Dear Dr. Bader,

Thank you for your kind letter of March 11 and the enclosed photographs of recent acquisitions! May I briefly comment on these?

On the St. Peter I have hardly anything to say. The picture reminds me vaguely of Bernhard Keil but I have not yet seen any work by him where such an over-sized ear appears! You are of course right in calling it based on (the print by Willem Swanenburch after) Abraham Bloemaert but I would not call the prototype "a lost Bloemaert". He provided the design for hundreds of prints and it is true that very few of the drawings survived; but then they were meant for being reproduced, not for survival!

The "Velazquez" I find most intriguing! I am in no way an expert on Spanish painting but judging by the photograph (!) I do not feel inclined to think of a 19th-century work. To me it looks like a competent and interesting 17th-century painting. What fascinates me is that it is clearly based on the figure of Velazquez as he appears in Las Meninas without however copying it. It even shows definitely a completely different person! (Is the Santiago cross original or was it added in order to make the man appear as Velazquez? It certainly is not the most succesful detail!) I wonder whether he could be a somewhat younger Spanish painter who paid homage to Velazquez by using this posture or, perhaps more likely, used that posture because he held a position of similar importance. Might he then (to continue this kind of reasoning) be Juan Carreño de Miranda (1614-1685), who was a protégé of Velazquez and succeeded him as a court painter? I am hardly familiar with his work and do not know of any self-portrait by him, so the idea is a mere guess...

If you should take Holland in your way when touring the continent this summer, I hope you will give me a sign!

With best regards,

Dear Dr. Bader,

While I doubt that you will remember me from your first grade class at the East Side Hebrew School, you may ~~not~~ remember my father, Art Magidson, who ~~is~~ was pretty involved with it in the 1950's. My brother David and sister Judy also attended. David had Mr. Bar-sela, and I think Judy had Dr. Furie.

I am writing because I attended a wedding last week and saw the twins David Barnett and Cindy Barnett-Oblenz, and the Hebrew school came up. All three of us remembered you. (We also remembered own snacks of warm milk and Ritz crackers, but I will not dwell on that.) The only other names we could come up with were Bruce Fisman Etzkind and the Etzkin twins.

I also went to the Minneapolis Inst of Art, and saw your name as the leader of one of the Rembrandt paintings for the exhibit. Wow!

Having taught law here in St. Paul for a number of years, I know I enjoy hearing from former students, so I hope you will feel the same about this. I hope this finds you well and contented.

Sincerely,
Isabel Magerson

Dear Dr. Isabel Bader,

My name is Taige Zhang. I received the Bader International Bursary to study at Herstmonceux Castle this summer. Thank you so much for giving me the opportunity to go to Europe this summer.

I've never been to England or any other European countries, so it was a life changing experience. It seemed like a dream. The Castle is an amazing place I never imagined I would ever see, and to have class inside there was even more unbelievable. It was like a different world, so different from everything I've seen and known in Canada. I loved my time there and made friends from different parts of the world.

This award allowed me to travel to other countries once school finished because it freed my financial burden a lot. I took an airplane from England to Amsterdam, where I started my solo European journey. I had purchased a Eurail pass for 15 days, which I used excessively to travel to about 40 cities! It was the experience of my life and I want you to know how much I appreciate it.

I don't know if I would have had this experience had it not for your contribution. Thank you very much.

Dear Dr. Bader,

I am very grateful for the bursary that I have received from you. It came as a wonderful surprise and it means a great deal to me.

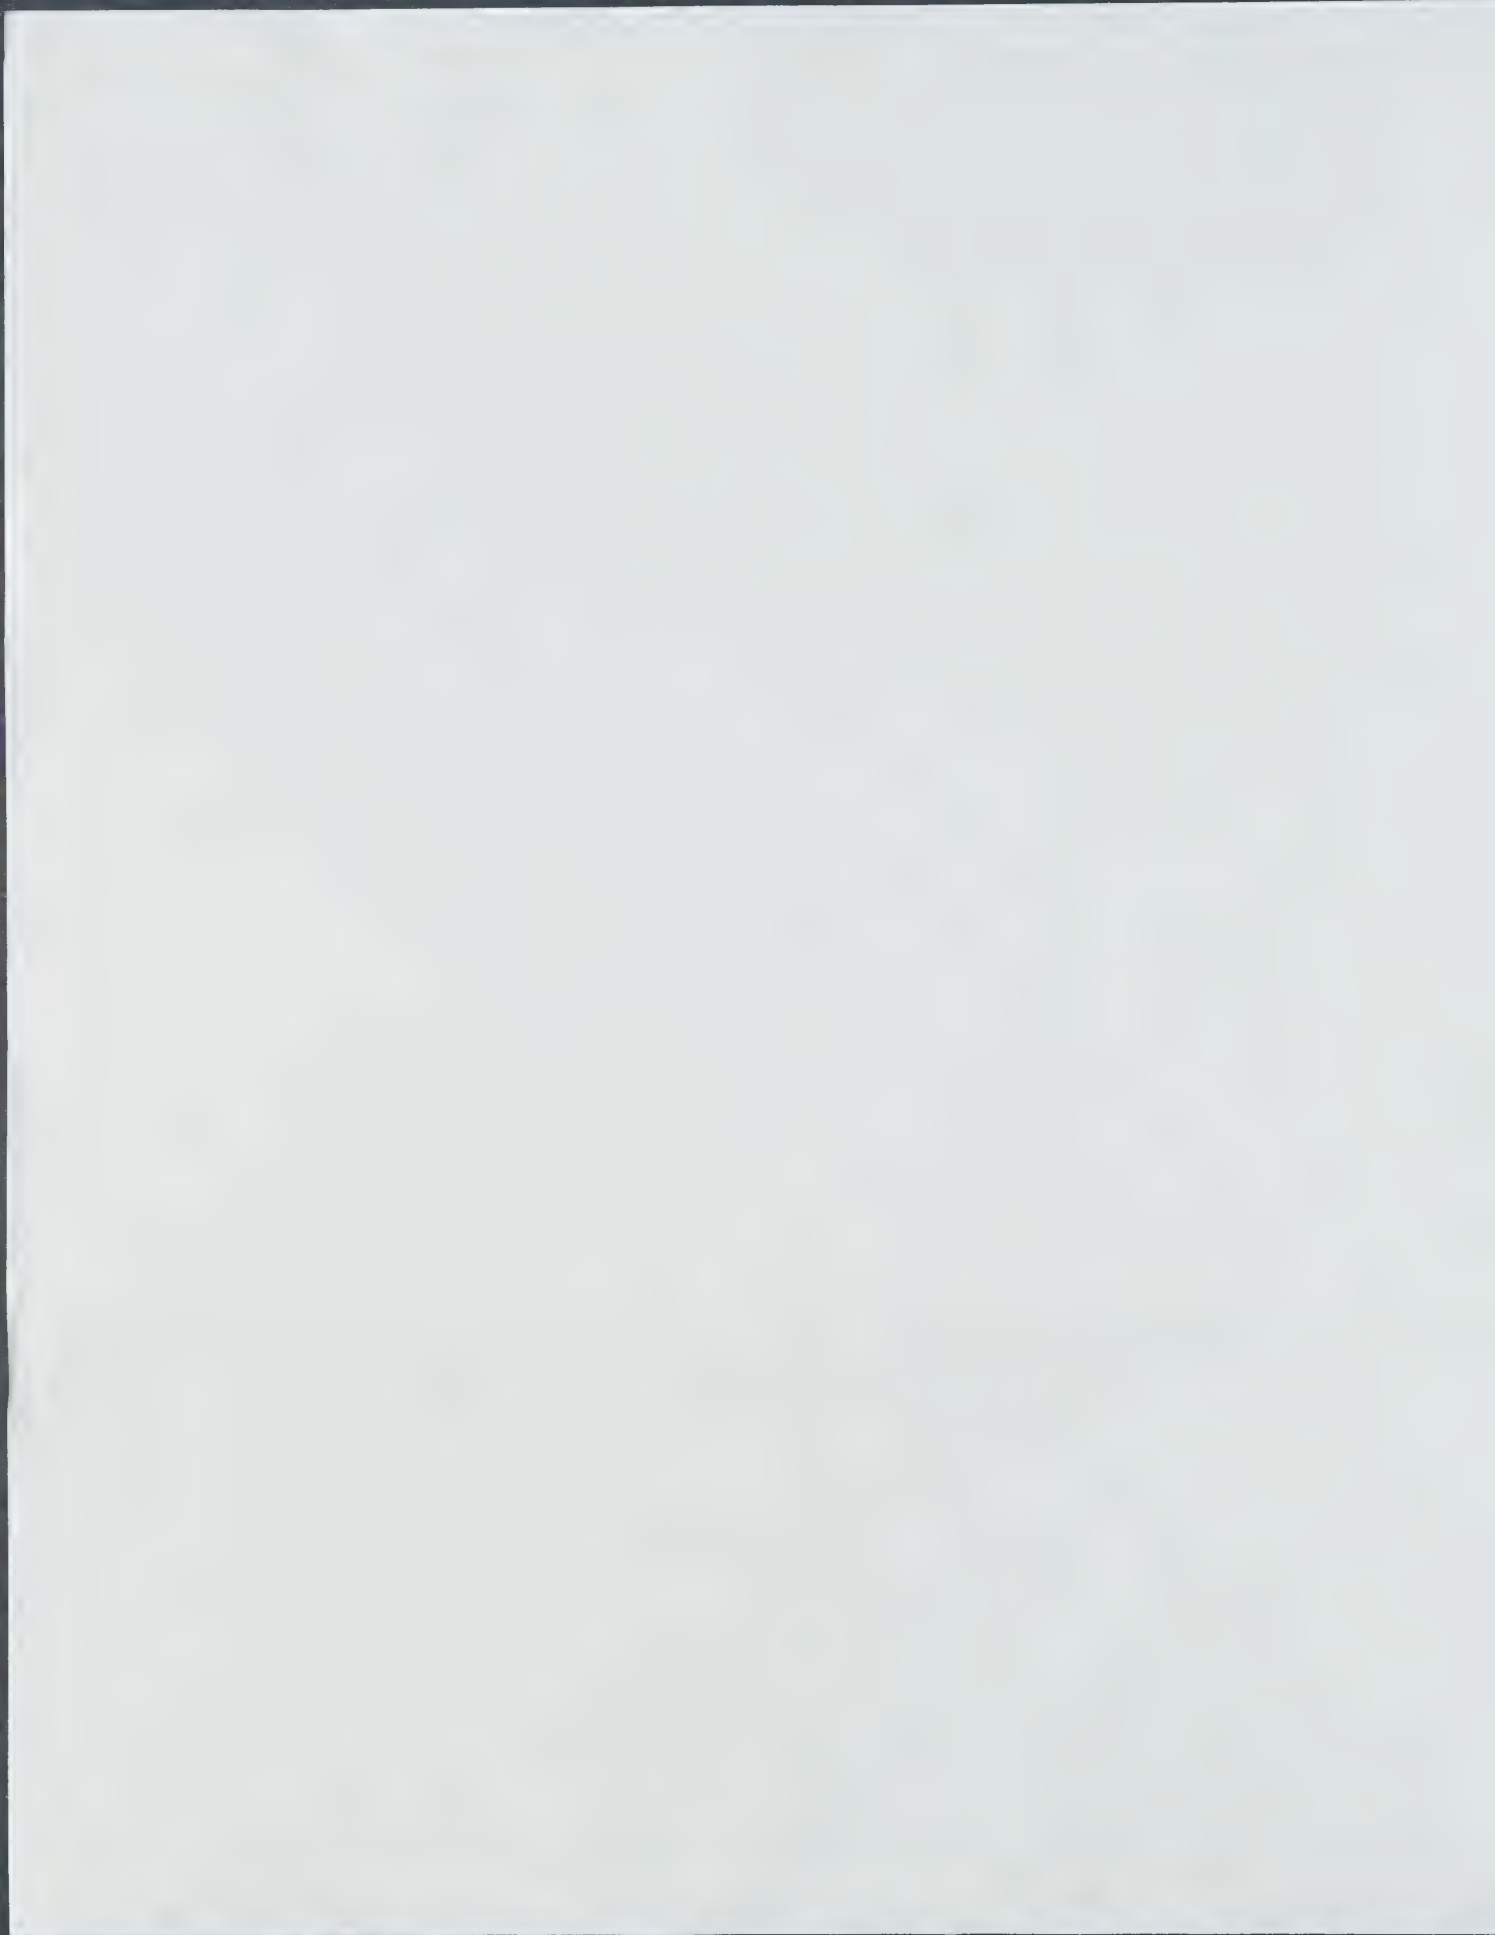

I will be attending the fall session at the International Study Centre's Hertsmonceux Castle and I am extremely excited. Experiencing an international education is an extraordinary opportunity and I feel very fortunate that I will be a part of it.

Thank you once again for your very generous award.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Dr. Bader:

I am writing to express my deepest appreciation for the generosity that you have shown towards me. The International Study Centre at Herstmonceux Castle is not just a learning institution, rather it is a unique experience that will change your life.

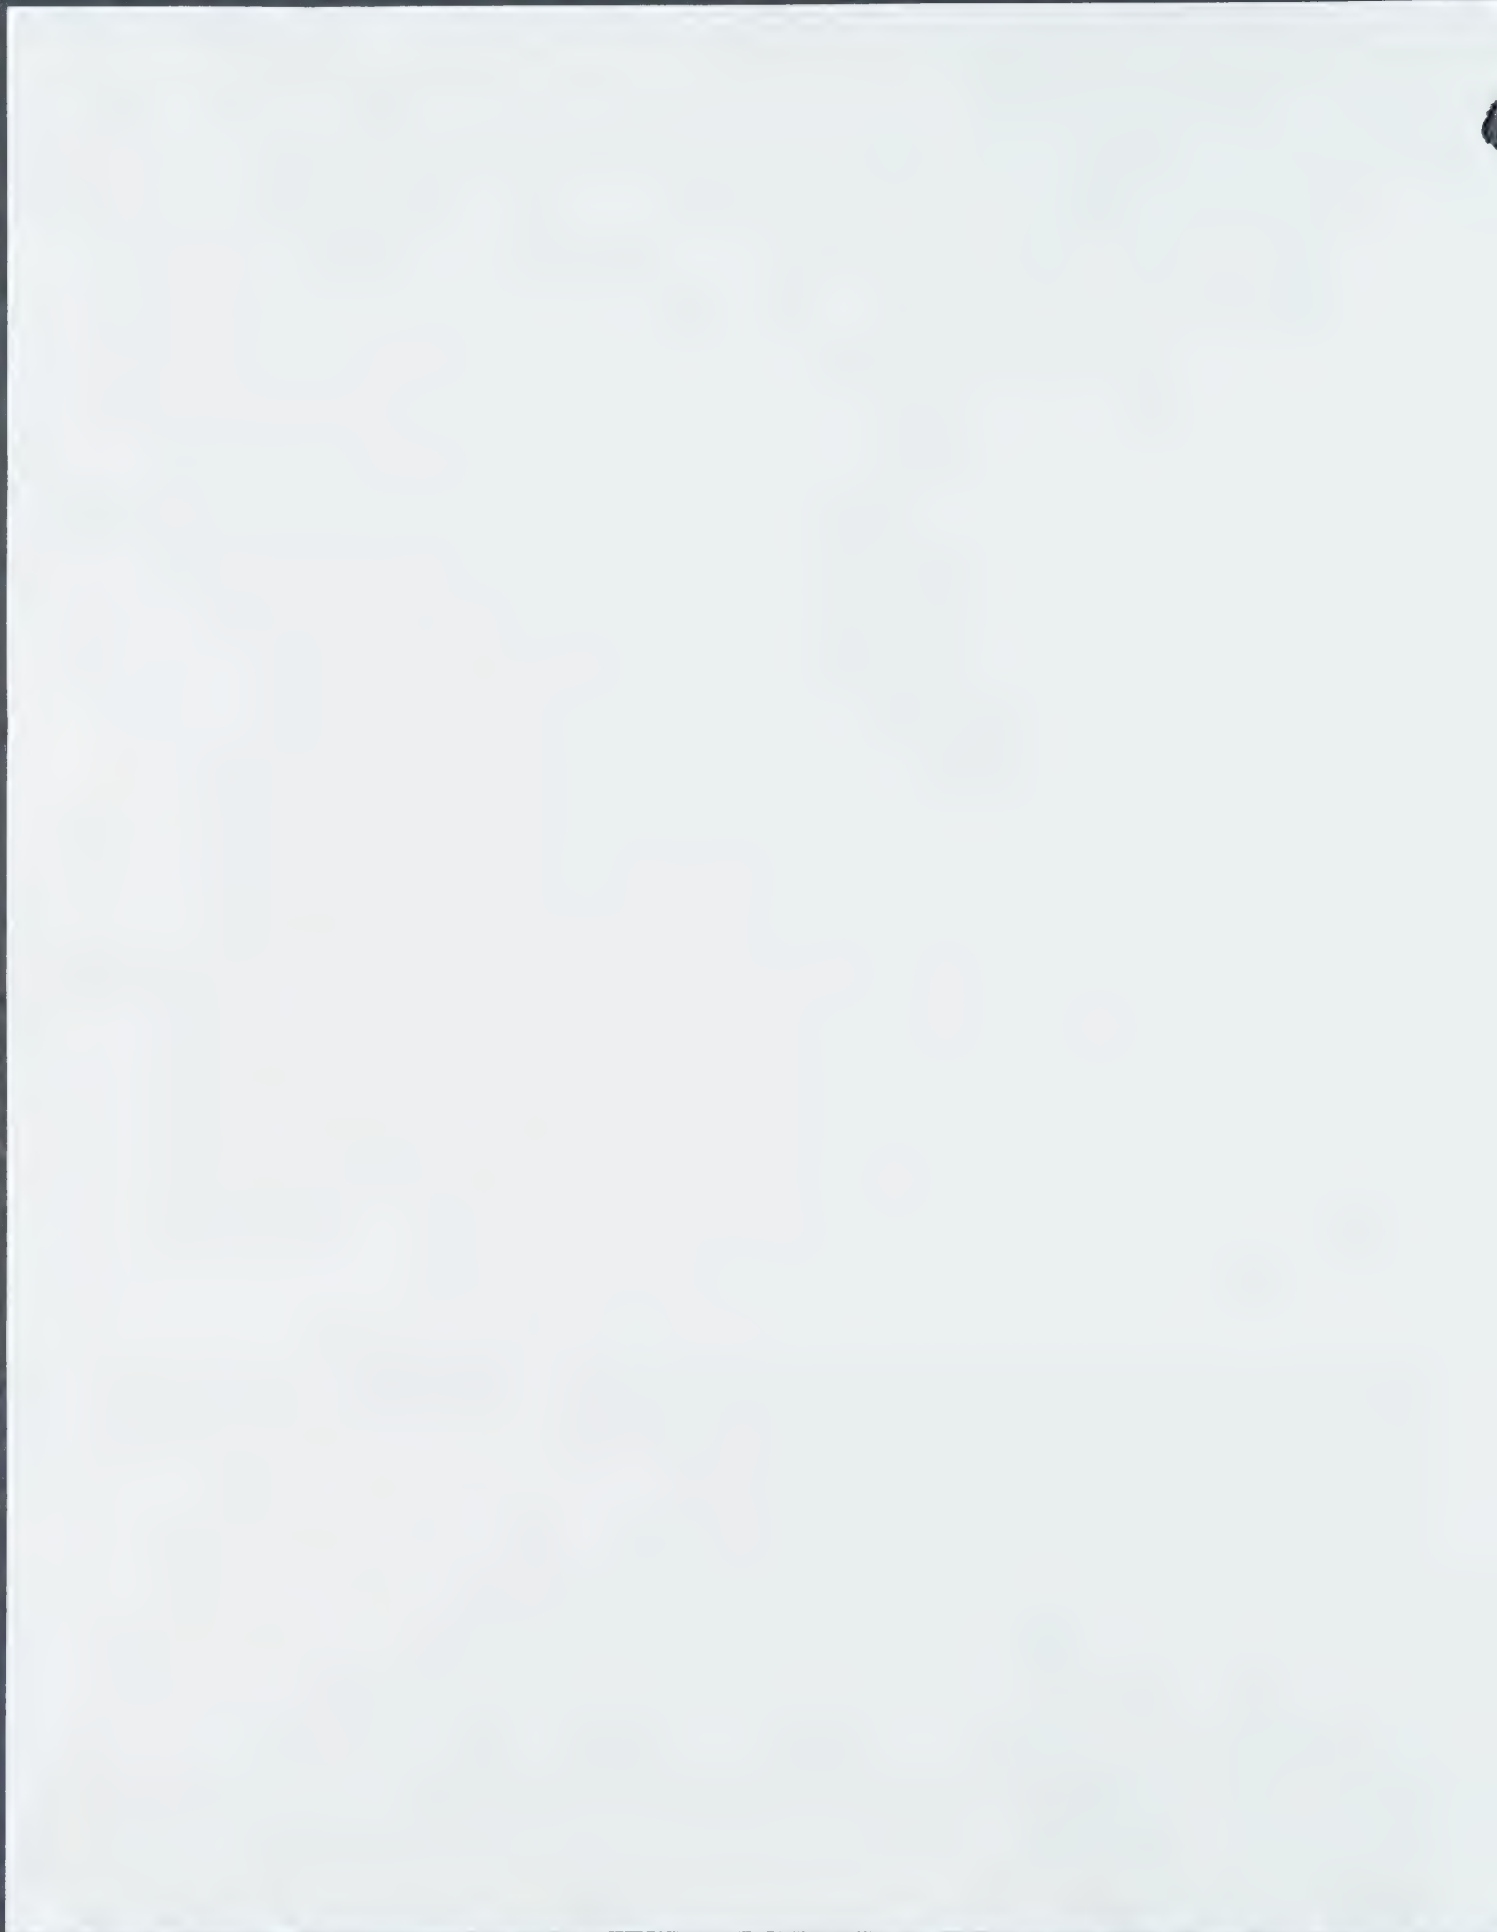

I was lucky enough to attend the I.S.C. in its inaugural first term in the fall of 1994. Now I feel doubly blessed to attend for a second time which would not have been possible if it were not for the bursary that I received. Both of my parents are retired and on fixed incomes and can no longer assist me financially in my schooling. The bursary in conjunction with the earnings of my summer job will allow me to return to the Castle and finish my degree in History.

The Castle will always hold a special place in my heart because of what I learned, what I saw and the friends that I made. To attend for a second time to finish my degree seemed almost impossible. Thank-you for allowing my dream to come true.

Yours sincerely,

Derek Page

Dear Dr. Bader,

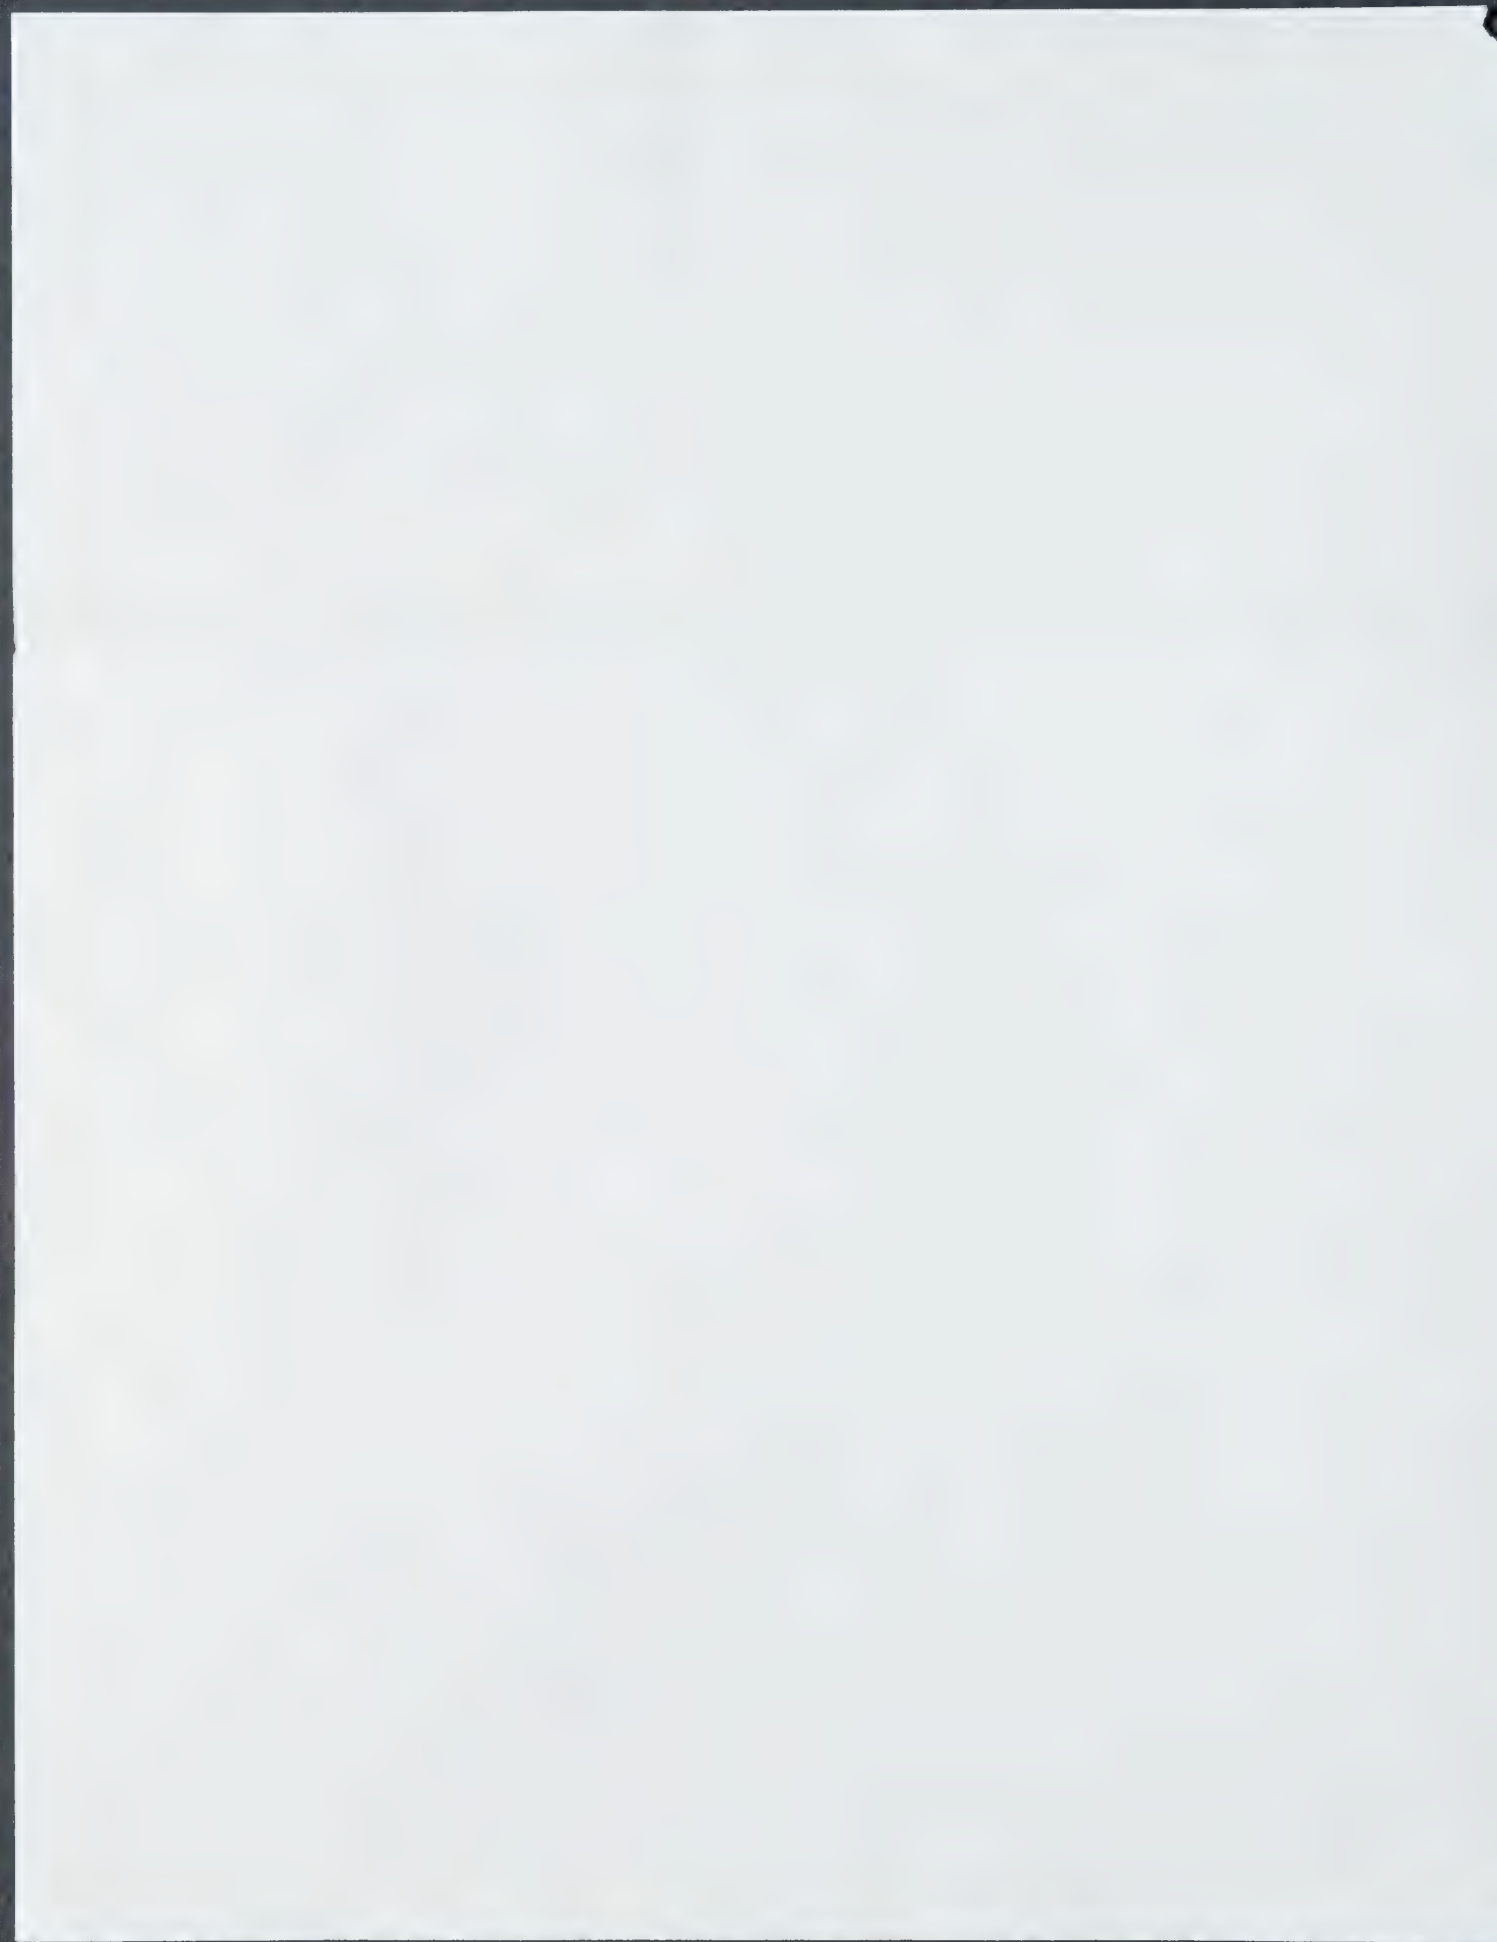

I am writing this letter to thank you for your generous donations to the Queen's International Study Program. I am a University of Toronto student that will be attending the International Study Centre's Herstmonceaux Castle this September. I have been chosen to receive an Alfred Bader International Study Bursary. Without this award I would not have been able to attend Herstmonceaux Castle and I would have missed out on the wonderful opportunity to study abroad.

Your generous donations to the Program and myself is greatly appreciated. Again, I would like to thank you for assisting me in my educational pursuits at Herstmonceaux Castle.

Yours Sincerely,

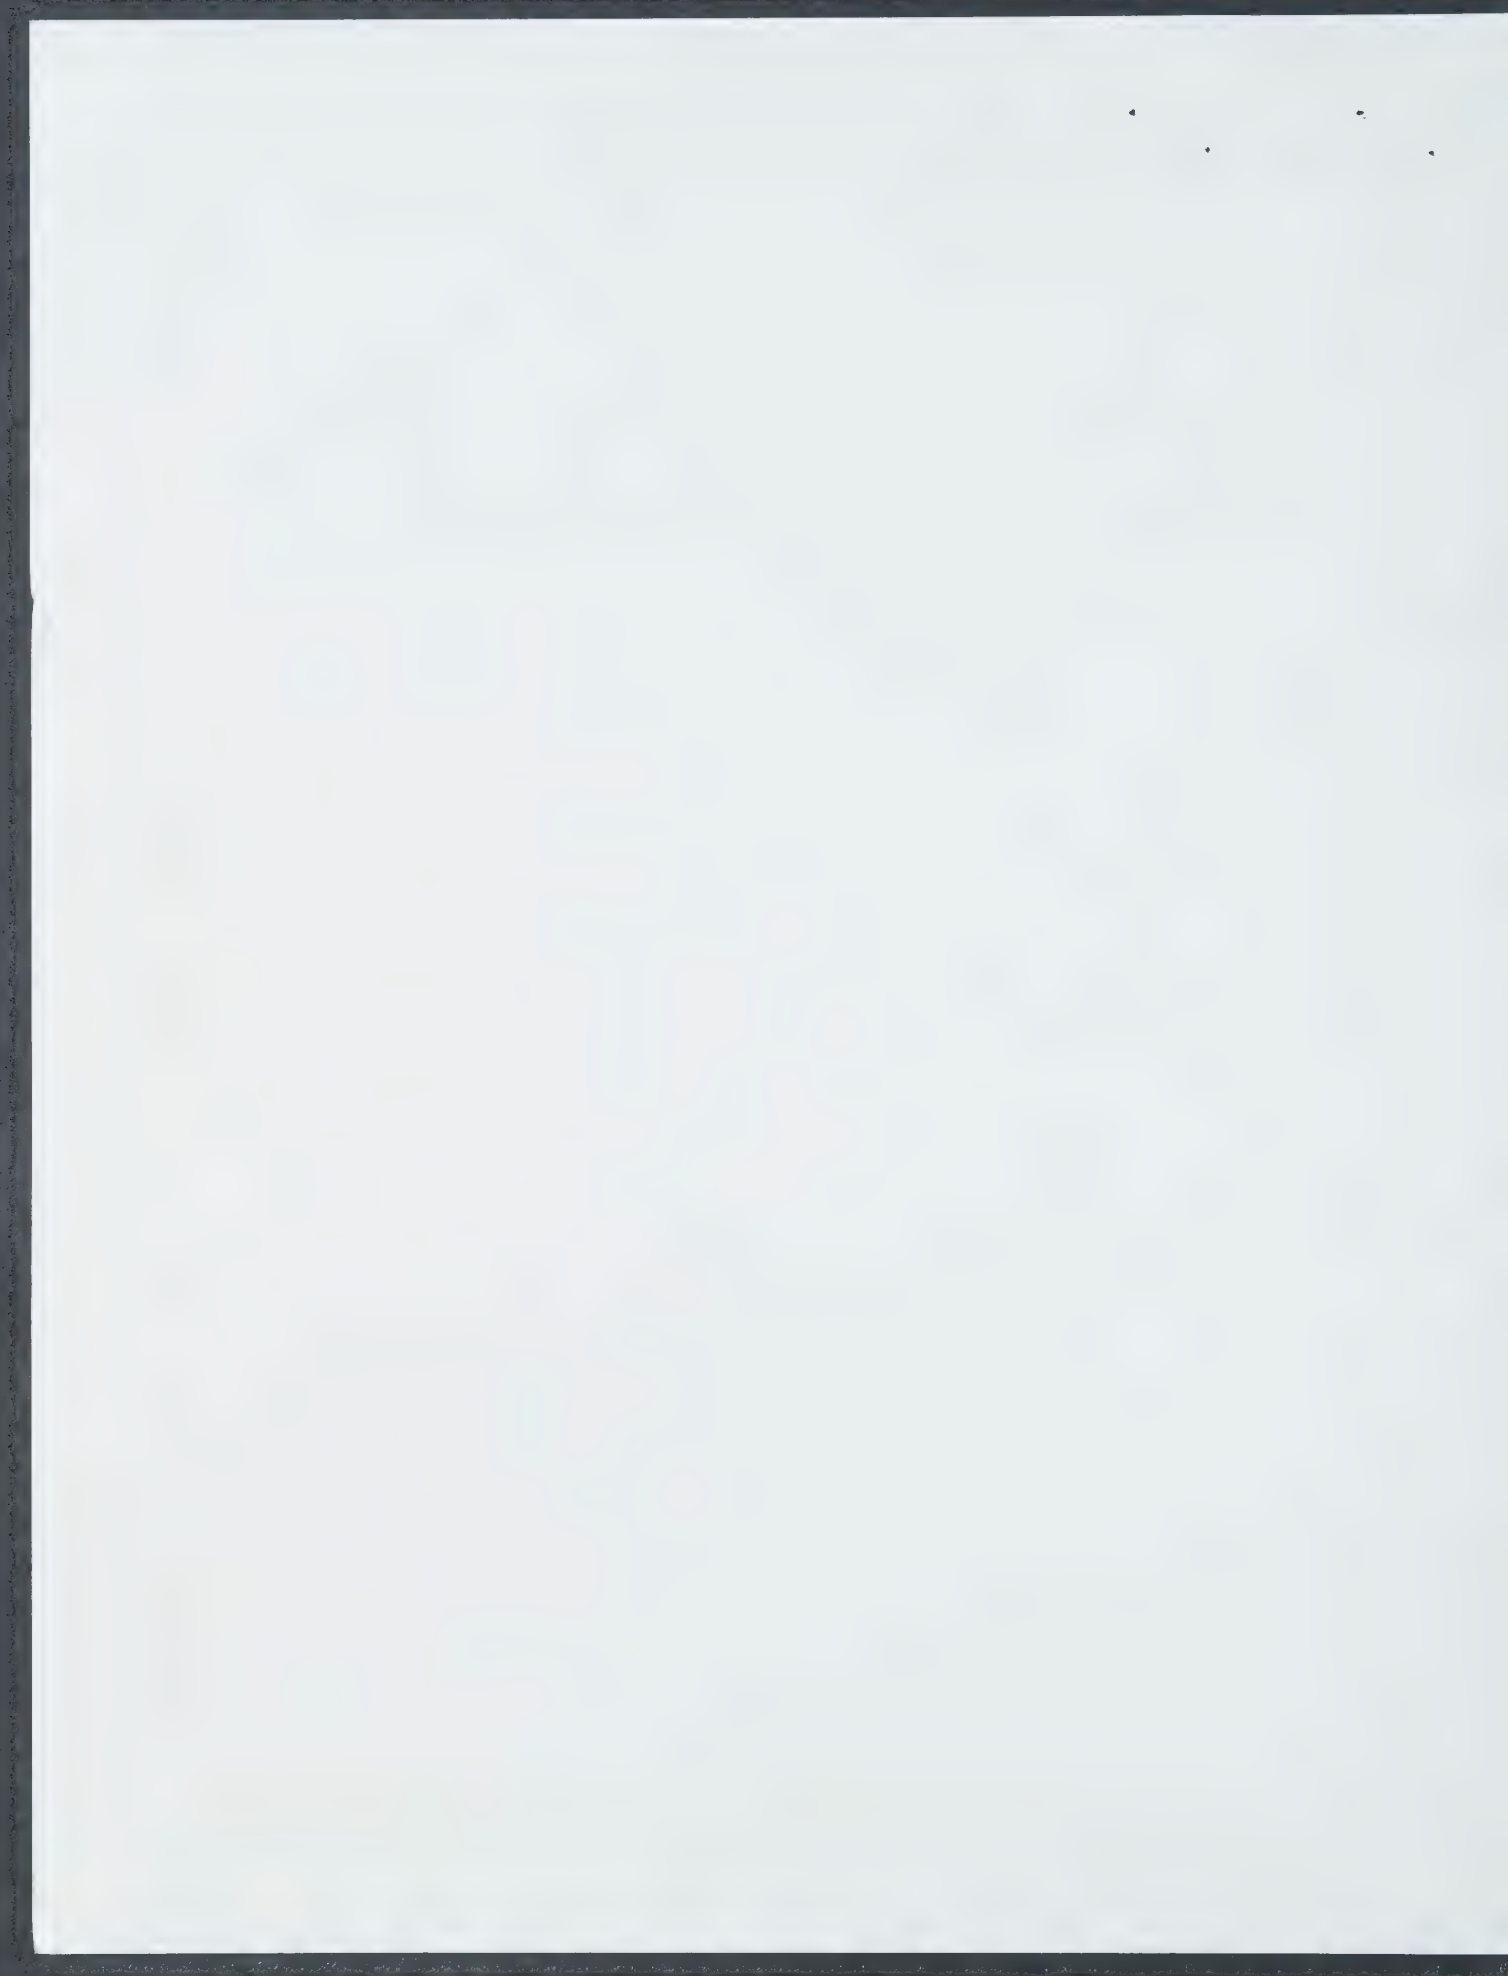

Jennifer Snow

Dear Mr. Baker,

My name is Frank Thomas and I am a third year student at the University of California at Berkeley. I have been thinking about you since I read your letter last year. I have offered an excellent opportunity to come and my father and I are both studying about it. I am sure you will be glad to help me particularly interested in European history. I can't imagine a better setting for a history course than within the walls of a university. It is for this reason that I am writing you to thank you for your generous offer. I am a recipient of one of the Alfred C. Baker International Study Bursaries. This gift of two thousand dollars enables me to study in England and my personal expenses will be covered. I am sure I can concentrate on my studies in England rather than the noisy and not to mention the crowded conditions of the university here.

London is an incredibly fortunate university in that it has very generous and considerate staffs. I am continuously striving to increase the quality of education at London. I am sure my trip to the Continent will do much to go beyond all my expectations and I am sure you that your gift will be put to very good use

Thank you once again

Yours most sincerely

Dear Dr. Bader

As a recipient of the Alfred Bader Award I would like to thank you for making my European study possible, both by creating the award and your generous donation of Herstmonceux Castle to Queen's University.

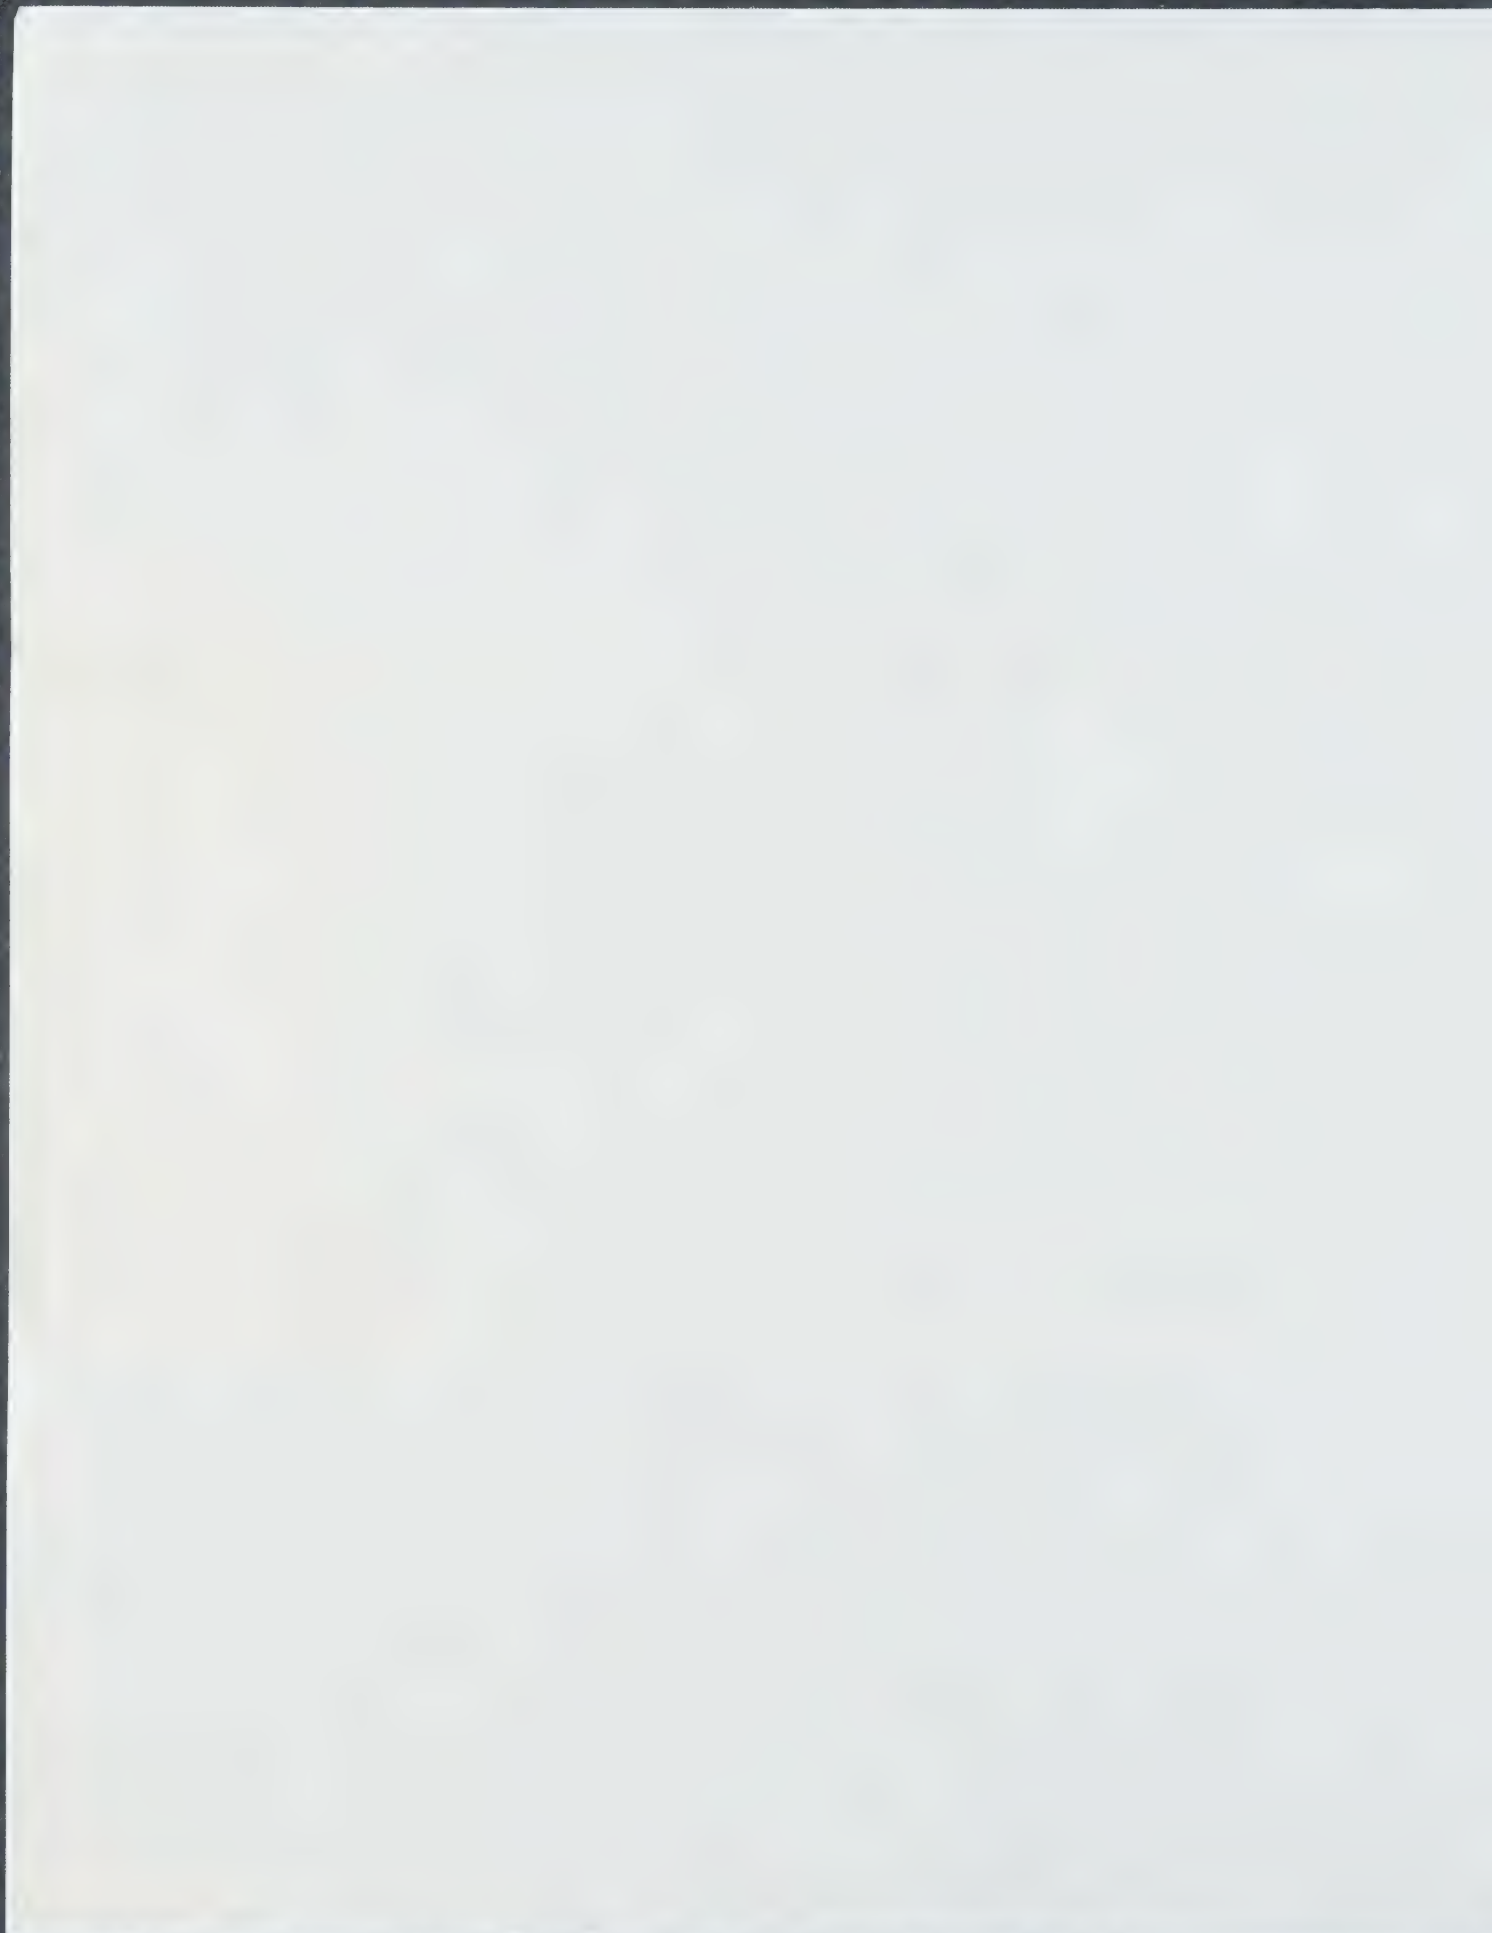

The chance to study at Herstmonceux Castle in England will give me a chance to broaden my horizons. The ability to see and study first hand the art and architecture in England will allow me an opportunity to experience a little of the British and European cultures.

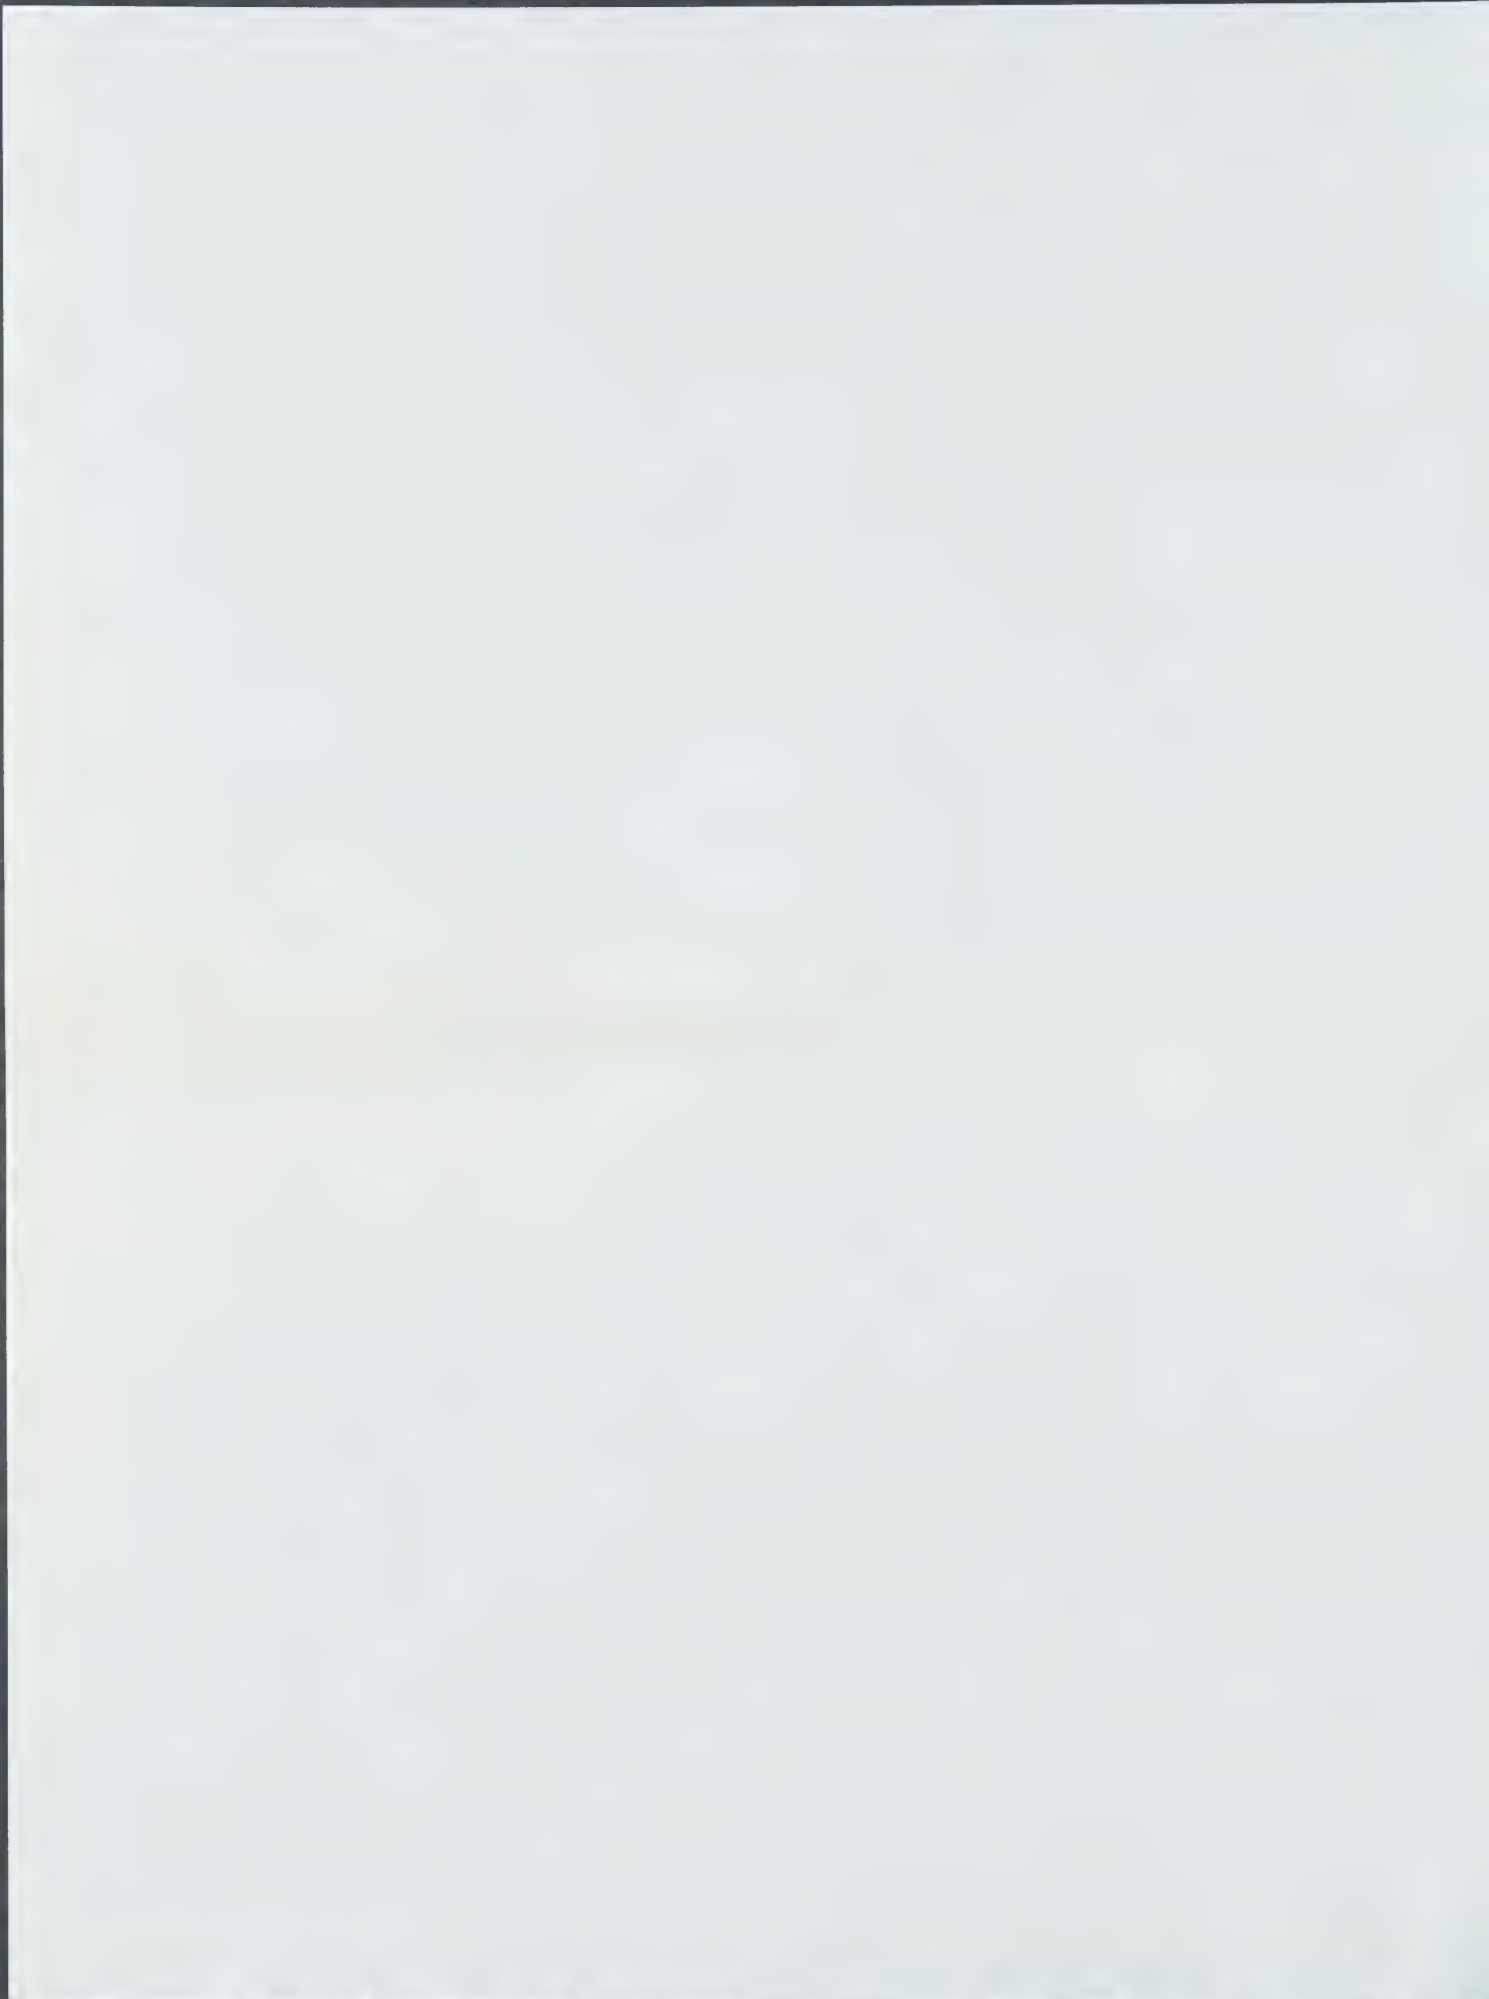

Once again, thank you so much for this opportunity.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Dr. Alfred Bader

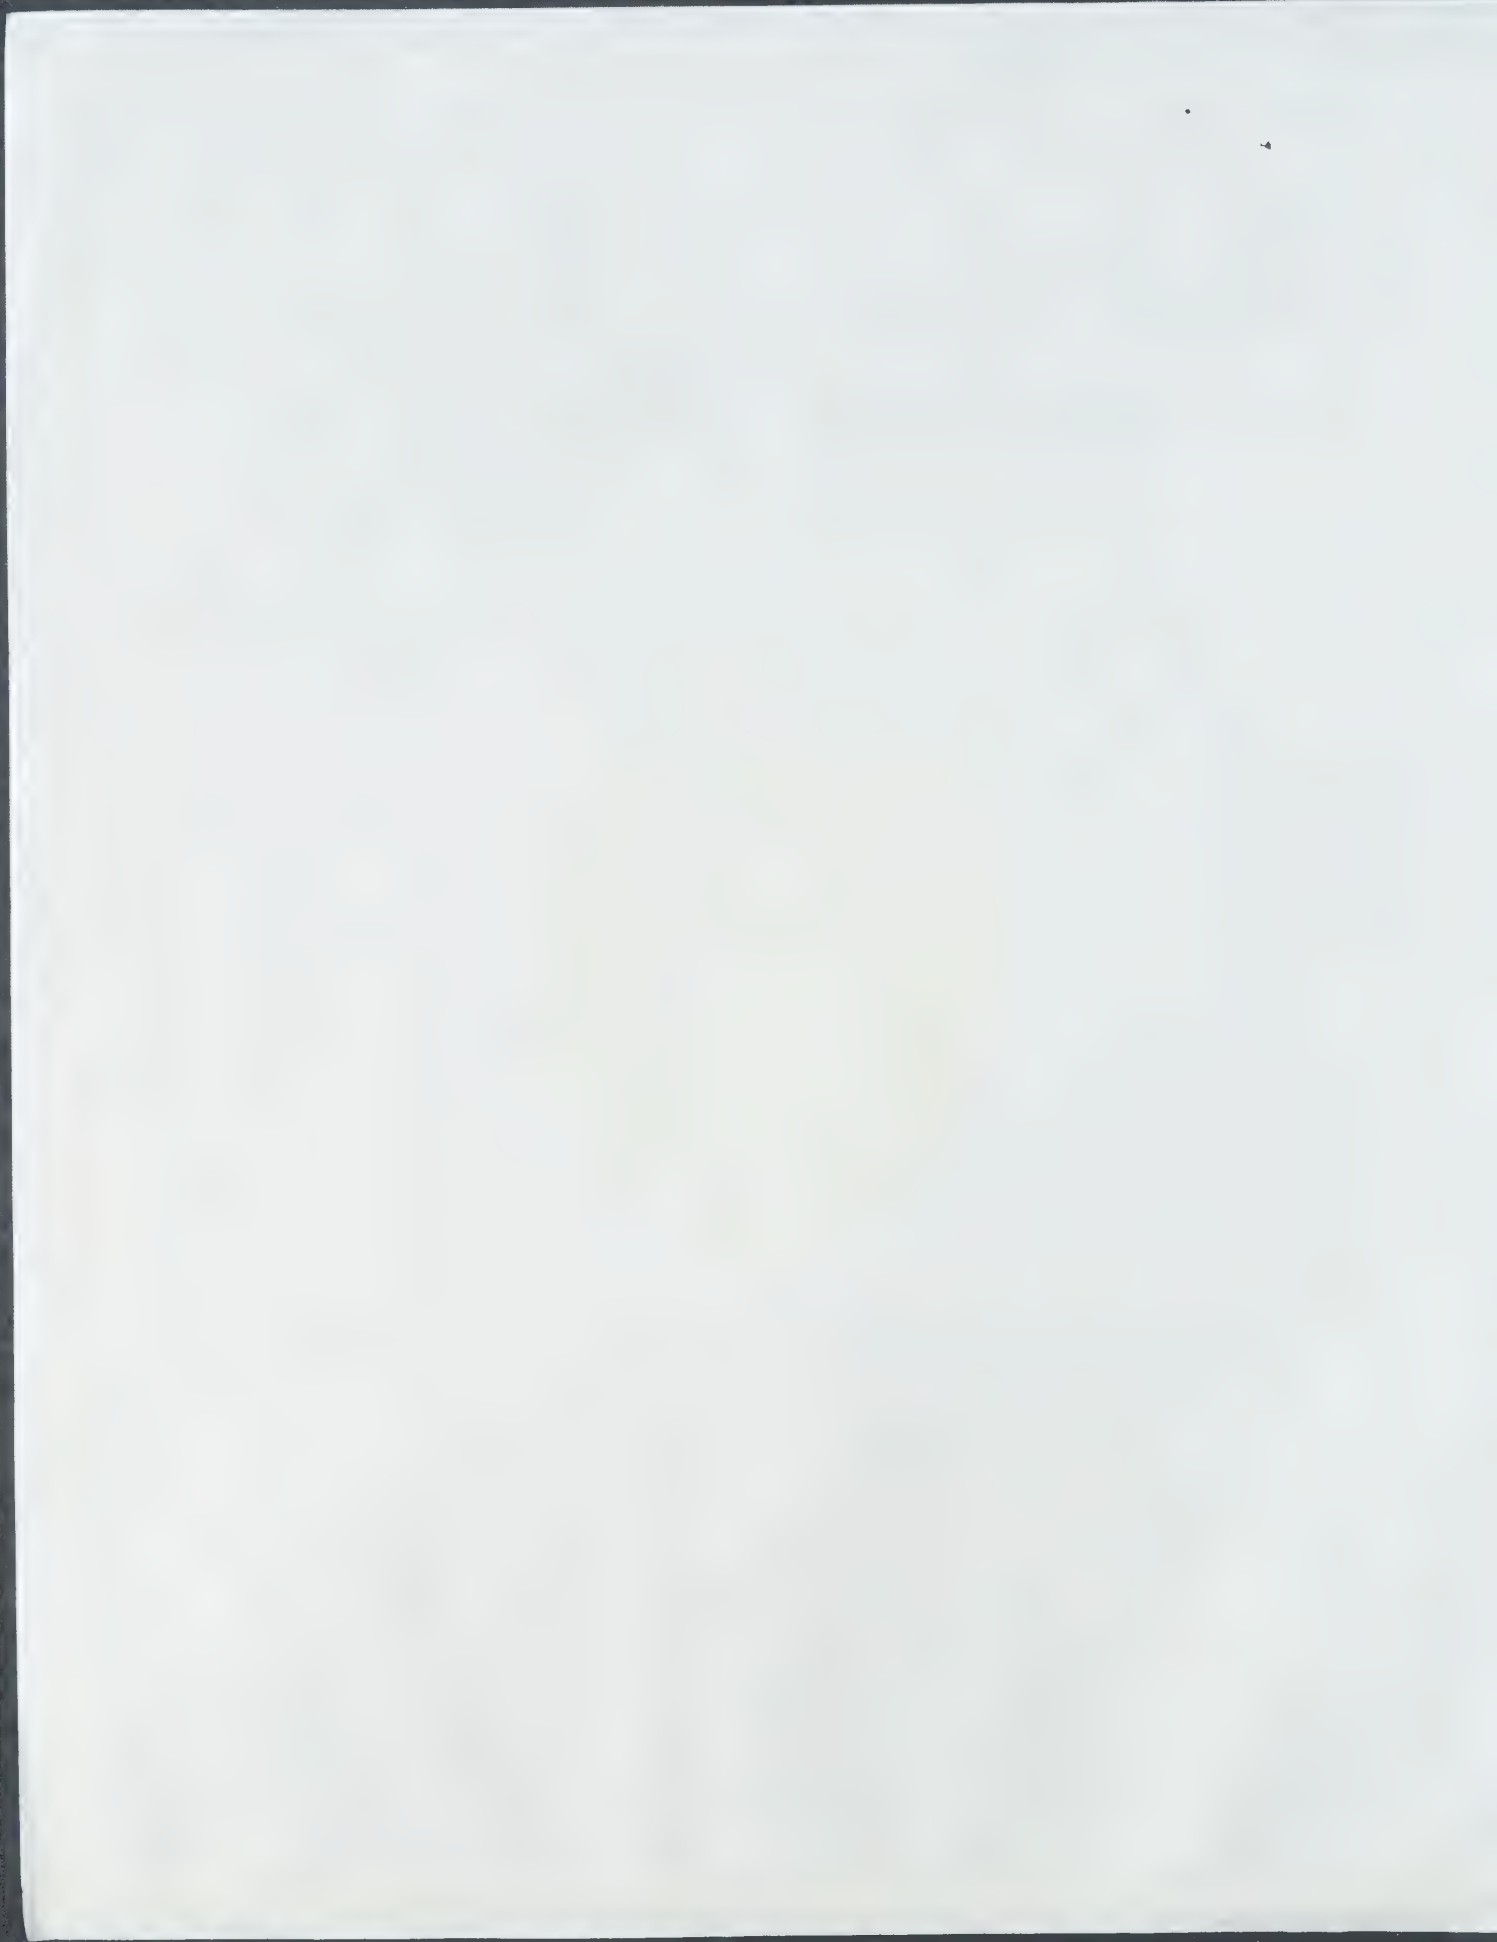

I was the fortunate recipient of the Alfred Bader International Study Bursary. Receiving the Bursary was a shock and a delight. This money was much needed and will alleviate a substantial amount of my financial burden.

I hope one day I could meet you personally to thank you for establishing the Alfred Bader International Study Bursary and choosing me as a recipient

Thankyou very much

Dear Mr. Bader,

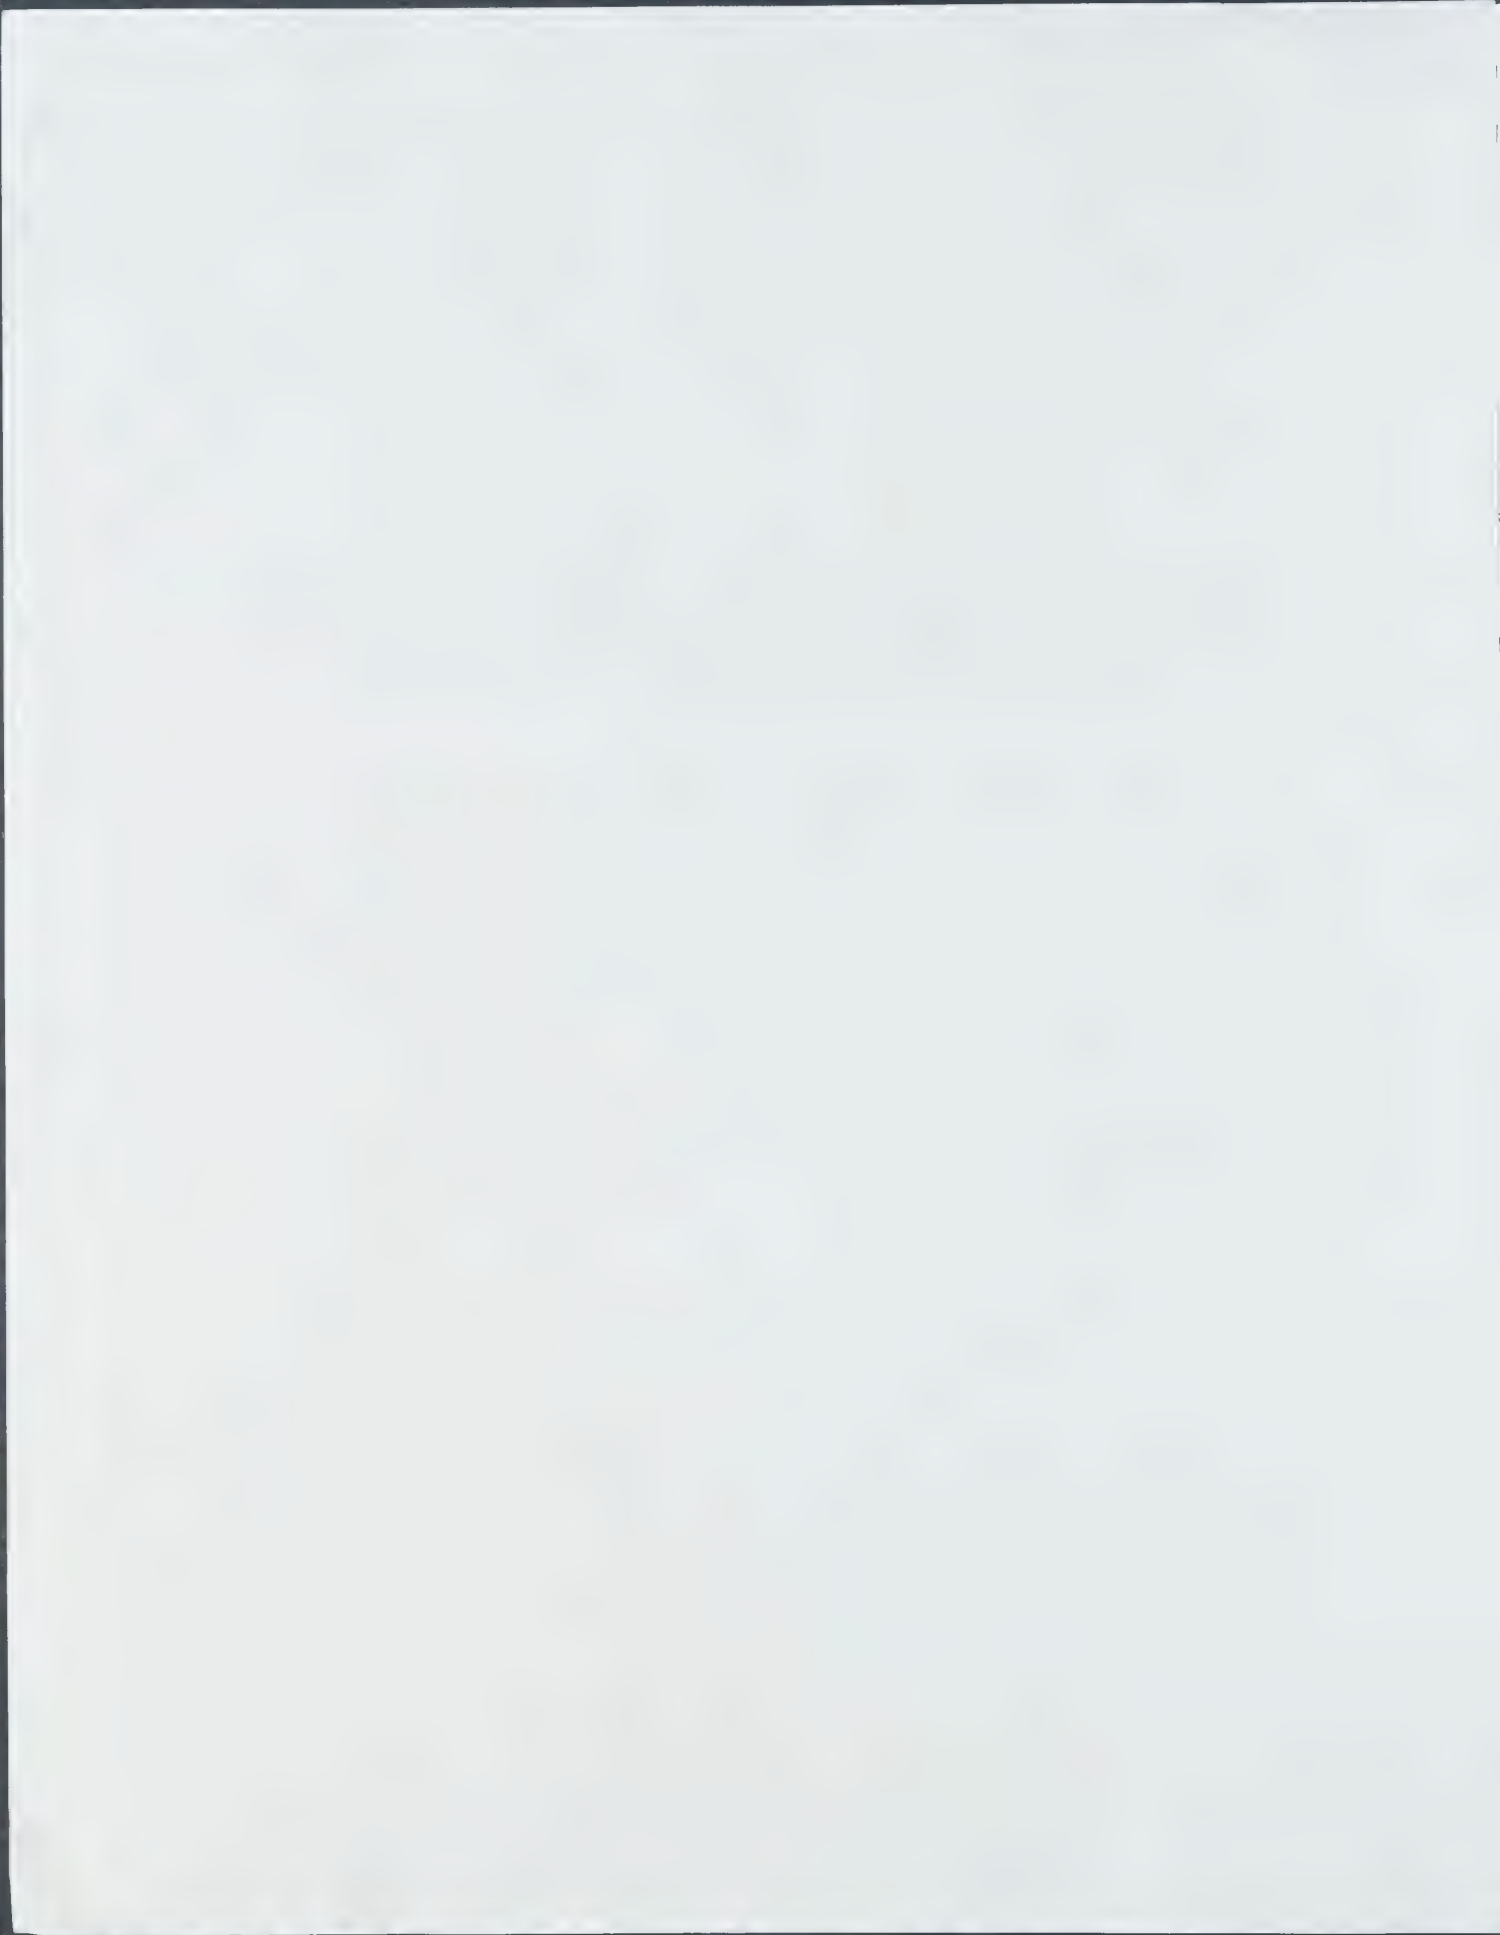

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself. My name is Melissa Lee and I am a third year political studies student at Queen's University. I am writing this letter to you to express thanks, on behalf of myself and my parents, for being chosen as one of the recipients of the Alfred Bader International Study Centre Award.

I will be attending Herstmonceux during the winter 1997 term and I am looking forward to this experience. Despite the costs, I feel that studying for a term at Herstmonceux is the opportunity of a lifetime, an opportunity I could not afford to pass up. I plan on studying hard while at the castle, but I also look forward to enjoying some of England's many historic sites. I have always wanted to travel to England and attending Herstmonceux will allow me to do this, along with continuing my education at such an exciting facility.

Thank you again for the award. I look forward to the opportunity of meeting both you and your wife should you travel to Herstmonceux during the winter 1997 term.

Yours Truly,

Dear Dr. Bader:

Thank-you very much for the generous monetary award of $3750. It is an honor to be chosen as the recipient of a DR. ALFRED BADER STUDY AWARD.

Unfortunately, I will not be able to accept, as I am currently not in the financial position to attend Herstmonceux Castle. I have already notified Queen's University, so that they may reallocate these funds to someone that will be able to use them.

Once again, thank-you for your consideration.

Dear Dr. and Mrs. Bader,

I am genuinely honoured to get the opportunity to speak to you. My name is Kathleen Coventry and I am a third year Honours History student at Wilfrid Laurier University. I am currently eagerly anticipating my departure for Herstmonceux Castle on September 4th.

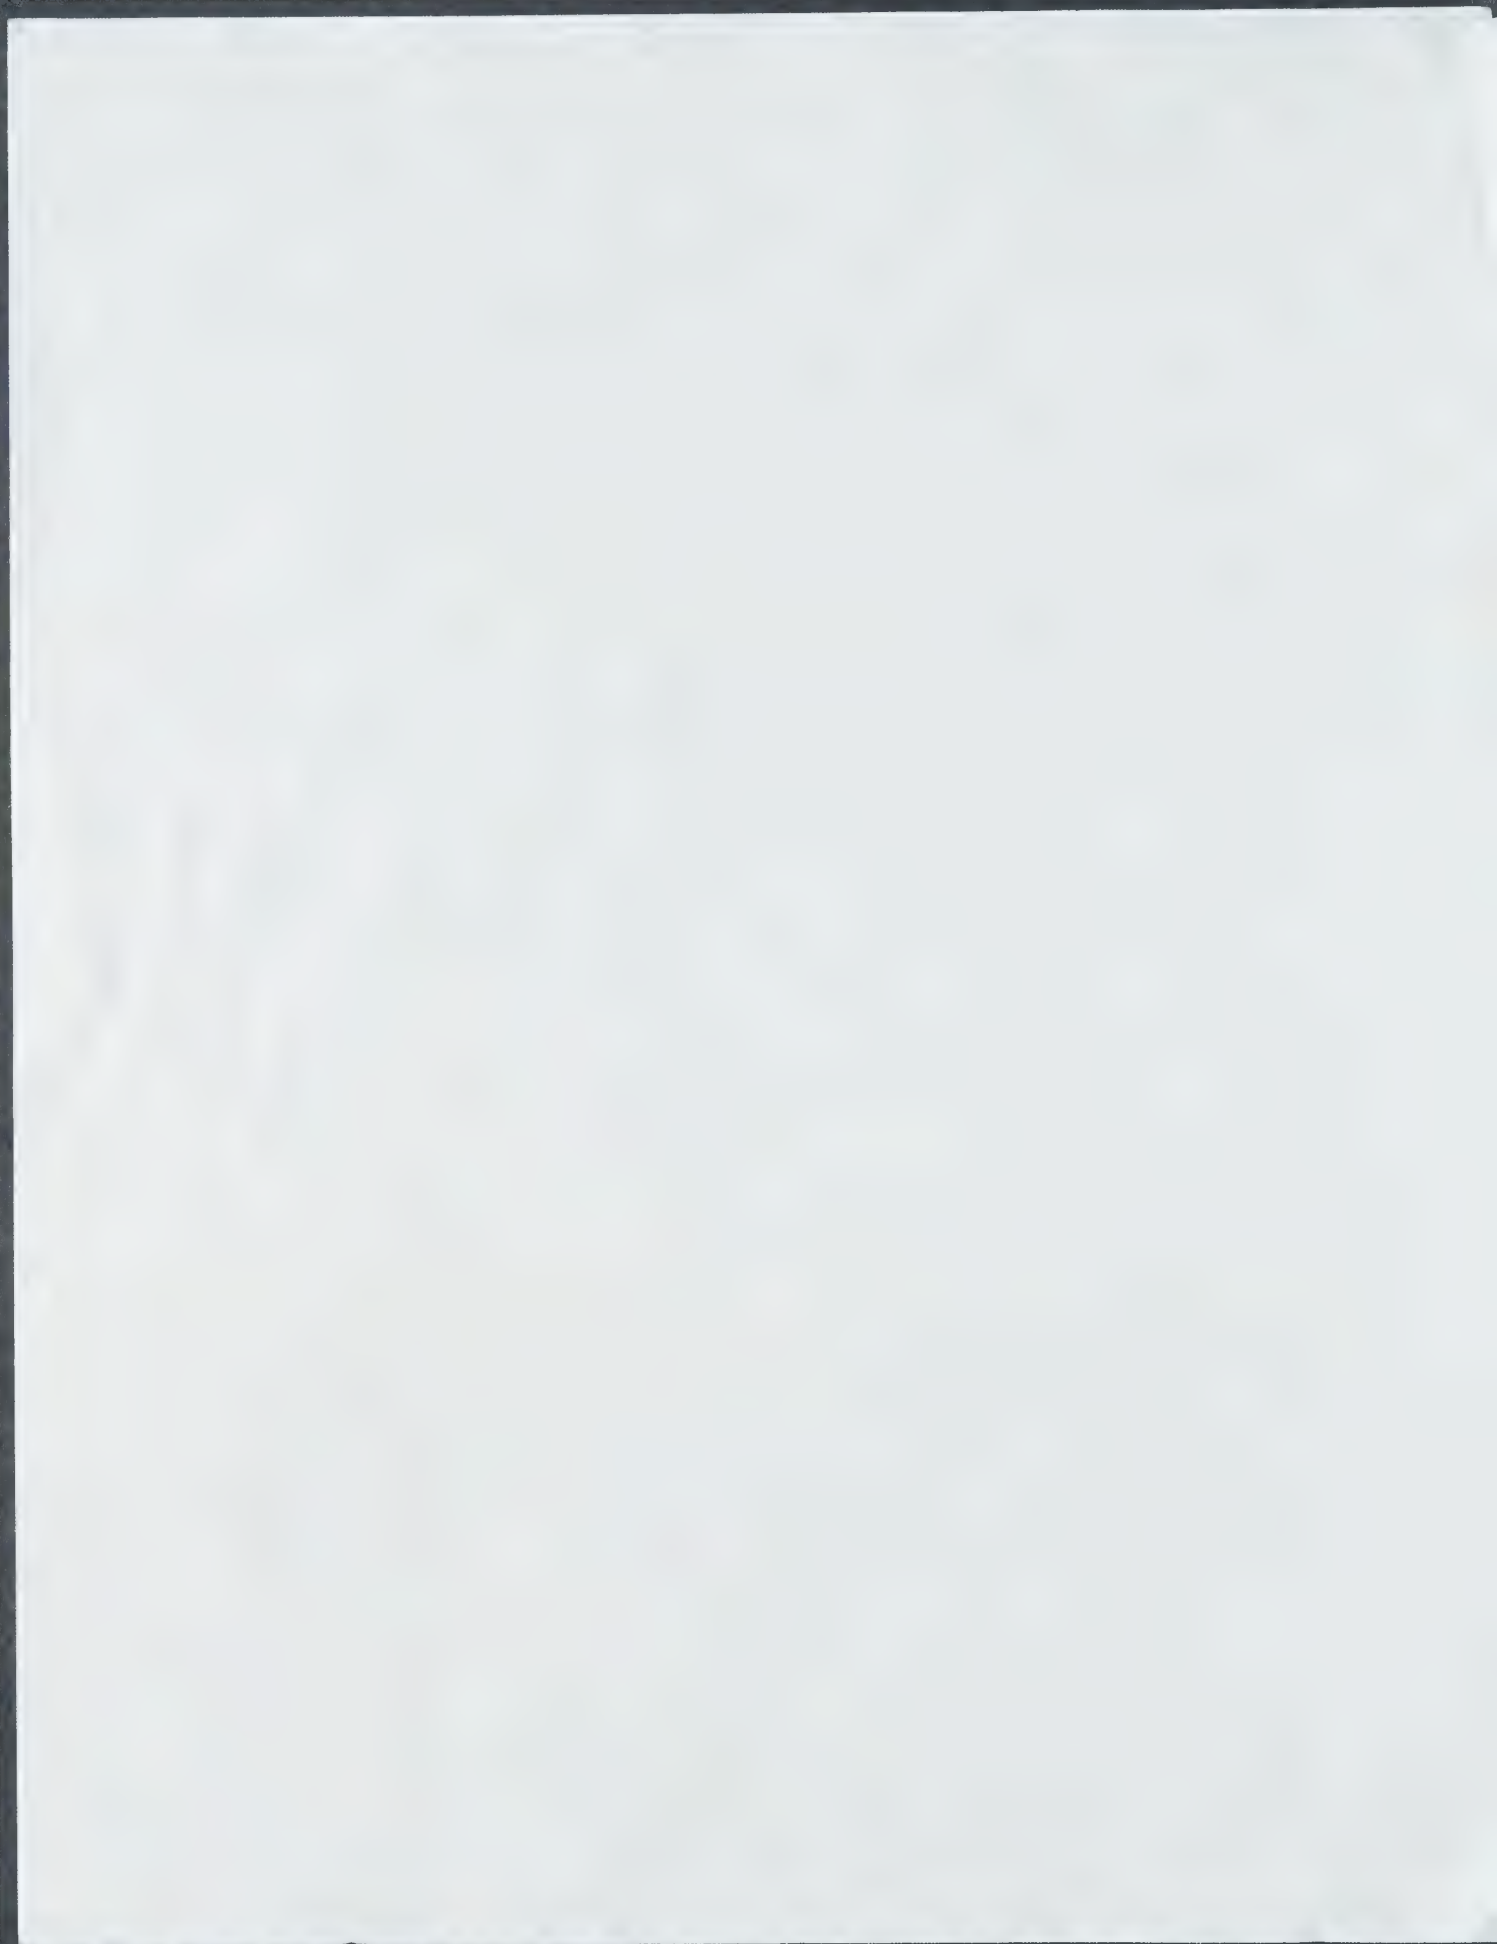

I would firstly like to express my heartfelt gratitude to the both of you for your generous contribution to my upcoming trip. I recently found out that I was a recipient of the Alfred Bader International Study Bursary. The kindness and selflessness that has accompanied your actions in regards to the Castle is something that should really be commended. I hope that you realize how much it is appreciated by not only bursary recipients, but also anyone whose life has been in anyway touched by a Castle experience.

Having two brothers who just recently graduated from Queen's, I feel very connected to the Queen's environment. When the opportunity to study at Herstmonceux was presented to me by my history professor Terry Copp, it seemed almost too good to be true. Now that it is almost a reality I feel privileged to be sharing in such a unique and wonderful opportunity. My parents have always stressed to my brothers and I the benefits of travelling to different places, meeting new people, and learning about different ways of life. I am so excited to be getting the opportunity to do all of these things through my Castle experience.

Without the two of you, this would never have been possible. A simple "thank you" seems insufficient, but please accept it with my sincere gratitude. I look forward to one day meeting the both of you in person and saying that thank you face to face. Until then, I will definitely write and let you know about how my study term in England is going. Once again, thanks so much for giving me this generous gift.

Yours Truly,

Kathleen Coventry

Dear Mr. Bader,

A short while ago I received the wonderful news that I had been chosen to receive $2,700.00 from the Alfred Bader International Study Bursary. Needless to say I was overjoyed!

You will never know how much this bursary means to me or how much it will help me. It was like a load off my shoulders to know my tuition was taken care of. When I decided to attend Herstmonceux, I knew I would have to go the bill on my own. My parents are unable to help me at this time as my father's future at BCTel is a bit shaky. He will not lose his job thank God, but he will have to move wherever and whenever the company says. Many have lost their jobs since the company is cutting 2000 employees from the staff. My father is safe for now only because of his seniority. My only chance of going was by taking out a personal loan for the amount needed, and though my father had to co-sign, I alone am the one responsible for its payments.

Attending Herstmonceux--going to an area like Britain and studying art where it was inspired and created--is like a dream come true for me. Being that I will graduate in the next year or so, this is really my last chance to go as an undergraduate. I am very interested in the arts. I started off university with an English major (a degree which I have almost completed), but somewhere along the way my love for art took over. My only dilemma at this point is: Do I seek my Masters in Painting or in Art History???

The unexpected news that tuition at Herstmonceux would be raised by an extra $500.00 threw me into a financial panic. I had not planned for this. The money I've borrowed and saved is not just going towards attending Herstmonceux and I must budget for even more than the regular tuition and spending money. You see, I feel one must spend more than just four months to really experience another country and culture, and once I'm there I cannot justify a quick return. I really want to make this a learning experience for myself, both in terms of the Fine arts, and in terms of the culture which produced it.

After my four months of valuable education and learning at Herstmonceux, I plan to find a job and a place to room and board at in London. I have already inquired about visa arrangements and at least I will have my time at Herstmonceux to iron out many of the details. While there, I plan to research contemporary British art, sending back slides and reports on significant artists at work in England to the University of Lethbridge. This will count as an Independent study class under my professor Jeffrey Spalding at the U of L. I have told Queens' University that if they would like, I will gladly contribute any findings and research to their collections as well. On my return to Canada the following semester, I will give an informative lecture to the senior studio classes at the University of Lethbridge.

The only way I can manage this research is if I find a job that will help me support myself. This is why money for me is so crucial. Going to Herstmonceux would be enough, but why not try to reach as far as possible?

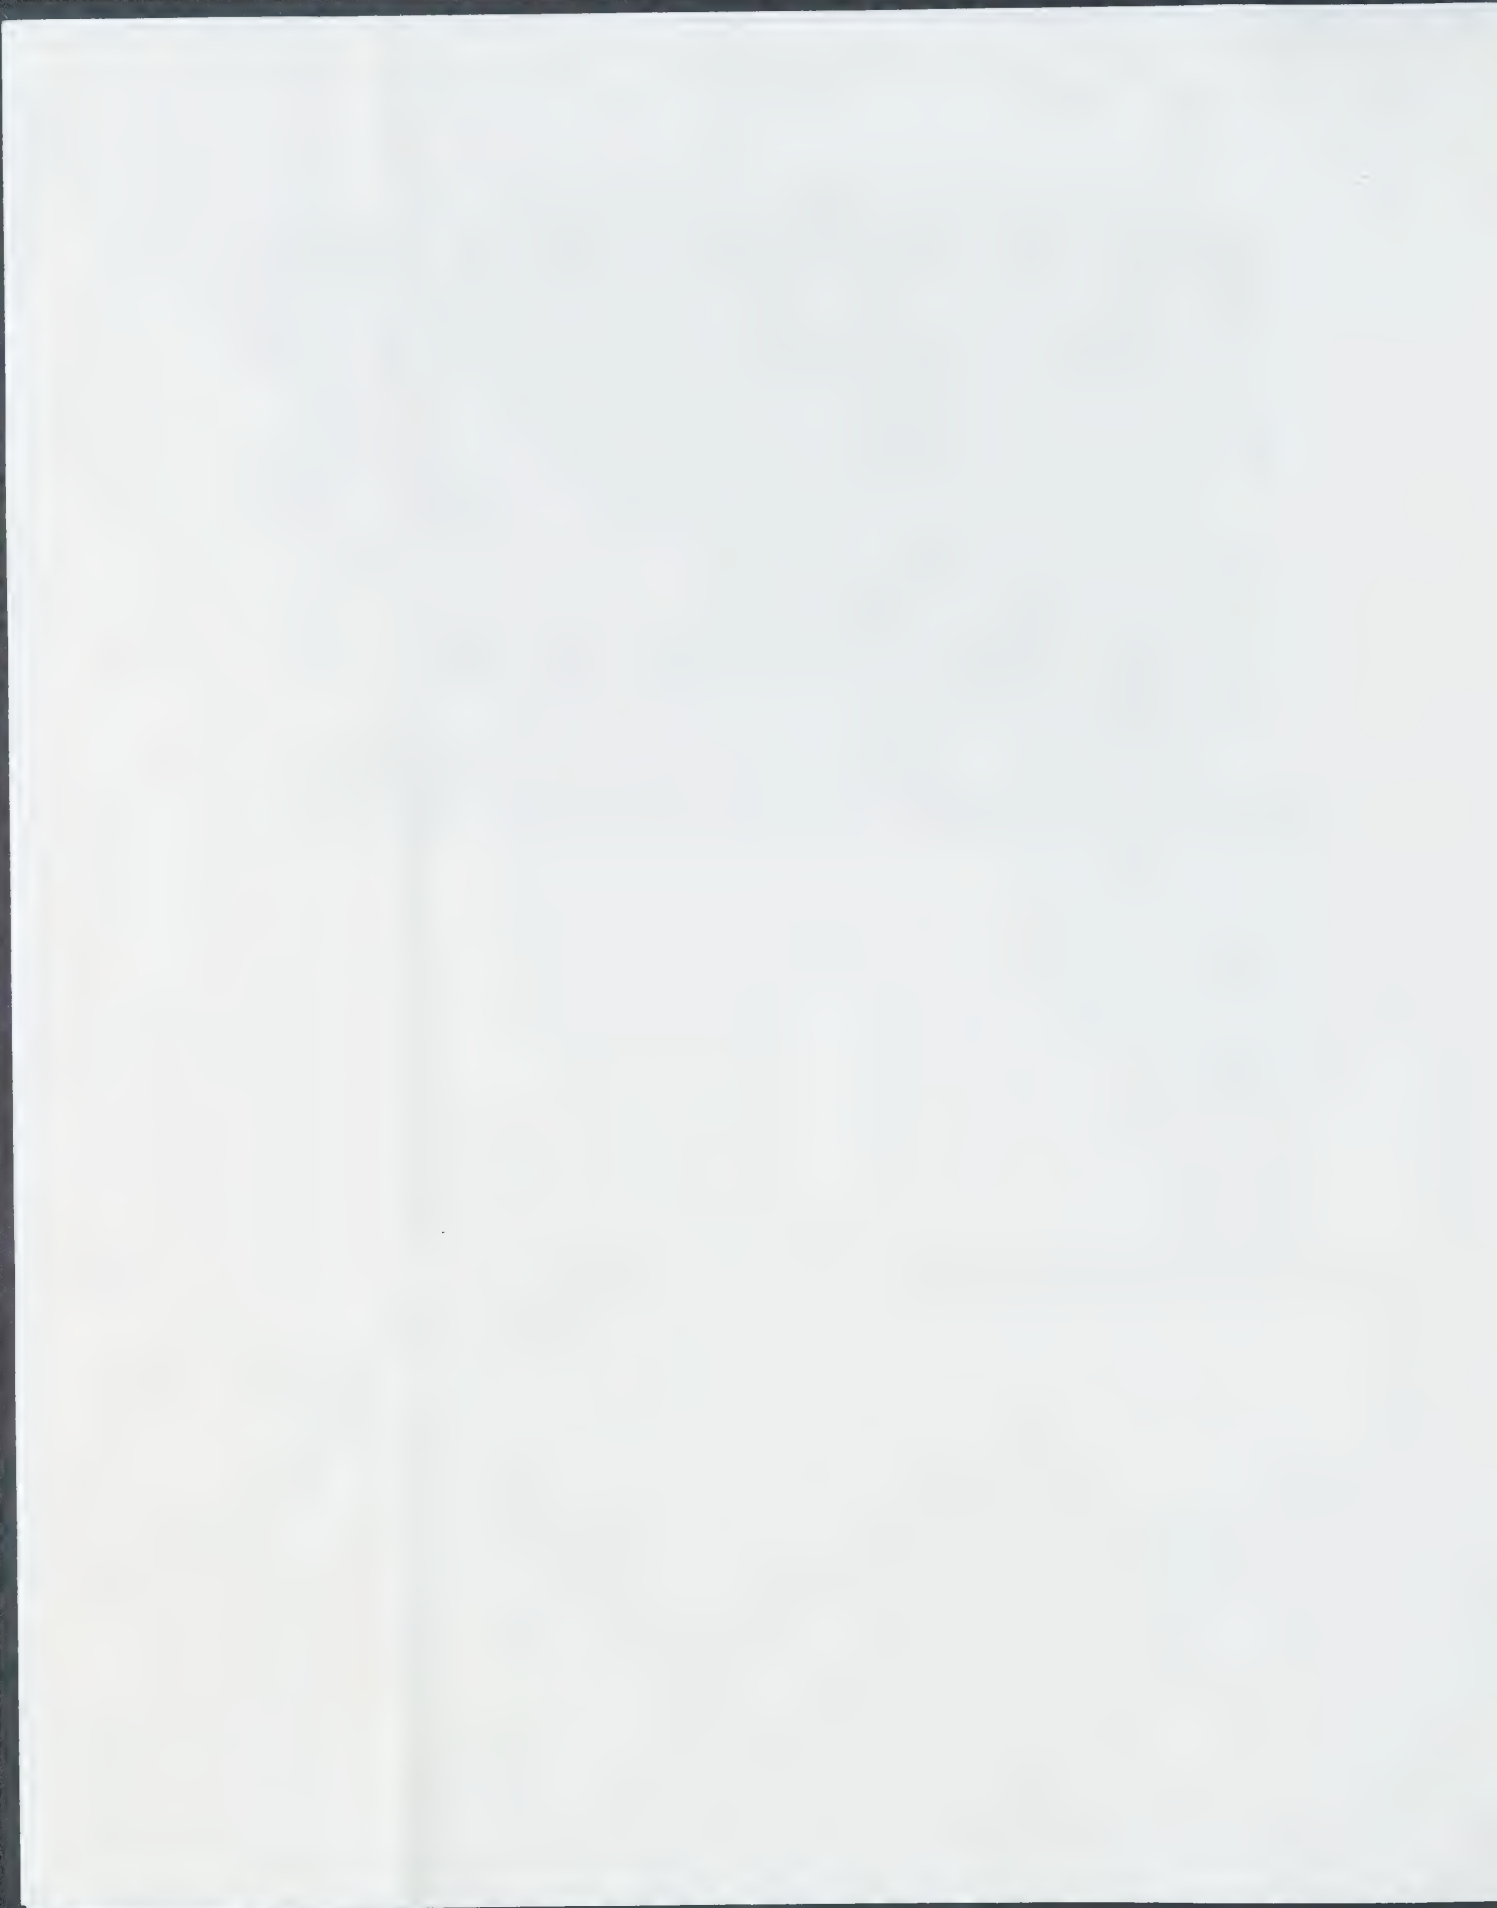

For my Master's degree I plan to apply for the Commonwealth Scholarship or the Queen Elizabeth Scholarship so that I may have the opportunity to study abroad once again--perhaps at the Glasgow School of Art and Design, or maybe somewhere in England. This trip now is definitely a step in the right direction for me.

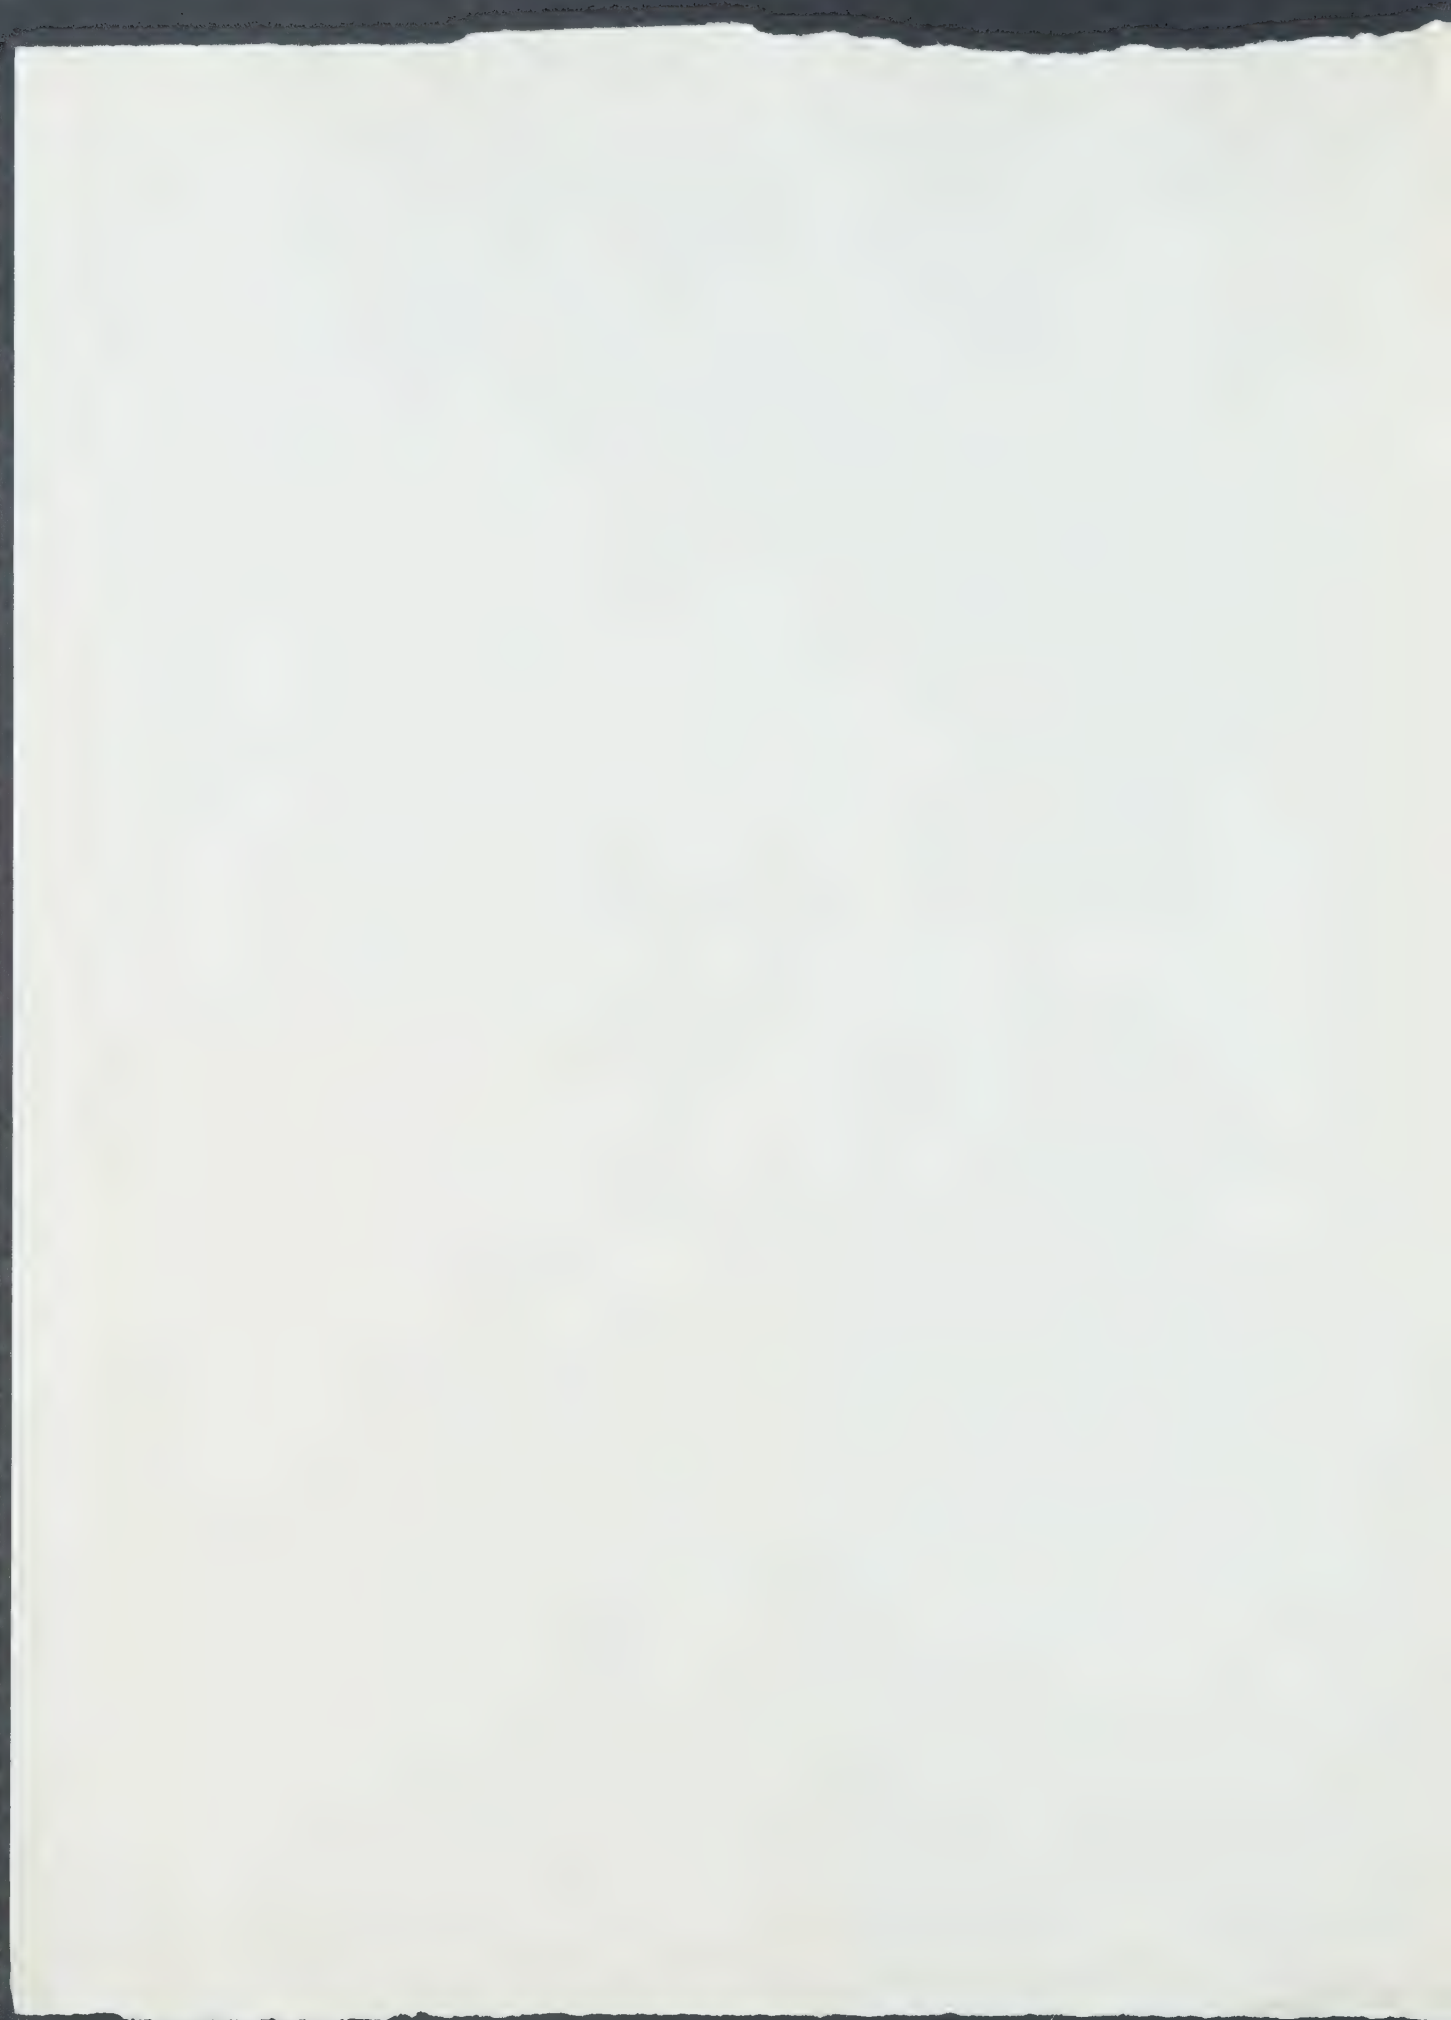

All this is to tell you how much I appreciate the award you've given me and to let you know it went to someone who really needed it. You made my day, my week, my month, and as it will probably turn out--my year. Thank-you so much for your generosity. I will never forget it.

Truly and Sincerely,

Tammy Izsak

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Bader,
c/o Queen's University,
Kingston, Ontario.

Dear Dr. and Mrs. Bader:

My wife, Wendy, and I wished to write to you both to express our appreciation not only on behalf of ourselves, but also our daughter who is currently at Herstmonceux.

We were very fortunate, in that we were able to spend seven days at the Castle visiting Beth as well as meeting all of the staff and participating in several tours and visits, including Battle.

We had an absolutely wonderful time and were quite impressed by the academic staff as well as the other staff at the Castle. It seems to be an absolutely wonderful experience for the students. It is certainly an opportunity for our family to have a taste of British life while at the same time having a first class education.

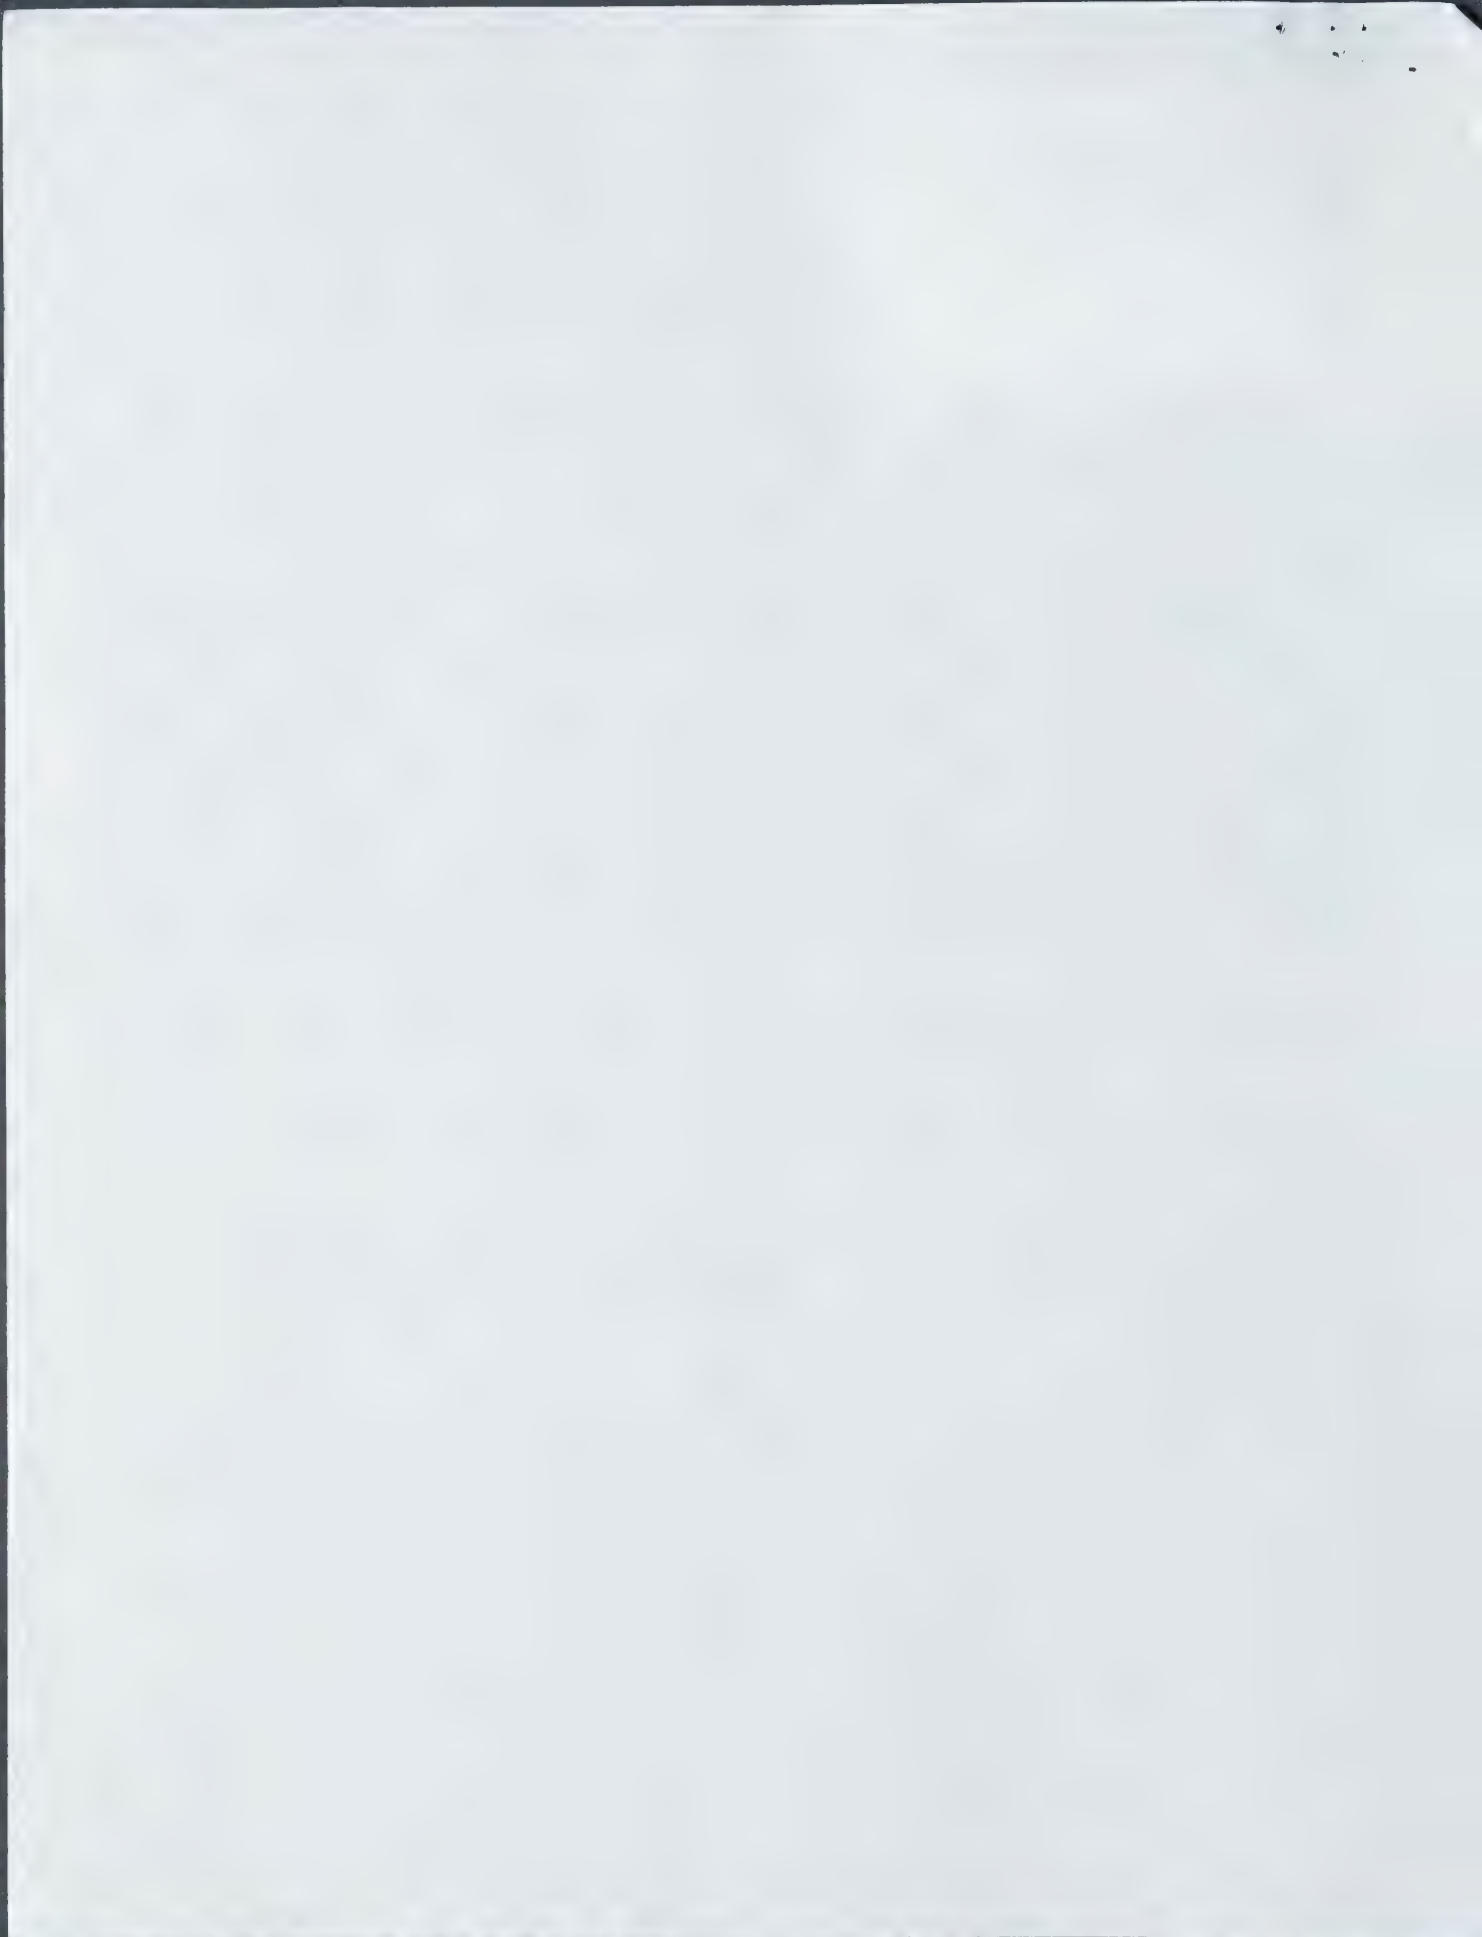

We were able to meet other parents as well visiting and speak with most of the students in this, the first semester at the Castle.

We can assure you that the students all appear to be inspired at the very least and very pleased with the unique opportunity that they have been given.

Wendy and I wish also to thank you directly for this extremely generous and thoughtful gift to Queen's University. We are both University of Western Ontario graduates, nevertheless, with two daughters at Queen's we have developed a strong affection for your Alma Mater.

Many thanks

I am writing in thanks for your generous invitation to the International Study Centre at Herstmonceux Castle and to me specifically. Your continuing efforts and charity have allowed the ISC to remain open to students like myself. The bursary awarded to me has made it possible for me to attend the Castle and afford a truly unique life experience.

I have never been abroad, so attending Herstmonceux is an immense experience. Friends and family, who have relatives abroad are predicting that I may never come back. Certainly, the European experience will open my eyes to more than the realities of Southern Ontario.

I have a friend who worked in London last summer. He visited the Castle on a tour and learned of its phantom residents but didn't really believe that they existed. He was convinced, however, that these really are ghosts at Herstmonceux because of all the pictures he took in England, the one he took inside the Castle was the only one not to turn out.

Thank you for helping myself and other students who would otherwise be unable to afford studying abroad. The Herstmonceux experience is one that I think every student should try to include in their studies, and one I'm sure will be with me the rest of my life.

Sincerely,

Gregory Stephens

Dear Doctor Bader,

I'm writing to thank you for your generous gift of a library to help us get to Hurstmonceux Castle. Your gift has made it possible for me to pay off my tuition and purchase a plane ticket - 2 things I would not have been able to do without your help.

Going to the castle was for the "centre" of my town for close to a year. When Queen's administration threatened to close the International Study Centre, I and two of my colleagues needed a fund campaign to rally for student and faculty support. Your gift of now combined with our campaign helped to convince the administration that Hurstmonceux Castle is a valuable asset to Queen's University. I feel proud to know that I played a small part in keeping Hurstmonceux Castle open.

... Let it be.

I am now eagerly looking forward to my first look at this place that has played such a central role in my hopes & dreams for so long.

Thank you again for your gift.

Dear Dr. Suda -

Aug 16, 1996

Thank you so much for your generous donation to Queen's University! Queen's contacted me this week to inform me that I am receiving a $3100 bursary to attend Hestermonceux Castle for the fall term. This money is a wonderful gift and I was so happy to be given this opportunity of a lifetime. Only last week I was facing the prospect of not returning to Queen's this year because of family financial difficulties; this week I am anticipating a term in England and a chance to join my family there also! I really appreciate your generosity.

Dear Dr Bader,

I am writing to express my sincerest gratitude for your contribution to my upcoming semester at International Study Centre's Herstoncoeur Castle.

I am currently completing a semester of study at The University of Melbourne, Australia - but I am a full time student at McGill University.

I know this will be a tremendous experience for me, and I would like to thank you for making this possible,

Best wishes,
Matthew Spring

Dear Dr. Bader

I am writing to express my appreciation for the International Study Award that I received for the fall session at the International Study Centre's Herstmonceux Castle. The money has helped me greatly in paying for tuition.

Yours Sincerely,
Audrey Chiu

Dear Dr. Bate;

I would firstly like to thank you enormously for the wonderful and most generous donation to Queen's International Study Centre.

I will be attending Herstonceux Castle in the winter '97 term and I have to say how excited I was to be informed that I received the Bate award for $2160.00.

I thank you most sincerely for your generous gift.

Thank You,

Yours Very Truly,
