Bursaries and awards that have been established through the generosity of donors represent a significant portion of the assistance available for students at Queen's University. Students appreciate being recognized for their hard work and excellence. Further, the monetary value of an award does, in a practical sense, reduce the financial hardship some students experience due to the costs associated with financing a university education.

Please note, the recipient's personal information listed above is considered private and confidential. Public dissemination of this information requires specific consent from the recipient. Requests to obtain recipient's consent to release their personal information can be directed to Judy Wilson, Senior Awards Officer, Donor Relations by phone at 613-533-6000 x. 78204 or email at judy.wilson@queensu.ca.
