Dear Dr. Bader,

It is an honor to have this opportunity to congratulate you on being awarded the Centennial Human Relations Award by the American Jewish Committee.

Your contributions to the Milwaukee area, and to the broader community of which we are a part, are well-documented. Having escaped the Nazis in Europe and then survived British internment in Canada, you came to the United States and developed an unparalleled record of excellence in business and philanthropy. With an undergraduate degree from Queen's University and a Ph.D. from Harvard, you built a successful chemical business that continues to compete with the best in the world. Not content to confine your successes to the business realm, you have endeavored to realize your vision of a better world, developing a momentous philanthropic program. In Milwaukee, in England and Canada, in Israel and Bosnia and beyond, your contributions have supported efforts to reduce poverty, increase access to education, provide crucial social services, and institute civic values of tolerance and integration.

These efforts are undoubtedly influenced by traumatic experiences you endured as a young Jewish man during WWII. Not only did you survive these experiences, but in your beneficence you have sought to transcend them. I thank you for your commitment to expanding the realm of the possible and for your unceasing efforts to improve the quality of life for all.

Sincerely,
