Lieber Alfred

Ueber Denis Tschudin, der bei Aldrich einen Stage absolvieren durfte, bin ich an ein paar Seiten Deines Entwurfs zum Buch "Adventures of a Chemist Collector" herangekommen.

Vielleicht ist noch Zeit für Korrekturen; es liegt mir aber fern, etwas zu kritisieren.

Ich habe folgenden Kommentar:

Seite 1 "Suppliers"

"following a disastrous fire in their laboratories in Buchs."

der Brandfall war in St. Gallen, in der alten Mühle am Tivoliweg!

Page 2:

"He suffered deeply from depressions."

Könnte man das aus Rücksicht auf die Familie Vogel nicht etwas abschwächen? Zum Beispiel: "In his last years, he ..."

"Dissentiss"

richtig: Disentis

Page 4:

"Robert Küng, the computer manager"

ich war EDV-Leiter bis Mai 1984. 1988/89 lautete die Funktion: Secretary of the Fluka management and president of Fluka Germany and Fluka France.

Es sind bekanntlich auch noch viele andere qualifizierte Mitarbeiter geblieben. Ich denke dabei vor allem an Herbert Vuilleumier, Oskar Keller, Urs Wild etc.

Nichts für ungut!

Mit freundlichen Grüßen

RE: Your errata sheet

Dear Professor Kauffman:

I am embarrassed about the three corrections which I have underlined heavily: Fredericton has no k. Glenn in Glenn Seaborg has 2 n's. And of course, I meant censured on page 172 and not censored. I should have known better. Dissintiss really is spelled with 4 s's, or at least so Mr. Vogel assured me.

Quite a few of the others point to the difference between British and American spelling. Please keep in mind that this was published in Britain. We did opt for American spelling in words like color but in the many instances, like in the spelling of modeling, counseled, traveling, etcetera where Webster's Dictionary says that both are acceptable, we opted for the British spelling.

I have seen anti-semitism spelled either way.

Best wishes,

AB/cw

Dear Professor Kauffman:

Thank you so much for your letter of June 1st.

This reply will have to be very much shorter than I would like it to be, but we are just leaving for a long trip to England and the Continent from which we will not return until July 28th. It seems to me that a short reply now is better than a long one so much delayed.

What a terrible disease CFS must be, and I do hope that these attacks do not happen very frequently.

C&E News is likely to have the book reviewed, particularly as the ACS will be distributing it. Perhaps someone very close to them wanted to have a chance.

Your review is certainly wonderful, and there are very few improvements I can suggest. These are penciled in in red on your copy, which I return, and detailed on the enclosed.

It would certainly be great if Angewandte Chemie published your review in full, both in German and English. I have not kept a daily journal, as Glenn Seaborg has done, but I am a great collector of papers and not just Isabel's 408 letters.

The similarities in the important dates in your and my life are really amazing.

Thank you so much for the many reprints which I will study with great care this summer. Many, of course, I have read before, and that is why I so wanted you to review the book.

I must tell you that I was just sick when I looked over your correspondence with Bob Lyle. No one could have put your case any better than you did in the last paragraphs of your letter of September 6, 1994. All I can say is that I am happy that I am not a member of Alpha Chi Sigma.

You probably know better than I do that the ACS does not do a very good job publishing and marketing books. I have enjoyed reading many of those small autobiographies by eminent chemists of today, but the ACS charges over $30 for these books. My autobiography is distributed in this country by Trafalgar Square at $25.00, and Trafalgar is giving the ACS a 50% discount so that I hope that it will do a good job distributing the book, also at $25.00.

For The Hexagon to turn you down after all the work you did and for the ACS to suggest a $20,000 subsidy is chutspah<sup>2</sup>.

Our foundations, the Helen Bader Foundation and the Isabel and Alfred Bader Foundation, try to help people, and I enclose the last Helen Bader Foundation annual report. We did give $300,000 to the ACS for Project SEED II, but this is for disadvantaged people, not for a book the ACS should be proud to publish.

Of course, I know how hard it is to raise money - see pp. 269-271.

Incidentally, I was particularly interested in your two papers on Anschütz.

Did you know that there will be a Loschmidt Symposium in Vienna? If not, the enclosed program will interest you.

With many thanks and all good wishes to you and Laurie, I remain,

Yours sincerely and hurriedly,

AB/cw

The industry's own statistics I see that the 1974-75 season was a very good one for the industry. I have reported on this in my report on the industry's performance in 1974-75. The industry's own statistics show that the industry's production was 10% higher than in 1973-74. This is a very good result, especially in view of the fact that the industry's production was 10% lower than in 1972-73.

QUERIES ABOUT YOUR 11-PAGE REVIEW:

Page 1:

The book is distributed by Trafalgar Square in the United States, priced at U.S. $25.00. I will inquire what the DM price is and let you know.

Four lines from the bottom of P.1:

Isabel and I were separated between 1949 and our marriage in 1982, more than a quarter of a century.

Page 4:

It took me about two and a half years to get my Ph.D. I started in September 1947, left Harvard in December 1949, and then was awarded the degree, in absentia, in March 1950.

Line 3 of P.4:

"Hatred of Christians" is not quite correct. I don't recall hating a single Christian because he was a Christian, but I did hate the hypocrisy by which Christianity preaches love and did what it did.

Last line of P.4:

$400 per month was the lowest received by any Harvard Ph.D. in chemistry. In other fields, salaries might have been even lower.

Page 5/Line 6:

Bexhill is spelled with an i.

Last line of P.5:

Danny and I were divorced in July 1981, and Isabel and I married exactly six months and one day later, in January 1982. In Wisconsin, one cannot get married within six months of a divorce, and the extra day was added because - for reasons you surely know - we wanted to get married on a Tuesday.

Please consider whether you want to write that "Bader divorced his wife". If Danny had not suggested the divorce, it would not have happened.

The Aldrich catalogue comes out every two years, but the Aldrichimica Acta is published three to four times per year.

Page 7: (cont'd)

Aldrich gives the funds annually to the ACS for the Aldrich Award in Organic Chemistry. The other awards, at the Royal Society of Chemistry, the Chemical Institute of Canada and the Czech Chemical Society, are given by the societies from the interest earned by the capital which I, not Aldrich nor Sigma-Aldrich, gave to the societies. Similarly, I gave the capital to the ACS for the Bader Award in Bioorganic/Inorganic Chemistry.

Four lines from the bottom of P.7:

Sigma-Aldrich's sales in 1994 were $851 million.

Page 8/Line 3:

The ABC Library, now renamed the Sigma-Aldrich Library, numbers over 60,000 compounds now.

Five lines from the bottom of P.8:

Queen's does have a small art museum, and we hope that they will build a very large extension for which we have given them U.S. $2 million as seed money.

As you will see from page 157, paragraph 1, I was paid in 1991, but agreed to work without salary beginning in 1992.

Line 8 of P.10:

I never sold any Sigma-Aldrich stock, though I did sell Aldrich stock in the two stock offerings in the 1960's. Regarding the percentages of stock sold by David Harvey and Peter Gleich, I enclose the relevant proxy statement showing the percentages. (Each sold about 10% of his stock.)

I wish that you were right when saying that I reacted with sorrow, regret, and concern rather than with anger. But I must tell you that I was angry. Of course, I think very highly of the company and many of its people, but I was angry with Tom, David and - in a way - even more with the directors who went along.

I fear that I overlooked some details, just as I overlooked the correct spellings of 'Fredericton' and 'Glenn'.

Professor William Pelletier
Department of Chemistry
University of Georgia
Athens, GA 30602-2556

Dear Bill:

Please accept my sincere thanks for your most helpful letter of September 26th, with many corrections to my autobiography.

The first printing was of 10,000, and so far, 6,000 have been sold, mainly in Britain and in Canada. The ACS is only just beginning to sell it, and if all 10,000 sell, then there will be a second printing with corrections.

If you will check page 102, you will note that I didn't call tetrodotoxin a 'fungus poison', but a fugus poison, which is a term used by Professor Bonnett. The Merck Index refers to it as a fugu poison, and so perhaps the 's' should be left out. And of course, tetrodotoxin is misspelled in the second paragraph on page 102.

I just hope that I will have occasion to make the corrections.

Let me also write to you about another matter in which I so appreciate your help. I am just delighted that you have gotten to know John Whalley and are purchasing some of his paintings. You will have realized from Chapter 20 that I really tried to help him and was flabbergasted when I realized one evening in Eau Claire that he resented being what he called 'indentured' to me. Since then he has really painted very little, despite our trying to encourage him. Your encouragement undoubtedly means more to him than mine.

What worries me the most is that while his new output is competent, it really is no improvement on his work of five to ten years ago. In fact, his very best paintings, as you know, were done in the early '80's and not in the '90's. He keeps harking back to the same subjects, except that in some of his works in pencil, he turns out enormous machines. These would sell if he were a famous painter, but not now.

Professor William Pelletier
September 28, 1995

I know that you will want to encourage him to paint more, and he will listen more carefully to you than to me.

With all good wishes, I remain,

Dear Alfred:

I have just finished reading your autobiography for the second time. The second reading was just as enjoyable as the first. It is a wonderful book – interesting, informative, and inspiring. And the finale of your and Isabel's wonderful gift to Queens University to purchase Herstmonceux Castle for a foreign studies program is breathtaking. What a role model you both are for young people! I hope your book goes into several printings.

I noticed a few very minor errors you may wish to consider correcting in a future edition. I hope I do not offend you by pointing these out. But I know you are a perfectionist and want everything just right. As a natural products chemist, I noted the following:

Page 59, par. 2, line 3: "Akenylphenols smelled; the indoles structurally related to skatols, skunks' revenge, stank". Skatole ( $\beta$ -methylindole) is not the odoriferous principal in skunk's excretion. The latter consists of a mixture of low molecular weight mercaptans, such as n-butyl mercaptan. Skatole is a repulsive smelling constituent of feces.

Page 102, par. 1, line 13: "...among the samples was enough tetrodotoxin, the fungus poison, to kill me and several thousand others". Tetrodotoxin is not a fungus poison. Rather it occurs in the ovaries and liver of the puffer fish (swellfish; Japanese: fugu), Spheroides rubripes and S. vermicularis. It has also been isolated from the goby fish (Gobius criniger, from Taiwan and from the California newt Taricha torosa, as well as several other newts. It also occurs in the skins of frogs of the genus Atelopus from Costa Rica.

I noted a few errors in the use of the verb "react" on:
p.58, par. 3, lines 2 and 3: "If only one could react these dienes..."
p.59, par. 3, line 5: "...which had been reacted with phenol..."
p.117, par 3, line 3: "...I could react phenol with isobutylene..."

"React" is an intransitive verb only, and therefore can not take an object. A compound "reacts", but one does not "react" the compound.

To quote from Robert Schoenfeld's The Chemist's English. Weinheim: VCH, 1985, p. 150:

"X reacts with Y" is correct;

"X was reacted with Y" is incorrect and must be replaced by "X was treated with Y", or "X was caused to react with Y".

Also L. F. Fieser and Mary Fieser, Style Guide for Chemists, New York: Reinhold Publishing Corporation, 1960, pp. 9-10:

3.2. Intransitive verbs (cannot have an object and cannot have a passive voice).

autoxidize
effervesce
fall

flow react

The only verb in this list that causes trouble is react. Grammarians regard the verb as intransitive and frown on "Baeyer reacted phenol with aldehydes" ("Baeyer studied the reaction of phenol with aldehydes") and "The alkaloid was reacted with one equivalent of . . . ." ("was allowed to react with . . . .", "was caused to react with . . . .", or "was treated with"). Agreed. And if react is intransitive, it has no passive voice and the word unreacted is incorrect: ". . . .recovered only unreacted hydrocarbon." Fortunately, technically correct substitutes are available: unchanged, unaltered.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

S. W. Pelletier

Dear Professor Ellis:

Thank you so much for your thoughtful and helpful letter of September 26th.

I don't know whether there will be second printing of my book. The first printing was of 10,000, and so far, 6,000 have sold. If there is a second printing, I will certainly try and incorporate your valuable corrections.

Unfortunately, I know so little about military matters and simply confused O.B.E. with D.S.O.

Major Kippen (as I knew him) was not a very pleasant fellow, but not nearly as bigoted as Lt. Col. H. Stetham, who faulted Queen's for accepting a number of youngsters from the internment camp. I noted that there are Stetham Barracks in the army camp near Kingston. Do I assume correctly that these barracks are not named after that Lt. Col. Stetham?

The reference to Sir Bertrand Russell on page 263 is taken directly from The New Yorker, and in a way, it is a relief to know that even a distinguished magazine such as The New Yorker can make mistakes.

I'm certainly no expert on the relationship between Christians and Jews, and I don't think that I could express my views any better than Kurt Rothschild did in the letter I quoted on pages 42 and 43 of my autobiography. The enclosed essay which deals just slightly with that subject may amuse you.

With all good wishes, I remain,

Dear Dr Bader

May I make a few comments on your book "Adventures of a Chemist Collector".

On page 31, you refer to the DSO going to Major Kippen. I thought that was wrong and enclose copies of five relevant pages.

Also, you refer to Lord Russell as "Sir" Bertrand Russell. As far as I can ascertain, Lord Russell was never knighted.

My overall comment is, that in a book of such excellence, I really wished that you had included a chapter or two on your views of the Jewish and Christian religions in our present North-American culture. Perhaps you have done so elsewhere in which case I'd very much like a copy of any such essay.

Please accept my sincere congratulations on your outstanding auto-biography.

Dear Professor Ellis,

We have received your letter of 7 September last requesting information on a Major "F.D.P. Kippen". I enclose some information that shows that this man's initials were in fact E[ric] D[ouglas] B[ruce] Kippen, that he was in charge of a number of Internment camps during the Second World War, and that he received the O.B.E. for his efforts (not the DSO, as you suggest). I hope that you find this information useful.

Foreword

The Distinguished Service Order - Commissioned Officers appointed to the Order must first have been honourably MENTIONED IN DESPATCHES for "Meritorious or Distinguished service in the field, or before the enemy." Because of this condition precedent, detailed citations are not commonly available. The standing of this award is frequently the only indication of the calibre of service being recognised.

In the process of research and compilation of material for their recent publications, listing awards of the Distinguished Conduct Medal and of the Military Cross, to members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, it was inevitable that David Riddle and Donald Mitchell became motivated to produce this complementary roll of distinguished Canadian Officers.

Again, congratulations and thanks for the reminder of our nation's heritage of military merit.

Colonel (Ret'd) Douglas Ludlow, C.D.

Sehr geehrter Herr Dr. Pader!

Vielen Dank für Ihren Brief vom 21. September, in dem Sie über die Sammlung von Zeichnungen (Salomon - Tempel ...) schreiben. Es gibt tatsächlich unskwirliche Zufälle! Danke auch für den Tip, mich mit Prof. V. Manieth, Queens--University in Verbindung zu setzen. Ich werde das demnächst tun.

Während meines Urlaubs in Kärnten habe ich Ihr Buch sorgfältig gelesen und wiederholt auch ausführlich mit Dr. Rosner diskutiert.
Ich finde es sehr genau und geschrieben und habe jetzt noch viel mehr Respekt vor Ihnen als vor der Lehrerin des "Adventures".

Das wäre eine tolle Sache, wenn man es auch auf deutsch herausbringen könnte. Haben Sie das je überlegt?

Sie auch immer: Als Ergänzung für unsere Zeitschrift (→ Radiosendung "Alfred Pader -
- ein Portrait...") ist das Buch ideal.

Ein paar Kleinigkeiten, die vom Verlag übersehen würden, sind mir aufgefallen. Ich hoffe, Sie sind mit mir nicht böse, daß ich Sie damit vielleicht "nerve", aber vielleicht ist es für die 2. Auflage nützlich:

- S. 16: Ich bin kein Karl May - Kenner - aber: sollte man statt „old Shatterhand“ nicht „Old Shatterhand“ schreiben? Weil's doch ein Eigenname ist?
- -11- Michel-Katalog oder Mickl?
- S. 20 Hitzing statt Hietzing!

Ein paar Fragen habe ich auch noch:

- Trifft der Untertitel „Adventures of a chemist coll.“ nicht nur einen kleinen Teil ihrer Persönlichkeit?
Gab's seitens des Verlegers keine Alternativen?
..... a life full of adventures .....
... art, bible, demistry ... als Stichworte!

- Alles in allem: Ein tolles Buch,
auch für den Laien lesbar,
sehr informativ ... und vor allem
sehr menschlich.
Viele sollten es lesen - und könnten wohl einiges daraus lernen!

Im einzigen Tag, den ich Dr. Rosner treffen
- er wird mir den berühmten (Sigma)-Aldrich Katalog zeigen (Rosner: „Wenn Sie den nicht gesehen haben, dann können Sie gar nicht mitreden!“) und
i.a. auch über Sie plaudern. Ich grüße Sie sehr herzlich aus Wien, das unerbittlichermaßen von Hilswäutchen gleich weit entfernt ist, wie ungeliebt!
Herzliche Grüße
Nor Rüdiger Schmidt

PS: Die beteiligten Karl-May-Freunde können Sie beruhigen - Sie werden die Verkürzung
- als Knabe - vielleicht zusammenfassen, Sie sind aber das Sie der Verkürzung!
