canada, and Mexico.

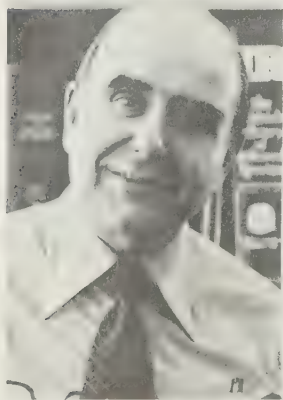

Samuel Washburn's business is farming. The operation of his Spring Valley farm near Fowler, Indiana, which specializes in the production of purebred beef cattle, corn soybeans, and asparagus, has served as an ideal laboratory site for visiting Purdue agriculture students.

He has remained close to Purdue University in many ways including his participation in the Old Masters Program in 1983.

Purdue University proudly salutes Samuel H. Washburn for his enormous contributions to the field of agriculture.

Second Division

Dr. Alfred R. Bader
Doctor of Science

As a Ph.D. candidate at Harvard University, Alfred Robert Bader was once admonished by a chemistry professor for being unable to decide whether to be a chemist or an art historian. He has never decided. He has, however, earned international acclaim in both fields.

Alfred Bader is president and board chairman of the Sigma-Aldrich Corporation, the nation's largest manufacturer of specialty chemicals for organic research. Starting from a garage operation on Milwaukee's east side, he developed the company into a multinational corporation renowned for its wide selection of high-purity organic chemicals. His bold, imaginative leadership has revolutionized an exacting industry, establishing new standards of quality and service and expanding enormously the number of organic chemicals available for research chemists. He is the author or coauthor of 24 scientific publications and holds 27 research patents. The bulletin Aldrich Chemica Acta, published regularly by his firm, is at once a catalogue of products and a scholarly journal.

Dr. Bader's achievements in the field of chemistry are equaled by his devotion to art, and he is recognized internationally as a distinguished art historian. As a child in Vienna, Austria, he was attracted to the art of the Dutch Masters. Through the intervening years, his ardor for discovering, collecting, restoring, and sharing rare examples of 17th century art has become a passion. He is guest curator of the Milwaukee Art Center and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts. In 1980, Dr. Bader helped Purdue celebrate the career of its own Nobel Laureate, Herbert Brown, by serving as a featured speaker, bestowing an original Boudin painting upon the University, and providing a magnificent exhibit from his collection of Rembrandt School paintings.

Today, Purdue is delighted to honor Dr. Alfred Robert Bader for his outstanding achievements in the sciences and the arts.

Third Division

Albert O. Roberts, Jr.
Doctor of Technology

The leadership role Albert O. Roberts has played in the national, six billion dollar fluid power industry can be characterized as pre-eminent.

Albert Roberts graduated from Purdue University in 1948 with a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering. That year, he took a position as a junior engineer with the Sperry Vickers Corporation, a leading developer and manufacturer of electronic and hydraulic systems and components. Sperry Vickers soon recognized the unique technical and management skills of this talented engineer. His 34 year career with the firm was a model of engineering-management virtuosity. Through several steps in the 1950's, Mr. Roberts moved quickly from junior engineer to project engineer in the Aerospace Division. A move to the Machinery Division resulted in appointments as director of engineering and, later, as North American director of engineering. He finally assumed the post of vice-president of engineering and research with worldwide responsibilities. In this capacity he headed a 12 million dollar, multilocation, engineering and research operation which served worldwide aerospace, industrial, and mobile markets. Mr. Roberts retired from the Sperry Vickers Corporation in 1982. However, he immediately established his own consulting firm and remains a leading light in the fluid power industry.

Mr. Roberts' contributions to the industry have been recognized by his election to leadership positions in many professional associations. His brilliant guidance in the development of the National Fluid Power Association has left his personal imprint on this tremendously important field.

Purdue has also been a beneficiary of his devotion to engineering in education. Mr. Roberts has been instrumental in developing student cooperative education programs, establishing a scholarship, and arranging for contributions of educational materials.

Purdue pays tribute to Mr. Roberts for his dynamic leadership in the industry and for his significant advocacy of engineering education.

Fourth Division

William T. Creson
Doctor of Engineering

William T. Creson is a native of Lafayette, Indiana who received his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from Purdue in 1950. Today, Mr. Creson is board chairman, president, and chief executive officer of the Crown Zellerbach Corporation of San Francisco. A major forest products and paper company, Crown Zellerbach recorded sales in excess of three billion dollars in 1982.

Mr. Creson's astonishing rise to positions of increasing responsibility is a tribute to his extensive knowledge of the industry and his imaginative approaches to engineering, production, and management. He has been described as an aggressive, people-oriented thinker, who successfully converts serious problems into interesting challenges.

In 1954, William Creson received his M.B.A. degree from the Wharton School of Business Administration at the University of Pennsylvania. The same year he entered the paper products industry as project engineer for the Packaging Corporation of America in Evanston, Illinois. His unique talents were immediately recognized and promotions followed rapidly: from production manager and vice-president at Packaging Corporation, to group and senior vice-president at Brown Company of Kalamazoo, Michigan. He joined Crown Zellerbach as executive vice-president in 1976.

William Creson's track record at both Brown and Crown Zellerbach has been remarkable. His innovative management programs and his masterful implementation of them have been largely responsible for the dramatic resurgence of cost-effective growth in both companies.

Colleagues in San Francisco know William Creson as an active and outspoken supporter of Purdue University, where he has graciously participated in the Krannert School's Executive in the Classroom Program.

Purdue pays tribute to William T. Creson and esteems his exceptional engineering and management achievements.

Fourth Division (Continued)

Robert E. King
Doctor of Engineering

A true son of Purdue, Robert E. King was born in Lafayette; his parents were Purdue faculty members; and he received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue in 1947. He then went to work for the Square D Company as a fledgling engineer. In the 37 intervening years, the company and the engineer have demonstrated remarkable growth.

The Square D Company is an international manufacturer of electrical equipment and electronic products. With World Headquarters located in Palatine, Illinois, the company has annual gross sales exceeding one billion dollars. Mr. King's impressive career advancements match the dynamic development of the Square D Company itself. Since joining the firm, he has held a succession of increasingly responsible positions, including field engineer, distribution equipment sales manager, general sales manager, commercial vice-president, and member of the Board of Directors. His past responsibilities have included management assignments of the company's diverse, multi-location operations, both here and abroad, as Square D built or acquired plants in more than 15 states, Canada, West Germany, and Spain. In 1982, Mr. King became President—Electrical Group with responsibilities for all domestic manufacturing, marketing, and distribution operations.

In spite of his extremely demanding responsibilities, Robert King finds time to work with Purdue's Schools of Engineering in the Investments in America's Knowledge—Intensive Future Development Program. His influence and expertise have been instrumental in securing several grants for that activity.

Purdue salutes Robert E. King for his exemplary management skills and the verve with which he has exercised them.

T. Bramlette McClelland
Doctor of Engineering

Thomas Bramlette McClelland was a young engineering graduate from the University of Arkansas when he took his first job as a research engineer in 1940. His professional career began with Purdue's Joint Highway Research Project. He received his Master of Science in Civil Engineering degree from Purdue University in 1942, specializing in geotechnical engineering. The same year he moved to Texas as a design engineer for the Lake Houston Dam Project.

In 1946, Mr. McClelland co-founded the Greer and McClelland consulting firm in Houston, specializing in soil mechanics and foundation engineering. Since then, Bramlette McClelland's expertise in the broad field of geoscience engineering has been sought internationally. McClelland Engineers, Incorporated, formed in 1955, now has offices in nine U.S. cities and four foreign countries. The firm is recognized as a pioneer in applying geotechnical engineering principles to the design of ocean structures.

The globe has become Mr. McClelland's work area. His firm has investigated over 3,000 marine sites for offshore drilling in such places as the Arabian Gulf, the North Sea, the Gulf of Mexico, and offshore South America, and West Africa. His foundation structure projects include many of Houston's tall buildings—the most noteworthy being the Texas Commerce Bank Tower, the tallest building supported on soil in the world.

Bramlette McClelland has shared his extraordinary talents as lecturer on engineering geology, through authorship of many technical papers, and as an officer in a number of professional councils and associations.

Purdue University welcomes this occasion to honor distinguished alumnus Thomas Bramlette McClelland for his enormous contributions to the engineering community.

A HISTORY OF CAPS AND GOWNS

The academic costumes of today have a history which reaches back more than 800 years. The development of the universities in Western Europe during the 12th century was the result of several influences in medieval life. One of these was the Catholic Church and its monasteries which, at that time, were the chief repositories of classical learning. As the Church developed, monastic and cathedral schools were often established at important cathedral centers to train clerics to assist the bishop in the administration of the diocese. Another major influence was the medieval guild system. The members of every trade or profession, having common interests and problems, had the right to organize themselves into a collegium, or guild, and to elect their own magistrates.

Two of the earliest medieval schools evolved at Bologna, where the teachers were called doctors (from the Latin doctorem, a teacher), and at Paris, where they were called masters (from the Latin magister, a teacher). As these schools grew and the number of doctors and masters increased, each group formed a local guild. The word universitas, a frequently used term applied to any collectivity—including that of guilds, soon became associated with these centers of learning.

A student at one of these early universities attended classes and heard lectures, but took examinations only if he decided to become a teacher. The first step in this process was a series of private and public preliminary examinations. After passing them, the candidate would don a special gown and sit with the baccalari, or bachelors. This ceremony was usually followed by a feast with wine provided by the successful candidate. Two or three years of additional study and the successful completion of a final examination were then required before the student became a "master," or in the Italian or German universities, a "doctor."

In medieval Europe, all townspeople - men and women - wore long flowing robes or gowns. Cold halls and drafty buildings made caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods a necessity for warmth. The materials and colors of these gowns varied greatly, according to the wealth and rank of the individual. Since the scholars at the early universities were usually clerics as well, they adopted gown styles similar to those of their monastic order, with hoods to protect their heads. Not until the universities gradually began to pass from the control of the Church did these early drab academic costumes begin to take on brighter hues.

Gradually, the academic costumes became distinctive in style for the bachelors, masters, and doctors, the chief distinction appearing in the hood. After a time, this hood became a separate article, worn over the head and hanging far down the wearer's back. When caps and hats came into fashion in the 15th century, the hoods became merely ornamental, draped over the shoulder and down the back. These early academic hats originated as a symbol of the master's degree and existed in various forms: some were round, some square, and some had a tuft in the center. The tassel in use today is an elaboration of this early tuft. The flat, square "mortarboard" style comes to us from Oxford. Ballad folklore suggests that it resembles a scholar's book.

The faculties of American universities seem to have worn distinguishing costumes from the beginning at Harvard in 1636. Styles became quite varied as they were, and still are, in Europe. However, a group of American college and university representatives met in 1895 to establish a uniform system of academic apparel for this country, which led to adoption of the "Intercollegiate Code of Academic Costume" in 1902, and its later revisions in 1932 and 1960.

Reunion Day, during the early 1900's, took place on the Oval near John Purdue's grave. On this occasion alumni returned to the campus for a day of fun and entertainment. Eventually, Reunion Day evolved into homecoming weekend each fall.

DISTINCTION AND HONORS

Baccalaureate and Associate Degrees

The outstanding scholastic achievement of selected baccalaureate and associate degree recipients is recognized by awarding the degree "with distinction" or "with highest distinction." Undergraduate candidates with superior academic records who are expected to graduate in May are designated as potential candidates for this special recognition at the beginning of the spring semester and are so identified in the commencement program. The final determination of those who actually receive this recognition is made at the conclusion of the semester and is based upon the final graduation index.

A minimum of 65 credit hours included in the graduation index for the baccalaureate degree and 35 credit hours included in the graduation index for the associate degree, with a minimum graduation index of 5.30 are required for a graduate to be eligible for consideration. The upper 10 percent of the May graduates in each of the various schools receive degrees "with distinction." Of the graduates who thus qualify, the upper three-tenths of the baccalaureate graduates and associate graduates receive their degrees "with highest distinction," regardless of the school from which they graduate. The minimum graduation indexes thus determined in May for each school are applied for graduation "with distinction" and "with highest distinction" for the subsequent summer session and fall semester. Recognition is evidenced by placing an appropriate seal on the diploma and entering an appropriate notation on the academic record.

Honors programs are offered to selected undergraduate students in various curricula. A student who completes an Honors Program is recognized by a certificate which accompanies the diploma. An appropriate notation is also placed on the academic record.

Eliza Fowler Hall first opened its doors in 1903 for the spring commencement exercises. Made possible through a generous gift of Mrs. Fowler of Lafayette, the building also housed the executive offices of the University for many years. It was torn down in the early 1950's to make way for Stewart Center and its new Eliza Fowler Hall.

 †Honors Program

Purdue's commencement exercises have been held in many different locations through the years, ranging from a large circus tent on the Oval in the 1880's to their present site in the Edward C. Elliott Hall of Music. Commencement in the early 1930's was held in the Memorial Gymnasium. Limited space for guest seating soon necessitated a move to the larger facilities in the Armory.

Beginning in 1892, many campus events took place on Stuart Field, located immediately east of the Armory. Site of Purdue's football games until 1924, and baseball games until 1939, it also housed the Purdue Circus between 1913 and 1922 and many other programs. This photograph during the early 1920's shows the Field Artillery Corps of Cadets doing calisthenics. The leader is using semaphore flags for visibility. The Michael Golden Labs are visible in the background.

A LOOK BACK

The Beginning

The history of Purdue University goes back a long way, for it was in 1862 that President Abraham Lincoln signed the Morrill Act, which provided for the issuance of land grants for state schools for mechanic arts and engineering programs. Through this law, Purdue was later to receive land which could be sold, the proceeds going into the school treasury. In 1869, at a time when arguments were raging as to the location of such a school, John Purdue came forward with an offer of one hundred acres of land and $200,000 for the actual founding of the school. Thus, Purdue University was built in the village of Chauncey, now known as West Lafayette, and which at that time boasted one grocery and three saloons. When Purdue began operations in 1874, it had a faculty of six, a student body of 39, and three buildings on the campus. Today the West Lafayette campus boasts a faculty of more than 2,100, a support staff of more than 5,700, a student body of 32,400, and 133 major buildings.

The Nickname

James H. Smart, Purdue's President from 1883 to 1900, decided to inaugurate football at Purdue as a means of bringing the students together and instilling in them some school spirit. To get the football program started he hired two coaches in 1886. There were no heavy men out for football the next year at Purdue, and the season was a dismal failure. Undaunted, the coaches decided to take steps to remedy the problem. They drafted several policemen, who took one subject in the University until after football season closed. They also got eight boilermakers from the Monon railroad shops to play on the team that year. It was in this year, 1889, that Wabash College was badly beaten by Purdue. The bitter Crawfordsville newspapers paid their respects by calling the players "pumpkin shuckers," "haymakers," "sluggers," "boilermakers," "hay seeds," "blacksmiths," and so forth. Far from riling the students, these remarks pleased them, and they were used continually on the campus until they finally simmered down to the term "boilermakers."

For many years, the main entrance to the University was at the intersection of State and Marsteller Streets. Alumni from the class of 1897 donated the stone gateways. The gateways were removed before construction was begun on Stewart Center

The Bell

The University's original heating plant was located west of University Hall; on top of it was the Purdue Bell, purchased from a Cincinnati firm in 1877. It was used as a rising bell and a class bell for the student body and rung by the firemen each morning at 6:30, 8:00, and five minutes before each hour during the rest of the day. It was also rung at 10:00 each night, at which time the students were supposed to retire. When a new heating plant was built in 1903, the old one was torn down and the bell placed in the University's locomotive museum. At this time the students used to celebrate football victories by going downtown in their brightest nightshirts, dragging the bell out of the museum and taking it with them, then leaving it on the courthouse steps. Purdue President Stone's patience finally wore thin and he had the bell buried in a gravel pit on campus, about where Hovde Hall now stands. The class of 1907 later decided that the bell should be rung just after football victories. After three weeks of searching in the gravel pit, the bell was rescued and cleaned, and plans made for the construction of a permanent frame. The money to pay for the bell carriage was donated by the classes of '06, '07, '08, and '09. This "victory" bell is still rung following each Conference football victory and is one of Purdue's happiest traditions.

The purchase of the locomotive Schenectady and its subsequent testing in special laboratories brought international recognition to Purdue. When it was delivered in September 1891 to a site near the present airport, a university holiday was declared so that the student body could lift the locomotive from the rails and, assisted by three teams of horses, pull it across the wheat fields to the newly built Engineering Laboratory near the present site of Grissom Hall

*Ever grateful, ever true,
Thus we raise our song anew,*

*Of the days we've spent with you,
All hail, our own Purdue*
